Trudeau Warning in Vancouver:

Hesitation Can Hurt Unity

Provinces Unnamed, Powers Laid Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday all provinces must participate fully in the review of Canada's constitution if it is to be successful.

"Several provinces have already shown enthusiasm for the review," he told the Canadian Bar Association at its annual convention here. But, "others have appeared more hesitant, reluctant perhaps to embark whole-heartedly on a journey whose destination is uncertain."

Trudeau did not specify what provinces he regarded as hesitant.

In his first public speech since the June 25 general election, the prime minister repeated his view that Canada needs a strong federal government.

He also favored strong provincial governments, but "the fabric of Canadian unity can only be maintained if the essential powers of the government of Canada are maintained."

Among these essential powers, he listed:

- Regulation of economic policy.
- Redistribution of income between persons and between provinces.
- Equalization of opportunity for all Canadians.

Destruction Feared

- Protection of our national identity, both at home and abroad.

"I cannot envisage new constitutional arrangements which will destroy these powers," Trudeau said.

Trudeau said much hard work lies ahead in laying the groundwork for a bilingual state and in re-examining "some of the central institutions of federalism," such as the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

"For this reason, it is of the utmost importance that all governments engage fully in the discussions now under way. If they do not, the discussions will lack meaning, and their conclusions will lack authority.

"Worse still, if some provinces do not take an active part in the very difficult constitutional negotiations ahead, if they disclaim responsibility for the compromises reached, a climate of suspicion and mistrust may be created, which will make it impossible to achieve our common goal of national unity."

Trudeau repeated his hope of meeting the provincial premiers again this year, possibly in December. At the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in February, it was decided that the heads of the federal and provincial governments would meet again periodically to undertake a comprehensive review of the constitution.

Committee at Work

A permanent secretariat was established to serve this continuing conference and a special committee, preparing for the next meeting of the prime minister and the premiers, has also been at work.

Trudeau reiterated his intention to introduce an official languages bill at the next session of Parliament, which begins Sept. 12.

But he dismissed as nonsense "wild charges that the federal government is trying to make it compulsory for Canadians in all parts of the country to speak two languages."

The purpose of the languages bill would be "to ensure that the citizen will be able to use the official language of his choice", in dealing with the federal government. He said several provinces are planning similar steps.

If both major language groups are to have the fullest measure of freedom, "it is essential to work towards a properly functioning bilingual state," he said.

"In such a state, it will be necessary to speak two languages in order to qualify for some positions, just as it is necessary to be a member of the bar to practise law, or to have a driver's licence to drive a taxi.

"But the vast majority of Canadians will probably continue to speak only one language, and they will suffer no penalty.

Expansion Forecast

"On the contrary, whether they speak English or French, they will be able to deal with their governments, educate their children and exercise their full legal rights in their own language.

"This will be a major expansion of the freedom of the individual Canadian."

Trudeau said it may be difficult for an English-speaking Canadian to understand the fuss about language rights, because his right to express himself in his own language is not menaced or even questioned.

Yet, "there is no aspect of a person's life which so deeply and universally affects his feeling of personal freedom as his right to express himself in his own language," the prime minister asserted.

"Sometimes it is difficult for the members of an overwhelming and secure linguistic majority to realize the importance of this feeling.

"As English-speaking Canadians are in no danger of losing the right or the opportunity to use their language, they wonder why French-speaking Canadians are so concerned about such matters. Some of them come to believe that French-speaking Canadians are trying to impose their language on English-speaking Canadians, that they are trying to restrict the freedom of the members of the majority."

Human Rights Wanted In BNA Amendment

VANCOUVER (CP) — A section of the Canadian Bar Association Tuesday passed narrowly a resolution urging Ottawa and the provinces to amend the British North America Act to include a charter of human rights.

The vote was 23 to 20 and the resolution now goes before the association's resolution committee which decides if it will be submitted to a full session of the 2,300-delegate convention Friday.

It was the second important decision at the convention. Monday, after four years of considering the question, the association passed a resolution urging Ottawa to outlaw electronic eavesdropping except where specified by legislation.

Justice Minister Turner told the convention he hopes to tackle the question of legislation about "bugging" early next year.

Quakes Spread to Turkey

ISTANBUL (AP) — A strong earthquake struck northwestern Turkey on the Black Sea coast Tuesday, three days after a disastrous quake hit neighboring Iran killing many thousands of persons.

The Turkish interior ministry said at least 15 persons were killed and 200 injured in or near Bartin, a town of 14,300 inhabitants 200 miles northeast of here.

But a spokesman said the death toll might rise substantially when Turkish army rescue crews reach another seven towns and 74 villages in the quake area.

IN WIDE AREA

He said the tremor was felt in a wide area from Sivas, 560 miles southeast of Istanbul, to Edirne, 150 miles west of the capital.

Reports reaching here said 23 homes and a mosque collapsed, three minarets toppled and 108 buildings were heavily damaged in downtown Bartin. The town also had a power failure.

In Iran, meanwhile, rescuers recovered Tuesday the bodies of more than 300 earthquake victims killed when the makeshift hospital in which they were being treated collapsed at Ferdous Sunday.

MORE INTENSE

Saturday's initial quake claimed 1,500 of Ferdous's townspeople, but officials said the one Sunday was more intense there.

Hit far worse than Ferdous was the prosperous village of Kakhk, where at least 6,000 of the 7,000 population died.

The death toll throughout eastern Iran was estimated officially at 11,000 to 11,600 but Reuters news agency said officials fear the toll will rise to 20,000. Reuters said 50,000 are injured and 100,000 are homeless as aid pours in from many nations.

EPIDEMICS FEARED

Premier Amir Abbas Hoveida reported that rescuers were abandoning efforts to recover more bodies because of the danger of epidemics.

He ordered workers to level ruins with bulldozers, leaving the dead buried.

The shah was reported to have directed the government to begin planning for the gradual reconstruction of 50,000 to 60,000 villages, replacing traditional mud-brick houses with homes built of stronger materials.

Czech Deputy Resigns —Foreign Chief Next?

From AP, UPI

PRAGUE — Deputy Premier Otto Sik, father of Czechoslovakia's projected economic ties to the West, resigned Tuesday night and it appeared Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek might be the next to go.

Sik, who has been in Yugoslavia since before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 21, was a leader of the forces that ousted hardlining Communist Antonin Novotny as Communist party chief in January.

Hajek, also in Yugoslavia Aug. 21, was described by the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia as a man who worked for the Nazis during the Second World War and now is an ally of "the dark forces of reaction and counter-revolution."

Sik

But another article in Izvestia praised present party chief Alexander Dubcek as "a fighting soldier" and President Ludvik Svoboda as "a brave self-controlled officer."

★ ★ ★

And Frantisek Hamouz, newly-installed as deputy premier, said on Radio Prague he hoped Soviet troops would begin leaving "within the next few days" if Czechs stopped harassing them.

Other developments:

- The party elected a new, expanded presidium of 21 members — 10 liberals, two conservatives and nine of unknown leanings.
- Dubcek made a speech to the new presidium, blaming

Invasion Prospects Diminish

Romanians Sleep Better

BUCHAREST (AP)—Prospects of a Soviet invasion of Romania were reported diminishing Tuesday as both sides appeared to have called a truce in their feud over the five-power Soviet-led occupation of Czechslovakia.

Western diplomats said there was less apprehension in high government and Communist party circles now that the Soviet Union has formally denied rumors about plans for a military intervention.

"It seems that for the time being there are no prospects of an intervention," one diplomat said.

The regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu continued to observe silence in line with its policy of refraining from polemics.

Officials refused to indicate whether the government has received any Soviet assurances of non-intervention since the denials were made public in Washington and Paris.

The Communist-controlled press has toned down criticism of the invasion of Czechoslovakia while maintaining a low-keyed campaign by publishing declarations of support for the Ceausescu regime from party organizations, workers, collective peasants and intellectuals.

One rumor said Moscow, having shelved invasion plans, may decide to demand Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in Romania.

Western sources considered such a move unlikely, at least for the time being. Ceausescu has repeatedly made it clear he is unwilling to let the Russians in by the back door, and the Russians probably would not want to incur a rebuff.

Christmas Greeting

Postal Rates Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—Major changes in postal rates have been scheduled for Nov. 1 and others will be sought as soon as possible in Parliament, Postmaster-General Eric Kierans announced Tuesday.

The November changes bring the cost of a Christmas card to five cents from three cents. Postcards will be five cents instead of four. Biggest increases apply to direct-mail advertising.

The changes by legislation will increase letter rates and mailing costs of newspapers and magazines by unspecified amounts.

Along with the rate increases, new regulations will help speed up mail-room work. Effective Nov. 1, third-class and fourth-class mail will be established on a new basis.

COFFER BOOST

Kierans' statement said the changes will add $17,000,000 to federal revenue in the last five months of the current fiscal year, ending March 31, 1969.

In a full year they will mean an additional $35,000,000 in revenue and make third-class and fourth-class mail pay their way.

Hit hardest are the business firms which advertise heavily by circular.

NEW STANDARD

These circulars, along with Christmas cards and other greeting cards, fall under a new standard rate of five cents for the first two ounces instead of three cents.

The charge for each additional two ounces is increased to three cents from two cents and a weight limit of one pound is imposed.

The third-class bulk rate, for a minimum of 10,000 pieces, increases to four cents for the first two ounces from 2½ cents and for each additional two ounces the rate is doubled to three cents. A one-pound limit is also imposed on bulk mailings.

BOOKS, SAMPLES

Rate changes also apply to third-class samples and books mailed by publishers, book clubs and wholesale and retail distributors.

Postcards, a first-class item now four cents each, go to letter rate.

At present the letter rate is five cents, but there is every indication that letters will go to six cents in the intended government legislation.

HAZY AREA

The changes in classification clear up a hazy area between third-class mail and parcel post mail.

Instead of establishing the difference by the intent of the mailer, third-class mail will be defined as items of third and fourth classes weighing one pound or less. Parcel post items will be those weighing more than one pound.

Most important international rate change is an increase to 10 cents from eight cents in the cost of an air mail letter to the United States. The current rate on U.S. air mail letters addressed to Canada is 10 cents.

Kierans described the changes as "a giant step in long-range planning to move postal rates and mailing regulations from the traditional pattern to a modern commercial concept."

STRIKE ECHO

The increases applying to letter mails, newspapers and magazines would be sought "early" in the new session, he said.

The new structuring of postal rates followed the philosophy of cost recovery. Each class of mail and post office service was expected to pay its own way or accept its fair share of operating costs.

Until the rate changes, the 1968-69 post office deficit had been anticipated at about $60,000,000, taking into account the wage increases established with settlement of the recent postal strike.

Kierans aims to lop $17,000,000

B.C. Getting Another Pulp Mill

Japanese interests are planning a large pulp mill near Ashcroft, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said Tuesday.

He made the announcement after returning from a four-day trip to Japan where he said he had "very favorable meetings" in Tokyo with Bainbowa Paper Manufacturing and Marubeni Ida, a major trading company.

The two companies are partners in the venture, he said, but a group of smaller operators in the B.C. Interior would join them.

Traffic Law

Outsiders Still Ticketed

By IAN STREET

Tourists and other motorists from outside B.C. will still face court appearances and fines when most tickets for minor moving traffic offences are abolished throughout the province in 1969.

Superintendent of motor vehicles Ray Hadfield said Tuesday the new law, passed by the legislature last spring and due to come into effect initially in the County of Victoria Oct. 1, would apply only to drivers licensed in B.C.

TRIAL PERIOD

During the trial period, however, when the law will be proclaimed only on southern Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, any B.C. motorist can be issued with a violation notice instead of the regular traffic ticket, and have the minor offence listed on his driving record by the Motor Vehicle Branch.

It is expected that early next year, by which time officials hope the "bugs" in the new system will have been eliminated through the

Growing Up Joys Lose All Glamor

GORDE HUNTER Reports

Certainly I feel sorry for today's younger generation, although I must tack on a rider that this sympathy does not condone slovenly personal or living habits, draft dodging, the use of drugs and the disregard for authority.

I feel sorry for them because they missed the joys of the good old days and by good old days, I'm writing about growing up through the depression.

I'm sorry they had to be the offspring of parents who were conned by the permissive theories of Dr. Spock. These theories, plus the affluence of our society, have ruined more youngsters than the last big shooting war.

* * *

I'm sorry they never knew the unbridled joy of the moment when the head of the house ceremoniously doled out the five cent allowance. Or of the thrill of using that nickle for an afternoon of pure heaven at the local movie house. Today, they'd spit in your eye for even suggesting such a pittance. But we gained a better respect for money as a result and, for our parents.

I'm sorry they never knew a school system where the teacher was absolute boss and the principal the keeper of the strap. Sure the strap was good for erring students and dammit, we knew it. My psyche didn't suffer as a result.

I'm sorry they never really had the chance to play hockey and baseball and football on an unorganized basis. It was pick your sides and let 'er go. It was one street against another, one neighborhood against the adjoining neighborhood. No uniforms, very little good equipment, but great sportsmanship and intense competitive spirit. And better players. My Winnipeg street alone produced four National Hockey League players.

* * *

I'm sorry they missed the fun of caddying, because caddying today is an extinct pleasure except at far too few courses.

I'm sorry they never knew the hard work that went into getting the old man's car for an evening. It was a reward for tasks done during the week and meant something. Today the family auto, or autos, are loaned out as a matter of dull routine.

I'm sorry they missed out on neighborhoods where a move-out or a move-in was a rare happening. You were born and brought up in the same house. You knew the kids and their parents for literally blocks around. Today, increasing family affluence means moving to better and better neighborhoods. You're lucky to know the neighbors half-a-dozen houses down the street.

* * *

I'm sorry they missed the anticipation of the morning visit of the horse-drawn milk wagon on a steamy summer day. The milkman would throw out a chunk of ice and after it was broken up as fairly as possible, we'd spend the next half hour contentedly savoring the cool pleasure. And it didn't cost a cent.

I'm sorry too many of them have somehow missed the fun of a Saturday night dance where booze was not a requisite for a good time.

I'm sorry that being a good sport, or practising sportsmanship, has been lost to some degree. Schoolyard fights, while never savory, at least gave a boy a chance to get up when he was down. Today, don't let him up — kick him when he's down. A boy who used his feet in my school days was ostracized by the whole school community.

* * *

I'm sorry they've lost respect for the policeman on the corner. Yah, we were afraid of the corner cop, but we also respected him because our parents drummed it into us that he was there to protect us. Which he still is.

I'm sorry they've been afflicted, to a much greater degree, with the going steady craze. Unless something radically different has come up in boy, girl relationships, I've got to believe that playing the field was one devil of a lot more fun.

I'm sorry about the far greater number of teenage marriages. For the girls, a one week transition from homework to housework. I wonder if they realize how much living they're missing.

* * *

Yes, I'm sorry they missed the uncomplicated [illegible] of growing up in the largely uncomplicated Canada of the Thirties.

● Polish, Hungarian and Bulgarian troops began to leave Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia declined comment on reports it had moved troops toward its borders with Bulgaria and Hungary.

The new moves in Czechoslovakia came as the government prepared a censorship law.

It was reported to include strict measures such as a ban on reporting news from abroad other than official announcements and a ban on reporting on persons... meaning on any possible arrests.

Soviet forces began to leave some Czechoslovak public buildings Tuesday as national Communist leaders yielded to their demands.

A large encampment of tanks and armored cars occupied a park in the centre of Prague near St. Wenceslas Square.

The statue of St. Wenceslas — which became a symbol of opposition to the occupation troops when a 14-year-old boy was killed there — lost its guard of honor of young Czechoslovaks Tuesday when the Russians threatened to "clear the area" with tanks.

* * *

House numbers and street signs that were removed to confuse the invaders began to reappear and anti-Soviet slogans virtually disappeared to appease the Russians.

Deputy foreign trade minister F. Babacek reported trade conditions were "rapidly normalizing" and businesses were reopening.

* * *

There was no confirmation of reports circulating in Moscow of a meeting of the central committee of the Soviet party.

The Soviet foreign ministry declined to comment on the reports but observers said the party's policy-making body, the central committee, could be expected to meet to approve the sending of Soviet troops into Czechoslovakia.

An editorial in one of Moscow's many Communist party organs called for vigilance from the Soviet people and warned that events in Czechoslovakia "confirm the activeness of the aggressive factions of the intelligence organs of the imperialist states."

Tuesday, after Prime Minister Trudeau gave a speech on national unity, Turner said the planned official languages bill will include a provision for "an official language commissioner," who will enforce the statute.

Turner also said the bill will contain provisions for bilingual districts for federal purposes only.

He defined a district as "a creature of the map for federal purposes only; federal courts, federal buildings; federal officials within that would have to be able to deliver bilingual services."

The districts would be in areas where at least 10 per cent of the population is French-speaking.

Victoria area experience. It will be extended first to the Lower Mainland and then to the rest of the province.

There has been criticism of the government's move to give police the power to book a driver for a minor moving offence and have it chalked up on his record. A sufficient number of violation reports will lead to suspension of the driver's license.

However, the law states that motorists must be informed of violation notices and have the power to challenge the police officer's findings and elect a court appearance where a magistrate can rule on the validity of any charge.

Mr. Hadfield said in the case of all motorists licensed outside of the province, the old system of issuing traffic tickets, with court appearances and fines under the Summary Convictions Act, would remain in effect.

Pill Causing Vomiting?

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: How long does it take for a birth control pill to dissolve in the stomach? For example, if you take a pill and throw it up within 10 minutes, should you take another? Does that apply to all pills? — Mrs. L.G.

I feel a bit foolhardy even trying to answer this puzzler, but will try to give you some guidelines, however slight.

The absorption rate of any pill depends on the binding material used in it and the coating, if any. (Some pills are made deliberately so they will be absorbed gradually over a period of hours. Others are intended for immediate absorption.)

It usually takes more than 10 minutes for a pill to be dissolved and the ingredients absorbed.

The more important question, however, may be: why do you throw up the pill? Is it because of the pill? Or for some other reason? If this happens repeatedly, by all means see your doctor to find out why it is happening.

One immediate question would be whether you could see and identify the pill after it was thrown up. If so, you would have good evidence that it had not been absorbed, wouldn't you?

If you can't identify the pill, then you may have absorbed some or all of it, and I would hesitate to tell you to take another, because over-medication also is possible.

Best course would be to call your doctor. Knowing what the medication is, he can best judge whether to take another.

□

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you pick up tapeworm or worms of any kind from a pet cat? — M.P.

Transmission of parasites (except maybe fleas) from pets to human beings is so rare that we should almost ignore the thought. Most diseases are passed from person to person, not animal to person.

□

Note to Mrs. S.G.: An underactive thyroid can affect hair growth. Your daughter should have the tests that her doctor suggested.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Tonight and Tomorrow

FOR BALDING HEADS LIKE THESE, a "SAVE-YOUR-HAIR DAY" has been announced. As long as you have some hair, you have an excellent chance to grow thicker hair by new methods of home treatment.

SCALP SPECIALIST HERE TO DEMONSTRATE NEW HOME TREATMENT

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Wednesday and Thursday, September 4 and 5.

This news was released here today by Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In their announcement, they named staff trichologist Mr. Ian Edgar to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Edgar will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the hotel Executive House, 777 Douglas Street.

EXAMINE YOU

"I want to make it clear that you incur no obligation by seeing Mr. Edgar.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home Treatment, we will frankly tell you so.

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment. There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No. We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison trichologists hold clinics in all major cities across Canada.

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do. But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything'. So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Edgar in person. Learn how baldness can be corrected, and new hair grown. The new Harrison method permits you to actually correct your baldness and improve your hair in the privacy of your own home.

For an examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the hotel Executive House, Wednesday and Thursday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m., for Mr. Edgar's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. Examinations are given in private.

First Bikinians Return

Only Memories Survive 23 Blasts

By BYRON BAKER
Honolulu Star-Bulletin

BIKINI ATOLL (AP) — Nine men, representing 300 Bikini Islanders, came home Tuesday to this tiny island in the Marshall group that has been kept clear of human inhabitants for 22 years because of nuclear tests.

"It's all changed, it's not the same," one man murmured.

The others nodded silently in agreement.

Reminders of the violence of nuclear explosions were plentiful. A great concrete block house seemed to crouch among crumbling rubble and the blasted tree trunks near the shore. Farther back, in dense jungle growth, a giant communications tower reached skyward.

The last test blast here was in 1958.

What the nine saw was by no measure what they remembered.

They had been living on Rongerik or remote Kili while the United States 23 times unleashed nuclear explosions on this Pacific atoll 2,500 miles from Honolulu.

At a cemetery that survived the explosions the Bikinians and the party of U.S. Trust Territory officials commemorated the new life for this bomb-blitzed atoll.

"The island is changed and most of the trees are gone," said William R. Norwood, high commissioner of the Trust Territory of the Pacific. "But when we look at the quiet sea with its great abundance; when we see the beautiful beach and as we see more of the island we will more and more understand why people want to return to Bikini."

"The United States is planning to redevelop the atoll. Scientists say radiation levels have dropped to a point where it is again safe for habitation.

The Bikinians first moved to Rongerik Atoll in 1946. The migration was a failure. The fish in the lagoon proved to be poisonous.

They then were moved to Ujelang but had to look for another new home when the Marshallese living on Enewetok were shifted to Ujelang when Enewetok was to become a bomb testing site.

The next stop was a few months on Kwajalein until they were moved to Kili 20 years ago. The Bikinians still haven't been able to make a go of it on Kili.

Some weeks from now the engineers, agriculturists and technicians of the official party will tell budget officers what they found and what it will cost to send all the Bikinians home.

Executioner Executed

PORT HARCOURT (AP) — A Nigerian federal firing squad executed a lieutenant in the federal army who was convicted of shooting an unarmed young Biafran.

The lieutenant was arrested Monday after being identified by British television cameramen who filmed his shooting of a Biafran whose hands were tied behind his back. That shooting was shown Monday night to viewers in Britain.

British television cameras recorded the execution of the lieutenant by a four-man firing squad.

Nigeria Clears Way For Mercy Flights

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The federal Nigerian government agreed Tuesday to lift its blockade of secessionist Biafra temporarily to permit the International Red Cross to airlift food and medicine to thousands of civil war refugees starting Thursday.

The agreement, announced in the federal capital of Lagos, came as Nigerian forces continued an all-out offensive in the former Eastern Region of the country.

A federal army spokesman said Nigerian and Biafran troops were battling inside Aba, largest of the three major towns left to the secessionists.

FIRST WORD

The statement by Col. Benjamin A. Adekunle of the Nigerian 3rd Division was the first official word that federal troops had entered Aba.

The Red Cross agreement provides for an unlimited number of flights and planes in daylight hours during a 10-day period into the Biafran controlled airstrip of Uli-Ibiala.

The Red Cross and private groups have been flying food and medicine into Biafra at night. But these flights have been unable to provide more than a fraction of the supplies needed for the mass of civil war refugees threatened by disease and starvation.

FIRST FLIGHT

Immediately after announcement of the agreement, August Lindt, co-ordinator for the International Red Cross in West Africa, was reported to have left Lagos for the off-shore Spanish islands of Fernando Po from where he will lead the first mercy flight to Biafra.

The Biafran airstrip is in jungle, 35 miles northwest of Owerri, one of the last towns still in Biafran hands.

The Red Cross now has five planes ready to move supplies from Fernando Po.

Its total capacity in a combined flight is about 50 tons and it was expected the planes would move 2,400 tons in the 10 days.

On the war front, casualties were reported heavy on both sides in the fighting around Owerri, 50 miles northwest of Port Harcourt.

The third Biafran town, Umuahia, is 30 miles north of Aba. It is the headquarters of the Biafran leader, Lt.-Col. C. Odumegu Ojukwu.

The federal army was poised to take the lakeside town of Oguta in the northwest of the 3rd Division sector which virtually covers all of the southern area once claimed by Biafra.

Oguta controls the road to the airstrips which will be the destination of the Red Cross mercy flights from Fernando Po.

Aba, Owerri and Oguta will be in federal hands in a week, an army spokesman said.

This would be a major defeat for Biafra, whittling its original 30,000 square miles of territory to about 5,000 square miles.

Brazzaville Chief Still in Control?

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) —President Alphonse Massamba-Debat of the neighboring Congo Republic (Brazzaville) is still in office, but the question is: With what powers and for how long?

Capt. Marien Ngouabi, now the top political figure, said in a televised interview that Massamba-Debat remains as president after the fighting last Friday and Saturday.

But the political crisis in the former French colony continues and solutions are being sought, he added.

Massamba-Debat was reported Tuesday to be in his official residence but his name was dropped from newscasts, communiques and announcements over Radio Brazzaville.

The president has been blamed officially for a battle that is reported to have killed hundreds as members of the youth militia fought an order to disarm.

After a coup in early August, Ngouabi reinstated Massamba-Debat but shared power with him. During last weekend's fighting, Massamba-Debat was manacled and taken for a time to a military camp, military sources here said.

Grenades Hurled

Cong on Motorcycles Hurt Viet Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrilla grenades wounded 15 South Vietnamese here Tuesday. Police patrolled the streets in heavy numbers in an effort to thwart a further resurgence of communist attacks inside the capital.

The grenades went off in front of the headquarters of the U.S. Agency for International Development on one of the capital's busiest streets and four hours later in front of a bar in the city's dock area. No Americans were hurt.

South Vietnamese government and American forces in and around the capital had been warned to expect attacks on the 23rd anniversary celebration of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh's declaration of a republic.

The anniversary is being observed by North Vietnam through midnight Thursday night.

Hundreds of Americans were at work inside the eight-storey AID headquarters when the first grenade—thrown from a passing motorcycle—went off.

BUSY STREEET

Seven persons, including two women, were wounded by fragments that ripped into a crowd along the busy street.

Witnesses said the motorcycle, carrying two riders, sped away.

Four hours later, a second grenade exploded in the dock area across the Saigon River from the downtown heart of the city. Four men, two women and two children were injured. No arrests were reported.

Bombing Stop Sure Way Says Premier

HANOI (AFP) — Premier Pham Van Dong said in a statement released Monday that an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam "will have a positive effect on the seeking of a political settlement for the Vietnam problem."

The statement, describing a speech given Friday in the presence of President Ho Chi Minh and North Vietnamese leaders, also quotes Pham as saying:

POSITIVE EFFECT

"Moreover, we are raising a very just and well-founded demand which will have a positive effect on the seeking, step by step, of a political settlement for the Vietnam problem.

"That is, the U.S. must unconditionally stop its bombing and all other acts of war on the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's two top envoys at the Paris peace talks ruled out Monday night any chances of an early breakthrough towards a ceasefire.

Le Duc Tho, a member of the presidium of North Vietnam's Communist party, and Ambassador Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief negotiator, also told reporters separately they see no essential differences in the Vietnam policies adopted by the American Democratic and Republican presidential contenders.

Each talked informally with journalists at a hotel reception to mark the 23rd anniversary of North Vietnam's proclaimed independence.

Corruption Story Costly

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government Tuesday suspended a newspaper owned by its ambassador to the U.S. for printing an Associated Press story about Premier Tran Van Huong's anti-corruption campaign.

The government censored parts of the story from vernacular newspapers, the first time such censorship has been used since Huong was appointed premier four months ago.

A government spokesman said the AP story was "completely groundless and imaginary." But although Ambassador Bui Diem's English-language Saigon Post was suspended indefinitely, no action was taken against the Associated Press.

Panda Bear's Snores Hazard to Romance

LONDON (AP) — An-An snores, and 200 officials fear it may hinder efforts to mate the giant panda from Moscow with London's Chi-Chi.

The latest effort is actually a reconciliation attempt. Zoologists tried to mate the pair in 1966, but they failed and Chi-Chi was blamed for being frigid.

Chi-Chi the female, was coy in the panda's first meeting Monday after An-An arrived from the Soviet Union. But by midnight she was making moonlight love calls to her Russian boyfriend.

A London Zoo official said today: "Chi-Chi was calling to An-An for 10 minutes in the early hours. She was giving little bleats. They were most encouraging noises. But An-An slept soundly and snored."

Chi-Chi and An-An are the only giant pandas in captivity outside China.

British and Soviet matchmakers are keeping them apart with an eight-foot high chainlink fence until they decide the time is ripe for real lovemaking.

Message for Europe

IT WOULD BE MOST UNWISE to attempt to predict the outcome of the events in Eastern Europe which in the past few weeks have caused such consternation there and such bitter reaction abroad. But it has become apparent since the threatening gestures against Romania last Friday, with Russian troops massed close to the frontier of that little country, that in all the capitals directly involved an effort is being made to reduce tensions.

Several developments support this view. In Budapest, for example, the Hungarian foreign office has issued a statement to the effect that there is no reason for intervention by Warsaw Pact nations in Romania "as the regime there is not threatened" by any reactionary movement.

In Moscow the "inspired" press has softened its tone towards Czechoslovakia.

In Prague, following election of a new Communist Party presidium — still mainly liberal and loyal to party chief Alexander Dubcek—there has been an obvious effort to reassure the Kremlin as to the trends of future policy.

Mr. Dubcek has had to retreat from his courageously independent stand by admitting, according to report, that his government had not paid sufficient attention "to the opinions of other states in the Warsaw Pact as a limiting factor in the speed and forms of our own political development."

Possibly his greatest concession to Soviet demands, apart from the re-imposition of press censorship, is his indefinite postponement of the party congress scheduled for Sept. 9 at which it was proposed to purge orthodox conservative Communists still in office.

There is some evidence that the Kremlin, having imposed its will by a brutal exhibition of force and having sufficiently frightened its neighbors, may now try to impress them and angry critics by an affectation of tolerance. It is a little late.

Whatever happens, a clear and urgent message has been heard in Free Europe. It points the need for unity, and a demonstration, through co-operation, of its confidence in its own future and its ability to play a role in keeping with its resources and its spirit of freedom.

"Only on the basis of real political and economic unity," said Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson, "can our continent heal its divisions and regain . . . its rightful influence for peace."

It sounds much like the dream of Sir Winston Churchill.

The Eroding Dollar

THE CANADIAN DOLLAR has emerged unscathed from the two critical periods of last winter that followed the devaluation of the pound sterling and the U.S. restrictions on investment abroad, and in the past few months there has been a gradual movement towards a more normal money market.

This has been made possible mainly because Canada's export trade has been booming — except for grains — and a strong Canadian dollar is trading close to its upper limit on the New York money exchange.

The Bank of Canada, which is the government's voice in fiscal affairs, has given the lead in reducing interest rates from the extremely high levels of the past few months. It has dropped the central bank's rediscount rate first from 7 to 6½ per cent, and last weekend to 6 per cent.

The effect has been to bring down short term interest rates charged by banks and other financial institutions for consumer credit purposes by between 1 and 2 per cent from early summer.

The change in the money situation, however, is not so much based on economics as on politics. The Bank of Canada in addition to lowering the discount rate, has opened the purse strings, and has increased the money supply by $1,700,000,000 since May, thus with the stroke of a pen putting the banks once again in the position of having plenty of money to lend. The enormity of the money supply increase works out to 23 per cent on an annual basis.

There will be many who will argue that this is nothing more than an inflationary measure, while others will detect in it a desperate move by the new Trudeau government to stave off the threat of a recession, such as is now facing the United States.

Whatever the answer, easy money is not likely to affect the availability of capital for long term investment. As any institution or corporation knows to its cost, there has been very little easing of rates on capital not due for redemption for 15 or more years. Last week Ontario Hydro had to pay more than 7 per cent on a 25-year debenture, and it is one of Canada's best utilities creditwise.

These long term rates are not likely to decrease so long as the investing public does not trust the government's ability to keep inflation under control, and prevent capital erosion.

It is now estimated that the dollar loses two cents or more a year in purchasing value, and that over a period of 20 years — such as the life of a bond — this means a redemption in dollars worth little more than half the value of the 1968 dollar with which the bond was bought.

Long term bonds today can find a ready market only with a coupon paying sufficiently high interest to compensate for the 2 per cent loss annually in the dollar's purchasing value.

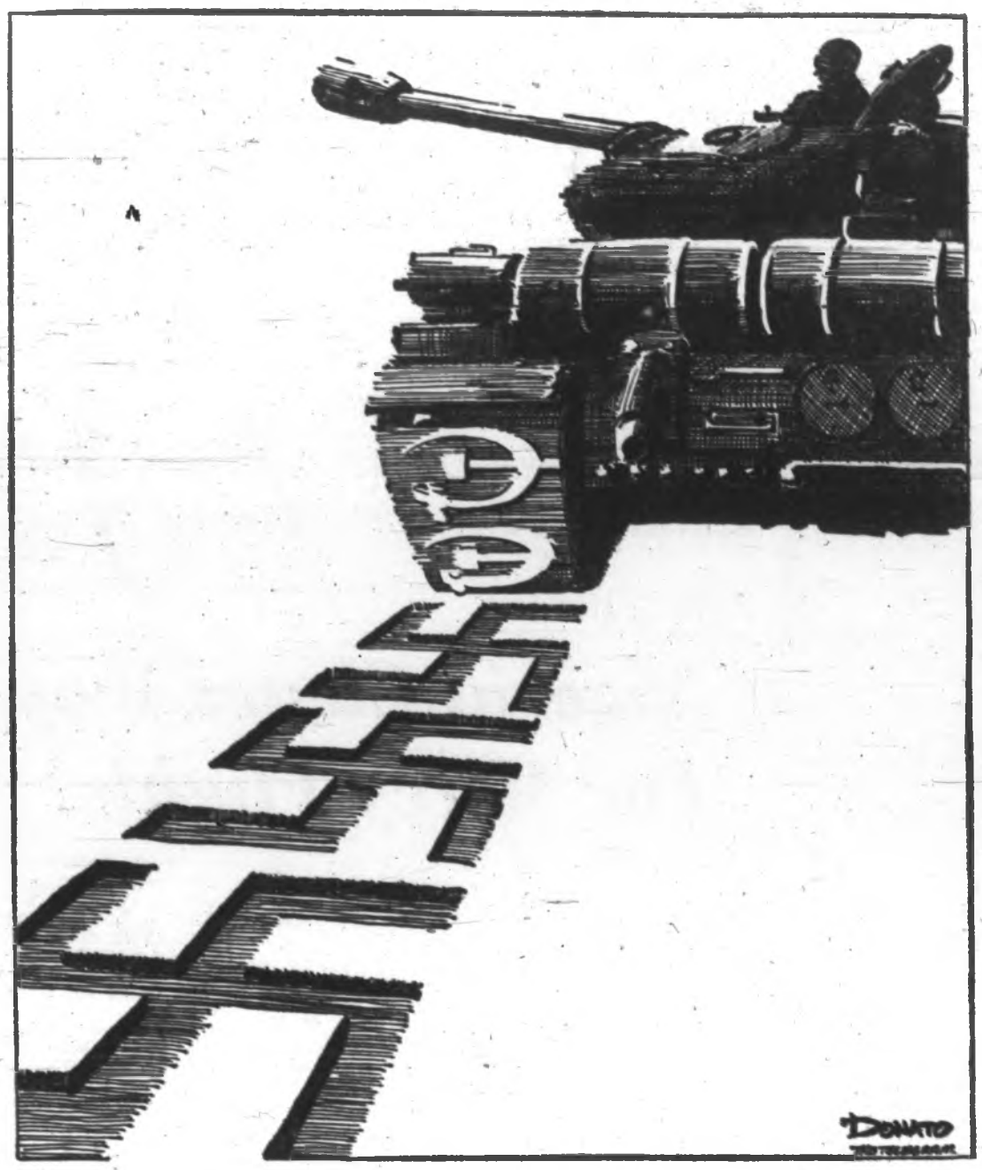

In these circumstances mortgage money at the old-time rates of between 5 and 6 per cent seem dreadfully remote, for no government, and least of all the Trudeau government, is going to oppose inflation — controlled inflation if you like — but inflation nevertheless.

Confusion

BY STATING that it would be a violation of the law for a developer to discharge septic tank effluent from a Salt Spring Island subdivision into Trincomali Channel without an approving certificate from his department, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has further confused the issue of departmental responsibility.

If this is so, why does the Pollution Control Board, which issued the permits for sewage discharge and which comes under the purview of the minister of resources, not insist on a health department certificate as one of the qualifications for a permit?

The system — or the rivalry for authority, as the case may be — needs straightening out. Premier Bennett is off to Europe for three weeks. But on his return, it would be helpful if he would tend to this job.

Ottawa Offbeat — By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Political Honeymoon for Trudeau is Over When Even Teeny-Boppers Don't Pursue Him

IT surely must have seemed that, as political love affairs go, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's was simply too hot to cool down.

Ever.

Remember the rose in the smiling teeth?

The teasing toss of the handsome, Roman-style sculpted head?

The wild infatuation?

Never in the coolly aloof and impersonal world of calculated political relations had there been such a torrid romance.

For "Pet," as the adoring infatuates affectionately called him, didn't even have to speak.

To appear was magic enough.

So he never really had to make a speech.

All he had to do was smile.

Election day, June 25, is only a short 10 weeks ago.

And what a difference they have made.

The fire of political passion burned so hot and high, perhaps a flame-out had to be the only way it could die.

But would you believe the ashes now are so cold that even the teeny-boppers, once so mad for his kisses, just can't be bothered?

Well, believe it. Because it's true.

Here in Ottawa, at last spring's Liberal leadership convention, is where it was in the beginning.

And now where it is ending.

Here it was, in the Ottawa suburban riding of Grenville-Dundas, now Grenville-Carleton, that the flame-out came.

Grenville-Carleton is a constituency like no other in the National Capital District. It has always gone Tory. Without fail. Never once deviating from its Conservative devotion.

Except this last time.

Then, the kiss-crazy teeny-boppers, the dedicated young activists, the Trudeaumaniacs swept through the riding.

Swept out Jean Wadds who, with her first husband, the late Clare Cameleman, MP before her, won and held it through 16 elections.

And swept in Gordon Blair, a first-time winner, for himself and for the Liberals in a riding that never had gone Grit.

★ ★ ★

In their hour of exultation they formed a Young Liberal Association. Bid all the thousands of National Capital Trudeaumaniacs welcome.

This, the newly-won Grenville-Carleton, was to be where-it's-at politically.

So they scheduled a whoop-and-holler founding convention. Invited the prime minister and the cabinet. Booked Senator Richard Stanbury, president of the National Liberal Federation, as their key-noter.

And hired a huge high school auditorium for the great political love-in.

Who showed up?

Senator Stanbury, of course, as the party president and guest speaker.

He could hardly get out of it, being the chief executive of the federation.

Senator Stanbury and 59 others — count 'em — young Liberals.

Their president, a Trudeau-look-alike, even to the sculpted hair-do, Geoffrey Larmonth, didn't try to conceal his disappointment.

Putting the best face on it he could, he told the faithful 59 that while the turnout might be a bit dismaying, they weren't to be downhearted, but pledge themselves to do better next time.

Senator Stanbury was a little more realistic.

They'd have to do better next time, he lectured them, for their kind of young get-up-and-go political activists was the lifeblood of the party.

Gordon Blair, the new MP, talked of the plague of post-election apathy, and as a cure suggested the Young Liberals keep him briefed on the regional and national issues and problems.

Sort of conscripted them as unofficial parliamentary executive assistants.

But imagine?

Barely 70 days after the election and only 59 Trudeaumaniacs bother to turn out for what was to have been the night-of-the-political-year in this the Pin-Up-Riding-Of-Them-All.

Is that any way to stay true to Trudy?

U.S. May Think a Second Time Before Cutting NATO Strength

By L. EDGAR PRINA
from Washington

CONGRESSIONAL demands for further reductions in U.S. military forces in Europe, which had been rising, are expected to wither away in the wake of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Other effects of the anti-Czech action, in the view of some defence officials here, will be a cooling of the dying Johnson administration's quest for a detente with Russia and a probable further delay of the proposed U.S.-Soviet talks aimed at slowing down the race in strategic offensive and defensive weapons.

Approximately 317,500 American servicemen are now assigned to Europe, according to the latest Pentagon figures.

This total includes 196,000 army troops, 82,500 air force men and 39,500 navy and marine corps personnel. The bulk of the navy and marine men are at sea with the Sixth Fleet.

Eight thousand army troops will be returned to the United States by the end of next month under present plans. This would reduce the U.S. army-in-Europe strength to 188,000, one of the lowest post-World War totals. The army reached a peak of strength in Europe in 1952 when it had 256,000 men there.

The 8,000 men are coming home under a plan approved last December by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Approximately 35,000 men already have been withdrawn from Europe this year. The prime reason for the withdrawal is the serious U.S. balance-of-payments deficit, which occurs when the outflow of dollars abroad exceeds the inflow.

In announcing the 33,000-man reduction last April, the Pentagon said it would save the United States about $75 million in gold annually, after the moving bills are paid.

The 1968 reduction followed a cutback of 40,000 men in 1967, which was brought about by President Charles de Gaulle's demand that all NATO troops depart French soil.

★ ★ ★

But these cuts in U.S. military strength in Europe have not been enough for many members of Congress, such as Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, who are worried about: the manpower demands of the Vietnam war; the balance-of-payments problem — the European military bill was $770 million in gold in 1966, for example; and the suggestion that America's European allies have not carried their fair share of the defence burden, with the notable exception of Britain.

Mansfield has been one of the most persistent advocates of trimming U.S. military strength assigned to NATO overseas. He once got 39 other senators to join him in a resolution which urged that a substantial number of U.S. troops be brought home from Germany.

★ ★ ★

A few days ago, after he finished a two-week tour of countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the Montana Democrat told a Frankfurt, West Germany, news conference that "the United States should consider a graduated withdrawal of one division and its dependents each year."

Then, with timing which has figuratively left egg on his face, Mansfield suggested that the days of NATO as primarily a defence set-up may have passed.

Indicating a belief that both NATO and the Communist Warsaw Pact organization had become anachronistic, he said that increasing trade between Eastern and Western Europe had brought an essential change in the continent's security status.

★ ★ ★

Senators Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and James B. Pearson, R-Kan., have been nearly as vocal as Mansfield on the subject. Many other members of Congress, though by no means a majority, agree with them.

The Johnson administration has been moving in the same direction. The 1967-68 reduction of nearly 75,000 troops and airmen from U.S. strength in Europe was looked upon only as a beginning — until last August 21.

Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford told Congress May 1 that he had advised NATO allies to face up to the fact that the United States was eventually going to have to reduce its forces in Europe.

He made it plain he was not talking about the 33,000 already in the plan for return home in 1968.

A U.S. general asserted in an interview that in his opinion it would be "psychologically impossible" to make further troop cuts in Europe now.

"The West Germans would have the tremors in view of what has happened in Czechoslovakia," he said.

The Third French Republic was proclaimed 98 years ago today — in 1870 — following the capture of Napolean III during the Franco-Prussian War. With the fall of the empire, a government of national defence tried to continue the war with Germany but the following year France capitulated. The Third Republic was decreed in January, 1875 under the Constitution of 1875.

1886—Geronimo and his Apache Indians surrendered to United States Army forces at Skeleton Canyon, Ariz.

1935 — The Mexican government confiscated all churches, including buildings used for public worship.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1918 — British forces pushed up to the line of the Canal du Nord west of Cambrai taking Moeuvres and Ecourt, continuing their advance on the old Somme battlefield; German soldiers began retreating from the Vesle River energetically pressed by Franco-American troops.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943 — British and Canadian troops captured San Giovanni as they continued their drive inland from the Calabrian coast of southern Italy to widen bridgeheads won the previous day. Allied paratroopers landed in the Markham Valley behind Lae, New Guinea, to complete the encirclement of 20,000 Japanese troops in the Lae-Salamaua area. RAF Mosquitos attacked Ruhr and Rhineland targets.

Even the Fox Has Friends

Old Savageries Not Tolerable

By IVOR BROWN from London

WAS there ever a more contradictory world? Events in Europe and West Africa—the ruthless Russian bludgeoning of Czechoslovakia and the civil war in Nigeria with its frightful cost in lives—reveal the willingness of some "to shut the gates of mercy on mankind". Yet elsewhere—here in Britain for example, whose social history has a startling record of brutality—the trend has gone so far the other way that some are asking whether clemency in punishment has not been overdone.

Undoubtedly there is much more sensitivity to suffering than ever before. But the improvement was a long time in coming. In 1868 a murderer was hanged in Britain in public for the last time, and collected a crowd to enjoy the sight. But the Victorian campaigners against capital punishment, derided by Lord Macauley as effeminate, had to wait nearly a century to see the death penalty abandoned altogether.

It had taken them a considerable time to end the outrageous business of erecting a scaffold outside a jail and stringing up the criminal in view of all. In 1849 Charles Dickens, who fought against hanging inside a prison as well as outside it, was one of a party who paid two guineas a head, worth 20 in the currency of 1968, for a place on a roof beside Horsemonger Jail in Southwark.

★ ★ ★

What Dickens saw was the hanging of a Mr. and Mrs. Manning for the killing of their lodger. With two, and one a woman, to be noosed it was a rich occasion for sadists. Needless to say Dickens did not go there to enjoy a thrill. He went to report and denounce. This he did. He was appalled by the levity of the brutal crowd round the gallows and the holiday spirit. His influence as a novelist and journalist was great. But he had to wait 19 years for the abolition of hanging as a public entertainment.

In France they could still see a guillotine erected in the street and the blade descending on the neck of the condemned. Readers of Arnold Bennett's The Old Wives' Tale are given an ample and brilliant description of such an occasion.

In Europe, or most of it, such practice is now unthinkable. Legal punishment of violence by violence under any conditions is rare and in Britain it is now completely forbidden in the case of adults. Schoolboys are not so lucky, but beating in schools diminishes. What would the flagellomaniac pedagogues of the past have thought of a public opinion which demanded sparing and even the complete removal of the rod at the risk of spoiling the child?

There have been many forms of victory for humanitarian opinion in Britain. This has come rapidly as well as thoroughly. The nation's record of inhumanity was once shocking. For centuries public savagery had been unashamedly practised and relished. It seems to us inexplicable that the Elizabethans, so delicately sensitive to the beauty of music and poetry, revelled in watching the baiting of captive bulls and bears by dogs who were also horribly gored and bitten. If that did not satisfy their bloodlust they could see a prostitute flogged through the streets, the head of a traitor rotting on a pole on London Bridge, and not only the hanging but the disemboweling and quartering of a criminal at Tyburn.

Throughout the 18th century the condemned were carted publicly amid jeers and derision through the streets to the gallows where now is Marble Arch. So it continued. The last spectacle of public execution came at Southwark at a time when the grandparents of people now living could have been "in at the death."

The long and bloody boxing-matches with bare fists were the joys of the Georgians. At a pleasure ground revolting exhibitions went on without censure or prohibition. In the early years of festivities at Sadler's Wells at Islington, a man won a wager of five pounds, quite a fortune to him, by eating a live cock, feathers, entrails and all, with a sauce of oil and vinegar and half-pint of brandy for cordial. This ogre was also said to have dismembered and devoured a live cat. We need not believe all the details of this filthy business, but they were reported and the reports aroused no public indignation.

Not so long ago a clamorous opposition at a fox-hunt would have seemed like sedition to the galloping squires and blasphemy to the sporting parson. But now huntsmen of all kinds are open to abuse when they meet. They argue heatedly that it is less cruel to chase an animal who may escape than to leave him in the fangs of a trap or slowly dying from the pellets of a shot-gun. Pests must be kept down, they say. The problem for their critics is how to do this with the least possible cruelty. But it is no longer agreed that causing pain and death provides permissible pleasure provided it is given the label of "a fine old British sport."

Humanitarian sentiment grows, more in the towns than in the country. But there are curious inconsistencies. One is the toleration of factory-farming and the life-sentence of close imprisonment on chickens and hens. This provides poultry meat and eggs of a kind on a vast scale and at a price which is moderate in these extortionate days. The urban consumers do not visit "broiler" premises. Out of sight is out of sympathy.

The townsfolk are conveniently satisfied with the tasteless product. But they may begin to wonder whether farming of this kind is delivering the proper goods of the countryside. Can they fairly complain of factory farming if they themselves enjoy keeping caged birds in their homes? The Society for the Preventing of Cruelty to Animals has still plenty of work to do.

If we look at the years in the light of the centuries, as reasonable reformers must do, there has been much progress from the old callousness and brutality. In the case of deterrent punishment, once savagely inflicted, it is possible to think that we are failing to deter and that the victims of violence are getting less than their share of the new compassion. Prison reform has introduced the merciful parole system. A killer, released on parole in Britain, recently used his liberty to kill two more people before he shot himself.

Russia Big Loser By Aggression

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

THE Soviet aggression against Czechoslovakia is likely to be remembered as the event of 1968. One can presume that in a broader perspective the great loser will be Russia and not the Czech and Slovak victims of the Red Army.

The Soviet operation shows two significant characteristics. The military thought of Marshals Grechko and Jakubowski indicates that these two men still live in 1945. Obviously for them the Warsaw Pact remains a reality and territorial gains are necessary to assure Russia's security. These old soldiers understand nothing of the strategic realities of the nuclear age. One may well ask how the Red Army would be commanded if things got really serious.

Furthermore the political action reveals that de-Stalinization was more apparent than real. The crushing of Prague is a Stalinist gesture which obviously has its root in a far distant period when communism still represented a dynamic thought. Such brutal military aggression, at a time when ideology is disintegrating, is likely to speed up the decadence of the so-called socialist community.

More ominous still for the future of the U.S.S.R. is the fact that the Soviet decision greatly curtails the time for a dialogue with the United States. This negotiation is essential for Russia now that China is preparing to mass produce intercontinental ballistic missiles. These are a direct menace to the U.S.S.R. and only a secondary danger for America. It is vital for Moscow to reach an understanding with Washington before 1972, when, according to best intelligence, China will be equipped with carriers for its weapons of mass destruction.

Now Russia's unprovoked assault has re-awakened all the old suspicions, aroused American public opinion and consequently will prevent far-reaching conversations before the Czech drama has been forgotten. Since the agenda of the talks is extremely complex, it seems unlikely that they will be concluded before it is too late.

The U.S.S.R. has lost valuable support among the Communist parties of the world. It seems dangerously isolated when one looks at tomorrow's world situation. The bill for what happened in Prague will be presented in four or five years and it will be extremely large, maybe even fatal for Moscow.

In these last days many have spoken of historical events which were a parallel to what has happened. The most striking unquestionably was Hitler's action against Prague in March, 1939. At that time the well-known writer Robert Ingrim wrote an article on the "suicide of the Fuhrer." It is quite possible that the same will be said of the Kremlin leaders. In historical perspective one can say, concerning Aug. 21, 1968, it was worse than a crime, it was a blunder.

Demonstrators, Police Represent Opposing Middle-Class Factions

Chicago Violence Reflects White Schism

By JOSEPH KRAFT, from Chicago

The violence that scarred the Democratic convention in Chicago is too serious a matter to be muddled by loose talk about a police state and Gestapo tactics.

What happened is that the shock troops of the two most antagonistic social groups in the country were allowed to collide in conditions of high tension and with the kind of publicity bound to aggravate divisions across the country.

That this clash was allowed to take place underlines anew the question of whether any of the present leaders of the Democratic party are truly fit to rule the country.

★ ★ ★

The police state anology is misleading because what happened here does not fit at all into the classic pattern of official repression of the democratic process. That process was in fact going forward, no more imperfectly than usual, inside the convention.

The demonstrators outside, by their vicious language and provocative acts, were trying to obstruct it. The police, in their misguided way, were trying to protect it.

The pattern that does fit the facts arises from an antagonism between the rising middle class of upper-income whites and the archaic middle class of lower-income whites.

The young people who protested are typical products of the rising middle class. They are well-educated and without major economic worries. They are full of confidence and high aspiration, particularly for the achievement of peace and equality for the Negro.

But they have no sympathy for whites without their educational and economic advantages. They express their contempt by demonstrations, by words, by dress, and by their central political tactic. That tactic is the tactic of play the game my way or else there will be trouble—the traditional tactic of the elite.

The police who clubbed the demonstrators are typical expression of the archaic middle class. They are indifferently educated and badly paid. Their aspirations run along unlofty lines to a home, a car, and a TV set. They are engaged in traditional occupations, now being loaded down with new requirements because of the changes brought on by the Negro colonization of the central cities.

Because of these changes, the police are on the defensive to begin with. They are not friendly to the Negroes. And they return with interest the contempt felt by the backers of the Negro cause among upper-income whites.

In these circumstances, it was inevitable that any naked confrontation between police and protesting young people would be violent. It is typical of their feelings that in one confrontation here the demonstrators were shouting at the police: "Pigs, pigs, pigs." And the police were shouting back: "Kill, kill, kill."

Tyranny Of Law Is Worse

By CARL T. ROWAN
From Washington

Reflecting on that bit of summer madness called the Democratic convention, one realizes that some of the ugliest developments could be extremely good for the nation.

After all these years, for example, the American press went to Chicago and discovered police brutality.

Poor ghetto dwellers have nursed their bruises and lacerations for years and complained about police brutality, but much of the press and most of the people on the cushy side of the tracks dismissed them as semi-hoodlums trying to foul up the machinery of law and order.

But suddenly representatives of the most powerful news media in America were getting their heads busted open by cops who wanted to dictate where and how the news could be covered, or who resented having their oppressive tactics photographed.

Having seen Mayor Richard J. Daley's police force in action, is the public still o emotionally conscious of the need for "law and order" that it backs calls by Daley and the Republican vice presidential nominee, Spiro Agnew, to shoot looters?

I rather suspect a lot fewer people are willing to put these policemen in an emotional riot situation and tell them in advance that they can be both judge and jury and inflict capital punishment on a teenager fleeing with a television set.

But the lesson of Chicago is deeper than this.

Chicago has illustrated anew that, when excessive power is granted to the police in a moment of fear or anger directed at one segment of society, all of society may very quickly fall victim to that power.

The tyranny of the hoodlum is so loathsome to most of us that it is all too easily replaced with a tyranny of "the law." But history warns us that tyranny cloaked in law is so much more difficult to eradicate than tyranny of the hoodlum.

Thieu Consolidates His Grip

'Puppet' Pulls Strings

By BARRY KRAMER
From Saigon

President Nguyen Van Thieu, a man the Communists call an American puppet, has proved after a year at the helm in South Vietnam that he pulls most of the strings.

Since his election last Sept. 3, Thieu has consolidated his power, inaugurated some needed reforms and broadened the base of the government.

★ ★ ★

Because his support still rests mainly on the military and on certain militant anti-Communist groups, Thieu's government has resorted to anti-democratic means to stifle opposition.

Thieu's election, followed a month later by the election of a two-house legislature, created a government which took over from a military junta that had ruled South Vietnam since November, 1963.

★ ★ ★

Thieu and his vice-president, Nguyen Cao Ky, still meet regularly with South Vietnam's generals to get their approval on most important matters.

Ky had been able to exert government as premier and Thieu was chief of state.

Thieu

Ky

While Viet Cong-North Vietnamese offensives have caused immediate threats to Thieu's government, much of his time has been spent meeting an internal threat from Ky for power.

Ky had been able to exert unusual control over the operation of the national administration because as premier for two years he had appointed friends to hundreds of high positions.

★ ★ ★

Ky's power was all but eliminated when Thieu fired Maj.-Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan as national police boss, as well as Ky's friends who commanded the 3rd Military Corps around Saigon, the 4th Corps in the Mekonga Delta and the 2nd Corps in the central highlands.

★ ★ ★

A coup in South Vietnam remains a possibility, although it seems much less likely than when Thieu first took power.

To maintain the present stability, Thieu must steer a careful course. A blunt move by the United States to force the government into talks with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front or to consider a coalition government would cause him trouble.

★ ★ ★

"If that happened, the government would become shaky very quickly," said a foreign diplomat.

"The generals would threaten Thieu and the Roman Catholics would be demonstrating in the streets. And the people who are tired of the war would clamor for any way out."

★ ★ ★

Among Thieu's achievements, the most meaningful so far appears to be the naming of onetime teacher Tran Van Huong as premier. His appointment has given the government a greater measure of popular support. Huong, 64, is a well-known southerner whose honesty seems unquestioned.

★ ★ ★

Much of Huong's time has been spent in organizing an anti-corruption drive. He has admitted that corruption is so widespread among Vietnamese officials that it threatens every government program.

One area of failure is inability to create a broad anti-Communist political front made of nationalist groups. Vietnam has no national organized anti-Communist political force.

★ ★ ★

Huong says much broad support would take at least two years to organize. The Viet Cong already are hard at work organizing political fronts for the political war they know will come some day.

Most government officials are convinced that if an election were held tomorrow the Communists would win, since non-Communist elements are fragmented.

★ ★ ★

U.S. President Johnson's March 31 speech, which opened the way for preliminary talks with Hanoi in Paris, raised fears of accommodation with the Communists that have not been entirely stilled.

Thieu's government takes harsh measures against those who would go against the government's strict anti-Communist line.

★ ★ ★

Lawyer Truong Dinh Dzu, who came in second in the presidential race running as a peace candidate, is serving five years at hard labor. A military court found him guilty of advocating talks with the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

Military courts have tried students, Buddhists and newspaper publishers on similar charges.

Some officials say the government's hard line is a necessary facade.

One observed: "If Thieu were to say, OK, we'll talk with the Front and perhaps we'll form a coalition government," the army would go to pieces. Why lay down your cards before you get to the table?"

Settlement Bitter Blow

Czechoslovak Outcome Disappoints Red China

By ROBERT S. ELEGANT
From Hong Kong

Having greeted the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia with bitter cries of "A plague on both your houses," the Chinese Communists have subsequently indicated deep disappointment that the crisis has not flared into bloody internal strife — or, even better, a Russo-American conflict.

★ ★ ★

The full-blown case of political schizophrenia revealed by initial Chinese reactions now approaches fantasy. Throughout the voluminous Chinese comment runs an expressed current of desire to see the so-called "socialist bloc" splinter into fighting factions.

A natural expression of extreme Chinese nationalism and almost hysterical anti-Soviet feeling, the statements, nonetheless, echo curiously from the country which, at the same time proclaims itself both the champion of world peace and true "Marxism-Leninism."

The same irrationality which compelled the Maoists to their wholly disruptive internal great proletarian cultural revolution apparently wholly colors their view of international events.

The Hanoi government, on the other hand, has been most circumspect in its comments on the Russian invasion. The North Vietnamese initially restricted themselves to a brief four-paragraph "comment" which was hardly more than a paraphrase of the original Soviet communique.

Since that time, they have done no more than rebroadcast the reprint, without comment, and the text of various foreign Communist communiques supporting the Soviet action.

★ ★ ★

The most bizarre aspect of the Chinese reaction was the charge that the invasion was, at once, "a great service to the Johnson government" and a result of a falling out between Moscow and Washington in their master plan to divide the entire world into two spheres of influence.

After the dictated "agreement" in Moscow, the Chinese went further, strenuously objecting to joint Russo-American assurances to West Germany that the action constituted no threat to that country.

The New China news agency, the official voice of the Maoists, saw in those assurances new evidence of Russo-American "collaboration," using Czechoslovaia as "a blue chip" in their "despicable power game."

The entire article betrayed Chinese disappointment that the crisis had not flared into total violence. At the same time, Peking denounced the Russians for restoring the "Alexander Dubcek clique . . . which is going to bring about the all-around restoration of capitalism in Czechoslovakia."

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, the Hanoi regime of Ho Chi Minh could hardly withhold limited approval of the invasion in view of North Vietnamese dependence on Soviet assistance in the campaign to conquer the South.

But the North Vietnamese could not go too far for fear of offending the Chinese, whose aid also is essential.

Nor was Hanoi eager to offer its enemies the obvious propaganda value of comparison between its action in South Vietnam and Russian action in Czechoslovakia.

Hellyers's Aide Going Private

Lee

OTTAWA (CP) — Bill Lee, controversial executive assistant to former defence minister Paul Hellyer during the acrimonious debate on armed forces unification, is out of the government service and into private industry.

Lee, 44-year-old former air force officer and a native of Hamilton, now is president of Executive Consultants Ltd. Vice-president of the new Ottawa-based company is William Neville, executive assistant to Judy LaMarsh when she was a cabinet minister, and later to Finance Minister Benson.

The company came into being Sept. 1 but won't have an office until Oct. 1. In any case, both men are still involved in government work.

Lee is helping Postmaster-General Eric Kierans set up the communications department and Neville is executive secretary to Transport Minister Hellyer's housing task force.

Neville's is a part-time contract that will keep him busy for about four months. Lee hopes to be able to turn over the work with the communications department to the Kierans staff in a matter of weeks.

Lee stressed that the new company will not be a political lobby.

"There is a need for a straight-forward counselling and communication service between government and industry," Lee said. "It is necessary because industry doesn't know how to deal with government and government makes decisions without getting the views of industry."

Banks Follow Ottawa Rate Reduction

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

A general drop in bank lending rates was announced throughout Canada Tuesday when most loans were reduced by ¼ of 1 per cent from their former levels.

The announcement of a drop in the prime commercial rate from 7 to 6¾ per cent was made by The Royal Bank, the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, the Toronto Dominion Bank, the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Bank of B.C. as well as by the two Quebec territorial banks.

The Bank of Montreal had announced a similar reduction last week dating from Sept. 1, but the others waited until the weekend when the Bank of Canada gave them the lead by reducing the rediscount rate from 6½ to 6 per cent.

The Bank of Canada's move was expected because for some time it has been realized in government circles the high cost of money was putting on the brakes too hard and was threatening to slow down the economy to what could be an embarrassingly low level.

MOST CASES

While in most cases the banks are not altering the interest they pay on their savings accounts of various types, they are reducing the rates on term deposits.

One bank is paying 5% on a term of up to one year and 6 per cent for periods up to six years. Its previous rate for all term deposits was 6¼ per cent.

At another bank the term deposit rate was lowered this week from 6½ to 6 per cent for terms of three years and less.

ATOMIC CONTRACT WON

Shareholders of Donlee Manufacturing have been informed this week the company has been successful in securing another large contract for Canada's atomic power industry.

It will supply 1,600 end fitting assemblies for use on units 3 and 4 of Ontario Hydro's Pickering atomic power plant just east of Toronto. They are identical to the assemblies for units 1 and 2 now being produced and shipped.

The contract, valued at $1,750,000, will provide work for Donlee's Deep Hole Boring and Turning division until 1970.

□

ROYAL'S NEW LIMB

A new company which will deal in housing mortgages has been formed by the Royal Bank of Canada in conjunction with Interior Trust.

RoyMor Ltd. intends to buy NHA and conventional mortgages originated and processed by the Royal Bank to widen the secondary market in these securities.

RoyMor will be financed through a sale of debentures to the public in the near future.

RoyMor will be similar to Roynat, also associated with the Royal Bank, and makes loans to business and industrial firms.

□

GAS SHARES COMING

Alberta Gas Trunk has given a preliminary report of its intentions to raise $20,000,000 through the sale of 200,000 cumulative, redeemable, convertible preferred shares of $100 par.

The preferred shares will be convertible into A shares up to July 15, 1980, and will be redeemable at $106 before that time.

The new preferred will be offered to Canadian holders of A shares on the basis of one preferred for each 17 A.

The dividend and conversion rates have not been announced nor has the price at which the new shares will be offered.

PAPER PROFIT UP

CHINA FIRMS MERGE

BANK BUYS SHARES

National Bank of Detroit has purchased 388,889 treasury shares of Guaranty Trust of Canada for $10 a share. This represents 10 per cent of the voting shares of Guaranty Trust and is the maximum the bank can hold without losing voting rights under the terms of the 1965 Trust Companies Act.

Shelford Suggests Lakehead Solution

Prime Minister Trudeau was urged Tuesday to toss the ball in the grain handlers' strike at the Lakehead terminals to what Agriculture Minister Cyril Shelford called "the Canadian team."

He suggested the federal government call in the provincial ministers of agriculture to hear their proposed solution to the costly labor dispute which has stopped the export of grain to European markets.

"A better solution has to be found or we will strangle our economy and if this happens labor, management and all the citizens of Canada will be the losers by a lower standard of living. This must not happen," Mr. Shelford said.

He added: "Already this tieup is adversley affecting the grain growers of Canada and our own Peace River area by restricting movement of feed grain from Prairie areas to the east. This increases the surplus and markets are sought in the West.

"Already there has been a 16 per cent drop in price to our farmers of the Peace River on oats and barley and 9 per cent on wheat."

Mr. Shelford suggested a possible solution might lie in the unions accepting the companies' offer of 55 cents over a 2½-year period and for the companies to offer a substantial productivity or volume for grain moved over and above the average volume per man employed.

Saanich Shows Building Fever

Building permits in Saanich last month almost doubled in value over August of last year and the value of permits for the year is up almost 40 per cent over the same period in 1967.

Largest permits in August were for the $547,598 G. R. Pearkes clinic for handicapped children and a $394,465 addition to Reynolds Road high school.

In the year so far, permits have been issued for 329 houes and duplexes worth $6,450,000. This compared with 278 in 1967 worth $5,000,000.

Total value of permits for the year reached $11,890,000 at the end of August, as against $8,540,000 in the same period in 1967.

Double Approval First

Apartments Planned

A 72-suite apartment house will be built behind Town and Country shopping plaza if Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. can get approval from Saanich council and the B.C. highways department.

Rezoning of 2.43 acres on the northeast side of the 800-block Seymour Avenue has been requested by the company.

Approval must also be obtained from the highways department because of the nearness of the property to Douglas Street and the Trans-Canada Highway.

The highways department has not released a specific route for the future Patricia Bay freeway.

SEVERAL STOPS

"This could be a bit of a test regarding the routing of the highway," Saanich planner Tom Loney said Tuesday.

The application will have to be studied by several Saanich departments before going to the advisory planning commission, and to council which would probably call a public hearing.

The apartment building would be in two units, restricted to three storeys in height, and would contain about 30 suites with one bedroom each, 36 with two and six with three.

Mill Effluent 'Not Harmful'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Effluent leaking into the sea from a break on the Columbia Cellulose waste disposal pipeline is not detrimental to aquatic life, a fisheries department spokesman said. The pulp mill said the company is attempting to get the line back into operation.

Paris Excuse 'Hijinks'

Humphrey, Nixon Recall Shelved Vietnam Plank

By UPI

The Vietnam war, key issue in the pre-convention political contests, appeared destined today to play a similar role in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

Democratic candidate Hubert Humphrey's move to limit campaigning on the war issue failed Monday when Republican candidate Richard Nixon spurned a proposal to join hands in a bipartisan declaration to do nothing to jeopardize the Paris talks on the war.

OLD-STYLE HIJINKS

Robert Ellsworth, national political director the Nixon-Agnew campaign, called the Humphrey proposal "a bit of old-style partisan hijinks" and said Nixon had already made clear he "would do and say nothing in this campaign", that would jeopardize the talks.

One of Humphrey's first moves after receiving the Democratic nomination was to wire Nixon "I believe both candidates should make it absolutely clear that they share a basic commitment to the success of the peace negotiations now taking place in Paris."

He invited Humphrey to "associate himself" with Nixon's position.

Humphrey Monday marched in a Labor Day parade in New York streets and taped a program for an educational television station.

In the course of the interview he said he had "reason to believe" Hanoi's negotiators in Paris were "stalling." He said "Hanoi must understand that they are not going to get a better deal because we're having an election campaign. I want a ceasefire now, a total ceasefire."

RACING FANS LISTEN

Other developments:

George Wallace — the third party presidential candidate — told a crowd of 70,000 stock car racing enthusiasts in Darlington, S.C., that his campaign would "send some of these national politicans to the pits," racing argot meaning for retirement from a race.

The former Alabama governor said he reconsidered earlier plans for a national convention of his American Independent party because now "you have to have the army" to cope with possible trouble.

TV Time Sought By Daley

CHICAGO (CP) — Mayor Richard Daley named a committee Wednesday to investigate the riots during last week's Democratic national convention and asked one hour of prime television time from the three major U.S. networks to explain "what actually happened."

The 66-year-old mayor, target of widespread criticism for his handling of the convention and police action against anti-war demonstrations on the streets, called for a television broadcast for Thursday, Sept. 12 or Friday, Sept. 13.

The program would be designed to counteract the "one-sided portrayal" of the street battles.

Independent Nation Black Power's Goal

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Creation of a "separate, free, independent nation for black people" in five southern states — "by arms if necessary" — was adopted as an official recommendation Sunday by one workshop of the third national conference on black power.

The idea, submitted to a workshop on black independence, was announced to newsmen by Milton Henry, Pontiac, Mich., first vice-president of the Republic of New Africa, founded this year at a meeting in Detroit.

INDEPENDENT NATION

Art Peters, city editor of the semi-weekly Philadelphia Tribune who, with other Negro newsmen, was allowed to attend one workshop and briefings, said the more than 3,000 delegates formulated plans "aimed at achieving an independent black nation within the United States."

Peters said Dr. Nathan Hare, conference chairman, told the assembled delegates that black people were opposed to violence but would no longer allow themselves to be "mongrelized, brutalized, patricized and ostracized."

Hare, who was dismissed from the Howard University sociology department because of his militant views, declared that stop violence against black people when black people arm. It is to

Hippies Flee Berkeley, Vancouver New Goal

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — With the city of Berkeley officially in a state of civil disaster, scores of hippies and New Left activists fled their Telegraph Avenue playground Tuesday in favor of new stomping grounds.

Teams of riot-ready police, armed with a new proclamation prohibiting loitering and mass meetings, patrolled the hippie enclave adjacent to the University of California campus. They encountered little trouble.

MAJOR ROUTES

The major routes leading out of Berkeley, however, were jammed with hippies carrying signs indicating their new destinations — Vancouver, Seattle, Denver and Boston.

"This is getting rough — I don't want any part of it," said Kenneth Hobson, a 19-year-old hippie who was heading for Vancouver, B.C. Hobson's companion, a long-haired youth who did not wish to be identified, said he was "getting out of town because I can't afford to get busted (arrested). The draft board is looking for me."

While some of the hippies and New Left activists left, others vowed to remain "until we defeat this fascist city government."

Meanwhile, the Berkeley city council voted overwhelmingly to back City Manager William Hanley who proclaimed the state of civil disaster after three nights of sporadic violence on the hippie homefront. The council also voted to refuse the activists permission for street meetings.

Negroes, Whites Face Charges in Slayings

BEREA, Ky. (UPI) — Connie Lynch, leader of the National States Rights Party, was held on murder charges today along with 13 other men as a result of a bloody shootout between white supremists and Negroes that left two men dead on the streets of this tiny eastern Kentucky town.

The battle erupted Sunday when three carloads of Negroes opened fire on a rally Lynch was holding on an abandoned used car lot.

BLAZING GUNS

Police said the Negroes shot into the white crowd, killing Elza Rucker, 28, of Lexington, Ky. Lynch and his followers then jumped into their cars and chased the Negroes, guns blazing.

George Boggs, 32, a Negro of Berea, was killed in the chase.

Lynch and seven other members of his party were arrested for Boggs' death. Six Negroes were charged with the shooting of Rucker. All were held without bond by Madison County Judge Robert Turley, pending a hearing.

The home of a Negro, Hoover Herron, burned to the ground early Tuesday in the wake of the gun battle. Fire Chief H. G. Robinson blamed unknown arsonists for the blaze.

Pickups Pace Redmen Win Over Luckies

OSHAWA — Brooklin Redmen defeated Nanaimo Luckies, 9-6, Tuesday in the opening game of the Mann Cup senior lacrosse championship before 1,410 fans.

A pair of pickups led Redmen with Joe Tomchyshyn from Mississauga Braves playing a strong game in goal and Julie Kowalski from Bramalea Excelsiors scoring two goals.

Tomchyshyn blocked 33 shots as Nanaimo outshot the winners, 39-36, yielding only one goal in each of the final three periods.

Wayne Davidson also scored twice for Brooklin, which led 5-4, at halftime and pulled away to an 8-5 lead going into the final 15 minutes.

Jim Campbell, Ron Sutton, Jerry Burrows, Don Craggs and Gerry Henderson scored the other Brooklin goals.

Captain Bill Russell, with two goals and two assists, and Larry Biggs, with two goals, led Luckies. Al Matson and Larry Clarkson scored the other goals.

Harry Preston, picked up from Port Coquitlam, was brilliant in goal for Nanaimo.

Second game in the best-of-seven series will be played Thursday at Oshawa.

Bearded Ulrich bows in marathon

Drysdale, Ashe Pull Upsets

Aussie Stars Ousted

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Pro rookie Cliff Drysdale of South Africa broke Rod Laver's serving rhythm with a murderous two-fisted backhand Tuesday and upset the top-seeded favorite to make an open scramble of the $100,000 U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

His confidence shaken and his awesome left-handed power dulled to powder-puff potency, the world's No. 1 ranking player fell before Drysdale's relentless back court barrage, 4-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, in a fourth-round match.

Laver served 14 double faults, five in the final set and two in the opening game, which let loose the landslide.

Drysdale, 29, runner-up to Spain's Manuel Santana here in 1965, is a member of Lamar Hunt's so-called "Handsome Eight" touring troupe. Laver is the star of George MacCall's rival National Tennis League, composed of older players.

The tall, blond South African was joined in the men's quarter-finals by Australian John Newcombe, another of the "Handsome Eight" group and the two top U.S. Davis Cup aces, Arthur Ashe of Highland Falls, N.Y., and Clark Graebner of New York, both amateurs.

BEATS EMERSON

Ashe, the new U.S. amateur champion and the first Negro man ever to win a major crown, buoyed U.S. cup hopes by polishing off Australia's rugged Roy Emerson, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

Graebner, Ashe's hard-serving teammate, polished off Gene Scot, an attorney from Yale, 7-5, 6-0, 6-3.

Newcombe, 1967 U.S. and Wimbledon champion, had to rally from two sets down and pull off some of the most fantastic shots of his career for a marathon victory over Torben Ulrich, the bearded Dane, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

MISSED CHANCES

The match lasted 3 hours and 45 minutes and Ulrich, 39, had many chances to take it all. He led 7-6 in the fourth set after Newcombe doublefaulted at game point, but Newcombe pulled an immediate rebreak with two lobs that the Dane couldn't touch.

Then in the 10th game of the final set, Ulrich went sprawling after another Newcombe lob and killing volleys by the young Australian, seeded fourth, pulled out the match.

Another seeded player, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., No. 6, was five points from defeat before he finally won a third-round match from tiny Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico 9-11, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Olympic Torch Explodes Relay Runners Injured

BARCELONA (AP) — The travelling torch flame of the 1968 Olympic Games blew up as it was being carried toward Mexico City by two Spanish relay runners Sunday. They suffered face and hand burns.

The explosion came as J. Mariana was passing the flame from his 18-inch metal torch to that of Gregorio Rojo, former Spanish 5,000-metre champion. It was believed caused by gas that gathered in the fuel chamber of Mariana's torch.

The Olympic flame traditionally begins its journey in Greece and is carried by runners around the world for the opening ceremony at the site of the Games.

Nine-Stroke Win For Carol Mann

CALGARY (CP)—Carol Mann, the tall blonde from Buffalo, N.Y., shot a two-under-par 69 Sunday to take an easy victory in the Willow Park ladies' invitational open golf tournament.

Miss Mann won $2,250 with a score of 205, eight under par for the tournament. She was nine strokes in front of her nearest competition.

Bunched in second place at 214 were Pam Barnett, Shirley Englehorn, Beth Stone and Kathy Whitworth. Each received $1,325.

SANDRA WELL BACK

Sandra Post of Oakville, Ont., the only Canadian woman professional, was tied with three others for 14th place and won $277.50. Miss Post, who was two over par at 73 for each of the first two rounds went five over to 76 Sunday for a 54-hole score of 222.

Winds gusting to 35 miles an hour and intermittent rain for the first three-quarters of the final round hampered play on the 6,400-yard course. Temperatures were in the low 50's.

Cardinals Stretch Lead On Extra-Inning Wins

The team that can win the close ones is usually a contender for the pennant in major league baseball and St. Louis Cardinals have recently been showing why they have a 14-game lead in the National League.

The Cardinals scored twice in the top of the 11th inning Tuesday on a run scoring single by Curt Flood and Roger Maris' sacrifice fly to down the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3.

It was the fifth straight victory for St. Louis and four of them have been in extra innings—the last three in a row.

Bob Gibson picked up his 20th victory and 12th shutout of the season Monday, blanking the Reds, 1-0, in 10 innings with the help of Julian Javier's leadoff home run in the 10th.

Gibson has now won 20 games in three of the last four seasons, missing only 1967 when he was out two months with a broken leg.

The Cards defeated New York Mets, 3-2, in 11 innings Sunday and 3-0 in nine innings on Saturday. They downed the Pirates, 3-2, in 11 innings Friday.

JENKINS WINS 17TH

Ferguson Jenkins picked up his 17th victory and Ernie Banks hit his 27th home run as Chicago Cubs downed the second-place San Francisco Giants, 8-3.

San Francisco had downed Chicago, 8-4, Monday as Juan Marichal picked up his 24th win. The second game was called because of darkness after nine innings with the score tied, 1-1.

In the other Tuesday games, Los Angeles Dodgers erupted with three homers and five doubles to dump Philadelphia Phillies, 10-9; Willie Stargell's 22nd home run gave Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over Houston Astros; and the Mets split with Atlanta Braves, winning 4-3, and losing, 6-7.

In the American League, Detroit Tigers increased their lead to eight games over the faltering Baltimore Orioles by dumping Oakland Athletics, 6-3, while the Orioles suffered their sixth loss in eight games when they were beaten by New York Yankees, 6-1.

STARTS TRIPLE PLAY

The Tigers closed off their successful series with the Orioles on Sunday with a 7-3 victory as Denny McLain became the first pitcher in his league to win 27 games since Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout accomplished the feat in 1944.

McLain also figured in the American League's fourth triple play of the season in that game, grabbing Boog Powell's line drive in the third inning, firing to shortstop Tom Matchick to double Curt Blefary and Matchick relayed to Norm Cash to catch Frank Robinson.

Washington Senators continued their improved play, edging Chicago White Sox, 2-1, Tuesday. The Senators had swept a pair from the Sox Monday, 1-0, and 11-3, with the help of six hits by Frank Howard. It was the first Labor Day doubleheader sweep for Washington in 17 attempts.

In Tuesday's other games, Cleveland Indians downed California Angels, 7-2, and Boston Red Sox defeated Minnesota Twins, 4-1, in a rain-shortened game that went 5½ innings.

Royals Blanked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Substitutes Clive Ford and Ray Veal scored quick goals in the second half Sunday as Los Angeles Wolves defeated Vancouver Royals, 2-0, in a North American Soccer League game.

O'Keefe Coach Trims Roster

Rookie coach Bill Abbott of Victoria O'Keefes kept just seven holdovers on his list Tuesday night as he cut his squad in preparation for Saturday's opening Pacific Coast Soccer League game against UBC Thunderbirds at Macdonald Part at 2 p.m.

They are Brian Robinson, Peter Brett, Marty Taylor, Peter Wheaton, Ray Telford, Ike McKay and Tom Westwater.

MacKay is still with the professional Vancouver Royals and will have to be reinstated as an amateur.

Peter Wilson has decided not to play this year while team veteran George Paul will not be available for about a month because of an ankle injury.

Former O'Keefes on the list are Russ Ball and Dune McCaig, who started with the PCSL team last year but transferred to district league teams midway through the season.

The newcomers are all on the youthful side. Pete Robarts and Howie Anderson are up from Victoria Wests while Dennis Sommer and Bruce Twamley, clubhouse boy for the Royals, played for Gorge and Mike Sails for Tally-Ho.

Goalkeeping is still the trouble spot and Abbott is holding on to juvenile Peter Mason.

O'Keefes defeated Victoria West, 5-2, Tuesday after playing to a 2-2 draw with the same team on Sunday.

Nanimo hopeful Pete Bateman scored twice Tuesday with Sails, Brett and Wilson each scoring once for O'Keefes. Glen Robinson scored both goals for the losers.

Anderson and Wheaton scored for O'Keefes Sunday while Jim Schulz and Ron Pietrzykowski replied for Wests.

O'Keefes meet Canadian Scottish Thursday at Topaz Park at 6:30 p.m.

Roy Smith Wins Daffodil Trophy

The one that got away in seven previous attempts still eluded veteran Al Smith of Victoria but at least this time, the Daffodil Cup was captured by a member of the family.

Roy Smith took over from his older brother on the 90th lap of the 150-lap Canadian American Modified Racing Association event Monday at Western Speedway and led the rest of the way for the victory.

ENGINE TROUBLE

The win ruined the comeback attempt by Al, who came out of retirement three weeks ago in an attempt to capture the event, the only CAMRA championship he missed during his career.

Al had taken over the lead on the 57th lap when Jim Roberts of Eugene, Ore., the leading CAMRA driver this season, went out with engine trouble after leading from the 17th lap.

Al's car began to slow on the 90th with an engine problem and he was forced to drop out on the 103rd lap.

Roy pulled ahead of the field, finishing two laps ahead of Ralph Monhay of Seattle.

Only one serious crash occurred with Nanaimo's Ray Pottinger spinning out on the sixty lap and ending up on top of Jerry Lindrin's car. The Boise, Idaho driver was not hurt but he had a tire mark on the side of his helmet.

Fred Isaacson swept the honors in the stock car preliminaries before the 5,960 fans, winning the trophy dash, fast heat and main event.

Port Alberni Team Wins Softball Title

Port Alberni, undefeated in their five games over the weekend, won the B.C. Senior "C" men's softball championship at Heywood Avenue Park Monday, beating Whalley, 6-3, in the final game.

Whalley's only error of the game proved costly, allowing Port Alberni's winning and insurance runs in the sixth inning.

Pitcher George Kulch, who struck out 17 in a win against Victoria Bottle Exchange, and Peter Songhurst, a former Victorian, both playing for Port Alberni, were named the tournament's outstanding pitcher and most valuable player respectively.

Leading batter was Whalley catcher Al Wark.

Timbermen, Hornets Win Rugged Football Openers

Defending champions Cowichan Timbermen and Chew Hornets of Saanich won the opening games of the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League on Sunday.

Timbermen built up a 14-0 lead at Duncan against Oak Bay Farmer Construction and then held on for a 14-13 victory while Hornets romped to a 26-0 victory over Nanaimo Rams, back in the league after a one-year absence.

Touchdowns by Brian Mann, on a 17-yard run, and Al Wilson, on a 25-yard run, and converts by Brian Carter and Ken Sigimoto gave Cowichan its early lead.

Bruce Panton went over after a 60-yard run when Farmers' Mike O-Connor blocked a punt and Oak Bay made it close, and Oak Bay made it close, Brian Wallace pass and Bob Lemon's convert.

Mike Herold sparked the Hornet win, picking up 14 points with two touchdowns and a pair of converts. Saanich's other points came on touchdowns by Les Hudson and Bill MacLeod.

Ken Skinner was lost to Hornets for the remainder of the season when he suffered a broken collarbone in the rough game which had a total of 240 yards in penalties assessed against the two clubs.

Brash Rookie Adds $30,000 To Golf Wins

CLINTON, N.J. (AP)—Brash Bob Murphy, a chunky, red-haired rookie, is the hottest player on the professional golf tour.

The former U.S. collegiate and national champion bolted past Gary Player on Monday to win the $150,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic and boost his earnings for two weeks of golf to $70,416.

Murphy's final-round 68, which gave him a 72-hole total of 277, won him $30,000.

OTHER PAYDAYS

The previous weekend, Murphy pocketed $30,000 for winning the Philadelphia Golf Classic, a victory which came one week after he finished in a second-place tie in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic to win $20,416.

He started the final round two strokes behind Player but overhauled the South African star on the eighth hole and then hung tough the rest of the way to beat out Australian Bruce Crampton and Bob Lunn, who finished three strokes back in a second-place tie.

KEY SHOT

Murphy attributed his victory on the 7,035 Upper Montclair Country Club course to a key shot on the 190-yard 15th hole.

Partnered with Lunn, who put his drive 10 feet from the pin, Murphy hit a No. 6 iron within six feet and sank the putt for a birdie after Lunn had missed his first putt.

Next game: Wednesday—Winnipeg at Ottawa.

Jackie Parker, 36 years old and playing his first game since the 1965 season, kept B.C. Lions in contention for two quarters in Calgary on Monday but wound up a tired, harrassed veteran as the Stampeders retained their Western Football Conference lead with a 26-6 victory.

Expected to work gradually into his comeback attempt, Parker quarterbacked almost all of the game.

He took over after Pete Ohler was forced to the sidelines early in the first quarter by the injured ankle which has handicapped him all season and stayed in the game until late in the fourth quarter, when Paul Brothers came in to call the signals for the last two times the Lions had the ball.

FLASHES OF BRILLIANCE

Parker showed flashes of his former brilliance in the first half but weariness, the rustiness of two years of idleness, the mistakes of his teammates and the unrelenting Calgary pass rush was too much for the veteran in the last two quarters.

Lions, who have scored only six touchdowns in their six games this season and only one, set up by a pass interception which left the offensive team needing only a yard, in the last three games, once again made it easy for their opposition.

Tonight's CFL game between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Ottawa Roughriders can be seen on Channel 8 starting at 5 p.m.

They started early, after electing to kick off to take advantage of a wind which gusted up to 40 miles an hour in the hope of getting an early lead.

Inasmuch as the wind died down and the heavy rain let up after a few minutes, the strategy was good. But Jim Evenson fumbled and Calgary recovered on the first B.C. play from scrimmage, then Ron Stewart intercepted Ohler on the second B.C. play.

Ohler limped to the sidelines, out of action for three to five weeks after the decision to put his ankle in a cast, and Parker came in to the thunderous applause of more than 22,000 fans who made up the largest Calgary Labor Day crowd in seven years.

NOTHING WORKED

Parker took the Lions from their 24-yard line to within 24 yards before the Stampeders stopped the march and the Lions settled for a 33-yard field goal by Ted Gerela.

Nothing worked right for Parker from there. Burned several times by good punt returns by Rudy Linterman, the Lions never got good field position again, the Stampeders tied it late in the second quarter on a 23-yard field goal by Larry Robinson, then won it with a 23-point third quarter.

It took 34 seconds for the Stamps to put it out of reach of the punchless West Coasters.

They started when Jerry Bradley fumbled a punt and Ted Wood recovered on the B.C. 34-yard line.

Gerry Keeling, who quarterbacked the entire game for Calgary with Pete Liske resting an injured knee, hit Herm Harrison in the end zone with a second-down pass and Larry Robinson converted to put Stamps ahead, 10-3.

Lions ran the kickoff back to their 23-yard line and on their first play, Ron Payne, only about four feet from the harrassed Parker, reached up to grab the ball as Parker tried to dump a pass to Dale Brady.

Payne just kept on going to cross the line standing up, Robinson converted and the Stampeders had a 17-3 lead.

They made it 19-3 when the Lions conceded a safety touch to retain possession and 26-3 when Keeling and rookie Dave Cranmer combined for a 13-yard scoring play and Robinson followed with the convert.

Gerela completed the B.C. scoring early in the fourth quarter with a 39-yard field goal after the Lions, helped by a rough-play penalty, worked the ball across the midfield stripe for the first time since Parker's opening drive.

ROUGHIES TRIM ESKS

The Eskimos took a 29-2 trimming in Regina from Saskatchewan Roughriders in another Monday game.

Staying one point behind the Stampeders, the Saskatchewan team got touchdowns from Gord Barwell, Al Ford and George Reed and three converts, two singles and 47 and 40-yard field goals from Bill Goods.

Tiger-Cats Gamble Lose to Argonauts

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats disdained a tie on Monday and wound up losing an Eastern Football Conference game to Toronto Argonauts, 15-18.

Tiger-Cats got to the Toronto 25-yard line with less than two minutes left and elected to go for a first down on a third-and-four situation. They took too long in the huddle and were penalized five yards, and again elected to try for a first down although they now needed nine yards.

Joe Zuger threw the ball over Tommy-Joe Coffey's head and the Argos got the ball on downs.

PASS FAILS

"I wanted to win," Hamilton coach Joe Restic said after the game but his decision to go for a touchdown may have been influenced by the fact that Coffey had missed on a convert and three field-goal attempts earlier in the game.

Tiger-Cats were ahead most of the game. The first quarter ended at 1-1 on singles by Dave Mann and Zuger, then Tiger-Cats went ahead in the second quarter on a touchdown pass from Zuger to Coffey, who kicked the covert.

COME FROM BEHIND

Argos tied it at 8-8 later in the quarter with Wally Gabler passing 21 yards to Paul Markle and Mann converting.

A single by Zuger and a four-yard touchdown run by Bethea restored Hamilton's seven-point lead in the third quarter but Argos came back again when Gabler combined with Bill Symons on a 68-yard scoring play and Mann kicked the convert.

Mann provided the winning points with a fourth-quarter field goal.

Fifth Straight Island Title For Nanaimo Track Team

Nanaimo's track and field team walked away with the team title for the fifth straight year during Monday's Vancouver Island track and field championships at Centennial Stadium.

Nanaimo captured both the men's and women's aggregate trophies and finished more than 500 points ahead of runner-up James Bay Athletic Association of Victoria. Cowichan Valley was third.

LEADS NANAIMO

Joanne Calverley led the Nanaimo onslaught, picking up three victories and setting one of four B.C. records established, to tie Lindsay Jack of Victoria Optimist Spartans for the outstanding athlete award with 46 of a possible 50 points.

Miss Calverley set her record in the peewee shotput with a throw of 30 ft. 9 ins.

Two of the other records were also set by Nanaimo competitors. Barb Huck established a bantam long jump mark of 17 ft. 10 ins., and Gary Vaughan set a peewee record of 82 ft. 10 ins., in the javelin.

Mike Verdell of Powell River was the other record breaker, increasing the bantam javelin mark to 17 ft. 10 ins.

MISSED SWEEP

Nanaimo missed out on only one of the six trophies, capturing the midget girls 4 x 110 relay award but missing their sweep when JBAA won the open men's 4 x 440 relay trophy.

Victoria's Bob McLaren missed out on a bid to make the Olympic standard for the 440-yard hurdles, finishing in 52.9 seconds to win against weak competition. He needed a time of 51.2 seconds.

High-Speed Bridge Chase Costs Licence

A man who drove over Point Ellice Bridge at speeds of 70 to 75 miles an hour was fined $150 Tuesday and had his licence suspended in Central Magistrate's Court.

Gregory Sam, 21, of 1276 Stellys Cross Road, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving in the early hours of Tuesday.

He was said to have been chased by police at speeds up to 75 miles an hour along Bay Street and over the bridge before he was found abandoning his car on William Street.

"When idiots like you remove warning signs off the roads, as a prank or for any other reason, there is serious danger of accident," Magistrate William Ostler told Sam and two others who pleaded guilty to taking two traffic warning signs off Point Ellis bridge, Tuesday.

Charged with Sam were Francis Sam, 27, 1151 Colville, and Barry Underwood, 20, Mount Newton Cross Road. They were fined $150 each.

The signs were found in the car after it had been chased to William Street.

□

As a "sort of revenge" against the owner, Archibald Stewart, 22, of 1615 Balmoral threw rocks which broke the windows at Mirrorshine Simoniz, 925 Johnson, and stole an ornamental tiger valued at about $1.50.

"The owner's been bugging my buddy's wife," Stewart told the magistrate.

He pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the store Monday and stealing the tiger, and was remanded until Sept. 10 for pre-sentence report.

□

Victor Berg, 37, of 1337 Gladstone, was fined $150 and had his licence suspended after he pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident on Bay Street on Monday.

He struck a parked car, causing about $90 damage.

John Cook, 19, of 968 North Park, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident Thursday on Quadra Street.

He was fined $200 and his license was suspended after he admitted striking a parked car while driving north on Quadra.

□

A Ladysmith man, Barry Neufeld, 21, was fined $400 and had his licence suspended after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving on Johnson Street Monday.

A man who skidded 150 feet along a ditch on Tillicum Road before his car stopped was fined $350 for impaire driving.

Joseph Peters, 22, 103-467 Lampson, pleaded guilty to the charge. He was prohibited from driving any but company vehicles for six months.

□

Forest Products on Aug. 9; four chrome reverse wheels and tires valued at $150 from a car parked outside 2925 Topaz on Aug. 25; and a rollaway bed valued at about $40 from the Empress Hotel on Aug. 1.

John Pendray, 20, of 3071 Larkdowne pleaded not guilty to having possession of narcotics in Beacon Hill Park on July 25.

Constable Michael Mason said he had seen the accused in the playground in Beacon Hill Park just after midnight on July 25.

He said he saw him bend down near a tree as if putting something down. Constable Mason testified he found a small pipe which had an odor similar to burned marijuana, near the tree.

The trial will resume Sept. 10.

Campbell Confirms

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell confirmed Tuesday the withdrawal of the federal government means there will be no winter works program in B.C.

He made it clear that B.C.'s contribution would not continue in the absence of the federal-provincial program but held out faint hopes that a proposed conference between Ottawa and the provinces this fall might produce an alternative.

If this ever comes to pass, Mr. Campbell said, the "pickings will be very slim" because the federal government has no money.

Western Riding Faulted

Western riding was the only event in the Saanichton fair horse show last weekend which drew criticism from a judge.

"There's room for lots of improvements in these events," said Fred MacMillan of Healdsburg, Calif., who has judged horse shows throughout the Mid-West and Pacific Northwest.

However, he had plenty of praise for the English riding events and the junior riders in the show which was sponsored by the Western Horseman's Club.

The cutting horse competition was a big attraction, with most of the contestants coming from British Columbia and Alberta.

C. M. Woodward of Douglas Lake Cattle Co. was first in the cutting horse open class. The winner of the events last year, he defeated Royal Burrows of Midnapore, Alta., who placed second, and David Batty, also of Douglas Lake Cattle Co., who was third.

Bill Collins of Edmonton was first in the novice class and Bob Grimshaw of Ladner was second.

We make gasoline.
But mileage is our business.

Maybe the day of the gas station is past.

After all, when you stop at the Shell sign, we can do a lot more than fill your tank. Gasoline is just one factor that determines mileage.

And mileage is our business.

We can help you go farther

When you stop at the Shell sign, we can check your tires. The right pressure will give you better mileage.

We can check your spark plugs. If they're worn, you could be wasting one gallon in every tankful.

We can check your air filter. If it's dirty, that's more wasted gasoline—and money.

We can suggest many more gas-saving secrets. We want everything right with your car when we fill your tank, so Super Shell can really show off.

Super Shell for good mileage

It's a good mileage gasoline for one good reason: the formulation.

There are no secrets among Super Shell's ingredients, and most are used in one competitive gasoline or another.

But no two refineries use all of the same ingredients in the same proportions.

Super Shell has five ingredients for good mileage.

(1) Platformate contains extra-energy petroleum molecules.

(2) TCP works to keep spark plugs from misfiring.

(3) Butane helps you start quickly. And the quicker you start, the less gasoline you use before you get going.

(4) A detergent fights deposits that can build up inside the carburetor. These deposits reduce mileage.

(5) Mixed Pentanes help your engine warm up quickly to prevent misfiring, bucking, coughing and wasted fuel—whatever the weather.

But as we said, gasoline is just part of the story. Mileage is our business.

We really should call them Shell mileage stations. Visit one—if you'd like to go farther.

New Park Born —Or Is It?

By A. H. MURPHY

There's a 59-acre park set out and named on the Trans-Canada Highway near the intersection of Burnside, and it seemed Tuesday it sprang into life without official birth pains of any kind.

Spokesmen for the three organizations involved in its establishment said that, so far as they knew, it just seemed to come into existence overnight.

The original proposal for a park in that area came from Public Works Minister W. H. Chant, who said the government would probably be willing to put 18 acres of land into the park if B.C. Hydro would give 12 acres it owns in that vicinity, and Saanich 29 acres.

LAND DEDICATED

A condition of the grant, said Mr. Chant, would be that all parties be prepared to have the land dedicated for park purposes.

The Chant offer was made in May, and was favorably received by Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum, who said he expected the plan would receive a sympathetic hearing from the board of directors.

Saanich also expressed interest in the deal.

VICTORIA FREEMAN

All parties agreed the park should be named as suggested by Mr. Chant, after the late Major N. Cuthbert Holmes, pioneer developer and freeman of the City of Victoria.

Sometime this summer the sign was erected, although a spokesman for the Hydro and Saanich confirmed no official action has been taken to donate and dedicate the land. It is generally agreed, however, the oversight is technical rather than one of principle, and it will be rectified when government machinery becomes operative again after the summer holidays.

August

Wettest In 14 Years

It was a very wet August, and that's official.

It was three or four times as wet as normal — the wettest and coolest August since 1954, Victoria weather officer Allan McQuarrie said Tuesday.

The Gonzales weather station registered 1.86 inches of rain compared with a long-term average of .54 inch, said Mr. McQuarrie, head of the weather office at Victoria airport. Precipitation was 1.99 inches at Patricia Bay and was as high as 2.41 inches at Quesnel Avenue in north-central Victoria.

LONG TIME AGO

Record August rainfall at Gonzales Hill is 2.26 inches, recorded in 1912.

High temperature at Gonzales was 74, with a low of 50. With 242 hours of sunshine, Gonzales Hill was 57 hours below normal. The only bright aspect was that there was slightly less wind than normal, he added.

Road Fog Due Again —Watch for Pupils

Greater Victoria motorists have been cautioned that Tuesday's heavy fog is expected to return this morning and may create hazards for school children going to classes today.

A clear night Monday, with considerable cooling after relatively high temperatures during the day, was declared by weather officials responsible for the 2½-hour fog which slowed morning rush hour traffic Tuesday.

Police reported that, despite the fog and more than 42,000 school children returning to fall classes in the area, no accidents or injuries were reported.

Students Show Spirit

Students attending first-day classes at Esquimalt senior high Tuesday were greeted with enthusiastic burst of school spirit. Unusual pep sign was created by students Vicky Potter and Linda Wilkinson in their spare time during summer, and they somehow managed to tape up paper letters Monday night. — (William E. John)

$1,600,000 Bloc

Large Bid Weighed By Sidney

A Sidney council decision that could open the way for a $1,600,000, 120-unit apartment complex for lower-income families will be known in about a week or 10 days, Mayor Arthur Freeman said Tuesday.

He spoke after a public hearing on proposed rezoning of 9.8 acres in the Melville Park area to allow the project.

The complex has been suggested by Melville Park Apartments Ltd., a local division of Diversified Holdings Ltd., of Edmonton, and H. Hartwig, president of both companies, told the hearing that they have built "about a thousand" such complexes across Alberta.

IN OPPOSITION

One landowner in nearby Melville Park subdivision, W. J. Larnick of 10391 McDonald Park Road, voiced opposition to the rezoning on the grounds it would be a "general lowering of standards in the area."

"There would be no advantage to the change, and it would only result in the detriment of Sidney and Melville Park," he told the hearing.

"It would be a betrayal of the covenant between the land purchasers and the developers made at the time of purchase of our properties, if this goes through," he said.

MORE CHILDREN

Population density and lack of playground equipment for the expected number of children in the complex were among the main points of Mr. Larnick's argument.

Though type of construction was not the immediate concern of the hearing, Mayor Freeman asked Mr. Hartwig to outline his proposed plans for the development.

Mr. Hartwig said the apartments would consist of 80 three-bedroom, and 40 two-bedroom units.

FULL BASEMENT

A full basement with automatic laundry facilities, a stove and refrigerator and baths on both levels would be included in each unit.

Monthly rental on the two-bedroom would be "about $108 and $125 on the three-bedroom," according to Mr. Hartwig.

He said both figures were estimates, and depended upon final construction costs and taxes involved.

However, monthly rental might fluctuate in accord with the upkeep costs on the units.

FUND NEEDED

By government demand, backed by federal amortization of their 50-year mortgage, the developers must maintain a fund of $23,000 a year for maintenance.

This fund does not include management fees, and covers only the cost of hiring a full-time maintenance man plus costs of redecorating, landscaping, repairing and other services required to keep the property in good condition.

Another feature enforced by federal regulations is that when a tenant's income becomes more than $7,800 yearly, he must be given three months' notice to vacate.

ONLY 12

On Mr. Larnick's question of population density, Mr. Hartwig pointed out that the national average on units per acre of land was 18. He said this complex would have only 12 units per acre.

Mr. Larnick was concerned about the number of children who would be brought to the area by the attraction of the low rentals to families with several children.

"It should be mandatory that properly equipped playgrounds be a part of any such developer's plans," he said.

TWO CHILDREN

Mr. Hartwig said his companies' experience in their other apartment complexes showed these families averaged only two children each.

He said a large area of the open ground around the 12 units in this plan would have fenced sections fully equipped with playground equipment.

Any of the yearly maintenance fund left at the end of the year would be returned in cash to the tenants," he said. Should costs be more than anticipated, rents would be raised accordingly the following year.

Red Cross Seeks 400 Pints

A two-day Red Cross blood donor clinic in Victoria and Sidney, starting today, has a target of 400 pints of blood.

The hours are 1:30 to 4:30 and 6:30 to 9 p.m. today at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, and 2:30 to 4:30 and 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday in Sanscha Hall at Sidney.

Another clinic will be held Thursday for inmates of Colquitz jail on Wilkinson Road.

Colwood

Racetrack Purchase Rejected

The hopes of Colwood-Langford-Metchosin people for more property for recreation at the former Colwood racetrack were dashed Tuesday by a letter from the defence department.

The district joint centennial committee has been trying for months to get title from the federal department for 82 acres in addition to the 18 acres on which the Centennial Swimming Pool is located.

ICE SURFACE

The committee, according to J. S. Williams, secretary of the pool commission, has plans for an ice surface, a rifle range and a senior citizens' recreation centre.

At a recent meeting of the Capital Region District Board, under whose agency the centennial pool was built, Mr. Williams reported that the facility had been a tremendous success in the first 10 months of its life.

There had been a paid attendance of more than 99,000, he said, and its success gave hopes for an ambitious recreation program if the additional federal fund could be obtained.

NOT FOR PRESENT

Word was received Tuesday from Defence Minister Leo Cadieux that no more property would be released "for the present."

The minister said the property behind the pool was "a training area that must be maintained to meet current military requirements."

Campbell Writes of Sewer Vote

'Most Unusual Gesture' Welcomed by Saanich

By DON GAIN

"A most unusual gesture" to distinguish Saanich's sewer consolidation vote of Sept. 28 from the question of regional sewage disposal methods was read to council Tuesday night.

The gesture was in the form of a letter from Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

"Because of the great interest of the people in the pollution issue, there is some danger that the question of proceeding with this bylaw might be confused in the minds of the people with questions which will have to be resolved in regard to sewage disposal methods and with respect to the role to be played by the regional district and, in particular, with the techniques to be used insofar as regional disposal methods are concerned," the letter said.

"Therefore, it should be made completely clear to the ratepayers of Saanich that questions with respect to the direction the regional board will be required to go towards disposal methods are in no way connected with the bylaw as presented by the district of Saanich.

SOUNDER BUSINESS

"This bylaw should be understood to be exactly what it is and that is, simply a consolidation of the existing sewerage areas for the purposes of sounder management, better administration and more understandable financing.

"I trust that this letter will clarify the nature of the bylaw which the municipality of Saanich will be presenting to their ratepayers on Sept. 28."

Ald. Leslie Passmore called the letter "a most unusual gesture and one that is welcome because the issue seems to become more and more confused as time goes on."

CLOUD POINT

Ald. Foster Isherwood said he was glad to hear something that didn't cloud the issue.

"If the sewer vote fails," he said, "We'll be just a few steps from being a slop-bucket community."

Council officially set the date of the referendum for Sept. 28 and passed the first three readings of the consolidation bylaw.

Mayor Hugh Curtis told council a sewer vote information desk would be set up in the municipal hall from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sept. 23 to 28, to answer questions about the referendum.

Council also:

- Referred the animals bylaw back to the lands and planning committee for further clarification.
- Learned the Pearkes Arena will be opened officially Sept. 29 if possible despite what the mayor called an accumulation of delays due to strikes earlier this year, and weather.

Old silver above and new nickel below

Old Silver Dollar Sings, Substitute Like Washer

By BILL STAVDAL

Whenever you used to get a silver dollar, you knew you had something in your fist.

The hefty slab had a clear, ringing voice that said M-O-N-E-Y.

A man with one silver dollar in his pocket walked with confidence. A man with five of them walked with a list.

Those were the days when a dollar was a dollar.

★ ★ ★

Times changed. The price of silver soared. The silver dollar disappeared into collectors' hoards or illegal smelters. The national mint switched to all nickel coins.

And now we have Son of Silver Dollar, a poor copy of his old man.

Like Frank Sinatra Jr., he just doesn't swing like Pop.

The new nickel dollar now trickling into Victoria is smaller, thinner and weighs one-third less than the original.

Spin the two on a table and hear the difference. The silver dollar sings. The replacement sounds like a washer.

The lettering says "dollar" but the look, feel and sound of the thing says "less than a dollar." It's like a public reminder of what inflation does to money.

Same with the new nickel half-dollars just coming into circulation.

★ ★ ★

The nickel 50-cent pieces are smaller and lighter than the old silver ones. They weigh little more than a silver quarter and are not much bigger.

Store clerks say they hate the nickel 50-cent piece because it can easily be handed out in change in place of a quarter.

And, of course, a customer can easily hand one IN instead of a quarter.

The same warning applies to the new nickel dollar. The new quarter, though lighter, is practically the same size as the old.

★ ★ ★

Here's how they compared in weight Tuesday on Birks' gold scales, which measure in pennyweights and troy ounces. A troy ounce is a little heavier than an avoirdupois ounce and is composed of 20 pennyweight.

One silver dollar: 15 pennyweight. Nickel dollar: 10 pennyweight.

Old silver half-dollar: just above seven pennyweight. Nickel half-dollar: five pennyweight.

Old silver quarter: almost four pennyweight. Nickel quarter: just above three pennyweight.

Skinny and tinny they may be, but coins of any kind will be welcomed in Victoria stores. Change remains in critically short supply.

Inquest Today

An inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in Chaplin's funeral home into the second Victoria traffic fatality of the year, coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Tuesday. Mrs. Lily Newell, 80, of 1565 Morrison, died Saturday about four hours after being hit by a car at Morrison and Oak Bay.

Carpenters Succeed But Injunction Stays

An injunction against Local 1598 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and several of its officers was lifted Tuesday in County Court by Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake.

It remains in force against "mystery Picketers" on the construction site of Elford Investments Ltd. on Elford Street.

The injunction was brought by Elford Investments Aug. 13 and appealed by the union, which disclaimed any connection with picketers on the job. The motion for appeal was granted Tuesday and the union was awarded costs.

Girl Returns

Linda O'Neil, 13, reported missing from her home at 201 Nicola Friday night, returned to her home Saturday evening, Saanich police said Tuesday.

Fir-Killers Prompt $25 Reward

Vandals during the weekend attacked one of the most striking Douglas fir trees on Millstream Road, enraged residents of the district said Tuesday night.

The tree, nearly 100 feet tall, is on the property of Peter Brotherston, about three miles up the road from the Trans-Canada Highway.

The vandals cut about six inches through the two-foot butt before abandoning it. The tree will likely have to be cut down because of the danger to adjoining power lines, residents said.

"Mr. Brotherston had a no-trespassing sign about 20 feet up on the tree," said one. "This was one of the most vicious acts of vandalism I have seen."

A new sign offers $25 for information leading to the apprehension of the culprits.

Dogs Die in Italy As Protest Fails

NAPLES (UPI)—Over a storm of protest, the Italian health ministry went ahead Monday with the execution of 208 dogs suspected of having rabies.

The announcement followed mercy appeals to Premier Giovanni Leone and a suggestion by West German Ambassador Paul Rugger that the dogs be quarantined for six months. All appeals were rejected.

Municipal workers executed 119 dogs Saturday in a gas chamber before protests and appeals forced city officials to reconsider on Leone's order.

After one of the dogs bit a municipal worker Sunday, the decision was made to go through with it.

All 327 dogs were lodged in adjoining kennels owned by Mary Muleny, 45, of London, and an Italian friend. Health officials discovered two dogs with rabies, decided all the dogs might be infected and ordered the executions.

Miss Muleny lapsed into shock after the executions.

Argument Over Rescue

Cat Marooned Six Days

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — A stray cat was rescued from the top of a 40-foot hydro pole Monday after spending six days waiting for the Humane Society, Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and police officials to decide who should rescue it.

Bert Lewis, a private electrician, finally removed the cat from the pole.

Residents of East Gwillimbury Heights, who called the Aurora branch of the humane society, were told the society is forbidden by Ontario Hydro to climb poles to rescue animals because a society worker was killed last spring trying to rescue a raccoon.

Raymond Twinney, a councillor in this town 16 miles north of Toronto, said Hydro officials told him:

"We're not sending men out to get them killed trying to get a cat down."

Police could not help because they are not permitted to touch Ontario Hydro property.

Lower Voting Age Sought by Church

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The general council of the United Church of Canada called on Ottawa Monday to lower the voting age in federal elections to 18 from 21.

★ ★ ★

At the same time, council accented its emphasis on youth by accepting a recommendation that its board of colleges encourage all United Church arts and theological colleges to provide adequate student representation on decision-making bodies.

The council resumed sessions of its nine day meeting which began Aug. 27 with a service in French, the first time prayers at general council have been offered in that language.

It also resolved and established as policy that wherever feasible there be added representation from persons under 25 on church legislative bodies.

★ ★ ★

The church's commission on congregational life and work said it presented the recommendations because "widespread protests among youth has erupted in numerous areas of society," and major demand of youth is representation in making decisions that effect them.

The United Church plans a system of annual leave for clergy to continue their education.

Under the proposal, approved Tuesday, each minister would be given three weeks off annually for study in addition to his regular vacation.

★ ★ ★

Council rejected a suggestion from Rev. D. Bruce Johnson of Medicine Hat, Alta., that the leave be granted only in alternate years.

"I feel we're going a bit fast and a bit far," Mr. Johnson said.

Clergy also will be required to take studies every fourth year in a program devised by the church's board of colleges.

★ ★ ★

A minimum of $1,750,000 in aid for overseas development and relief during the next 2½ years was promised by the council.

Delegates approved a resolution from a special committee recommending that the 1968 allotment of $250,000 for such aid be increased immediately to $750,000.

Vatican Answer:

Encyclical 'Must' Without Ifs, Buts

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican said Monday Catholics must obey Pope Paul's encyclical against birth control without qualification.

The comment in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano appeared to be in answer to statements by Belgian and German bishops last week suggesting Catholics may deviate from the Pope's decision, if they have serious and well-motivated reasons for doing so.

The newspaper so far has made no mention of the bishops' statements. But in its comment Monday it said:

"Even if a Catholic found difficulty in understanding the binding character of its (the encyclical's) argumentation, because of his scientific training or for any other reason, his obligation of obedience would not be less. Because this obligation is not based on reason, but on the authority of the Roman pontiff."

★ ★ ★

In London, England, the Vatican sought to prevent a revolt against the encyclical by circulating a covering letter with the directive, a London newspaper said Tuesday.

The text of the secret letter, addressed to papal diplomatic representatives and written by the Vatican's secretary of state, Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, was published in today's edition of the London Times. The newspaper said it obtained the letter from an "overseas source."

★ ★ ★

Cardinal Cicognani called on Roman Catholic church leaders "to put forward to Christians this delicate point of church doctrine, to explain it, and to vindicate the profound reasons behind it."

For New Fashions

Asia Comes West

MONTREAL (CP) — Dim lights, the potent aroma of burning incense and high-pitched strains of Eastern music, set the scene for Donald Richer's collection of shimmering evening wear at a press preview Tuesday.

The dazzling array of opulent mid-Asian fashions entitled Eastern Moods in Western Way, included everything from jewelled metallic fabrics to three-dimensional brocatelles.

★ ★ ★

Encrusted matelasses, fabrics resembling glittering brocade but of finer texture, added a dramatic note to otherwise soft styling.

The 27-year-old Montreal designer employed femininity as his watchword and elegance as the keynote to his collection of cocktail dresses. Unusual color combinations of ginger and curry and his favorite, amethyst and silver, were featured in some creations.

One knitted lurex dress was fashioned into a buckless ascot dress in stripes of amethyst and silver with gently flared skirt.

Marriage Age Will Increase

TAIPEI (UPI) — The Nationalist Chinese government plans to raise the legal minimum age for marriage in an attempt to reduce the birth rate. Government sources say it will soon propose an amendment to raise the legal age for men from 18 to 20, and of women from 16 to 18.

British Women

Labor Backs Equal Pay

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Delegates representing 9,000,000 British trade unionists defied their leadership Tuesday and came out in favor of immediate equal pay for women.

The move came in an amendment to a resolution by the general council of the Trades Union Congress, now holding its centenary meeting.

The general council resolution called on the government to take action to introduce equal pay within two years. The amendment, opposed by the general council, called for worker action to achieve the aim immediately.

★ ★ ★

Despite appeals from the general council, the delegates carried the amendment, which could mean strikes and slowdowns in industry.

Delegate Joan O'Connell of the Draughtsmen and Allied Technician's Association said in moving the amendment: "There is nothing more revolting than the annual spectacle of women coming on to the platform to beg supper for equal pay. It ceases to be funny."

Prime Minister Wilson's government was told to ease its austerity squeeze on wages or lose the backing of British workers.

The warning was delivered by Lord Wright, TUC president in his keynote speech.

Lord Wright said in his address — approved by the full congress council before delivery — that the congress approves of the government's intentions to try to restore Britain to solvency but disagrees with its methods.

THE FABRIC DOCTOR HAS THE ANSWERS

QUESTION:
Does Drycleaning Damage Elastic in Waistbands?—Mrs. J. M.

Dear Mrs. J. M.: Unfortunately it does. Dry cleaning solvent has a deteriorating effect on rubber. With each successive cleaning the elasticity decreases until it no longer serves the purpose for which it was intended. It is advisable to have the elastic installed in such a way that it can easily be removed or replaced.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you accepted a suggestion from a well-meaning reader who came up with a safe way to smoke in bed.

The woman said if a person trains himself to hold the middle and fourth fingers, the cigarette between the cigarette cannot drop out of his hand if he should fall asleep. "He will be awakened when the cigarette burns down to his fingers," she added.

As chairman of the emergency rescue and first aid committee of the New York Firemen's Association, I hope you will retract that statement and tell your readers there is no safe way to smoke in bed.

Bed-smokers run two risks. One is asphyxiation, the other is fire. The so-called "safe" way might awaken the smoker before he becomes roasted alive, but it would not prevent him from becoming asphyxiated by the smouldering of a wool blanket or a foam rubber mattress.

Please take the word of a fireman who has carried out too many corpses.—R.E.G.

Ashes Might Be You

Dear R.E.G.: It was dumb of me to have printed that woman's letter and I hereby accept 10 lashes with the old wet noodle. The correct advice is as follows: do NOT smoke in bed. The ashes on the floor might be your own.

Dear Ann Landers: Wilma and I went together for three years. I thought for sure we would be married. When she told me she had another guy she liked better I was shocked and hurt. But I wished her luck, told her to keep my ring and to forget the $600 she owed me. Wilma and the guy took off for California and I was under the impression they were married, but I was wrong.

Six months later she came back to town—five months pregnant. Her boy friend had run out on her. She was broke, and sick and hungry for a square meal.

I told Wilma I still loved her and asked her to marry me. We have been married two years and I never once mentioned the fact that the baby wasn't mine. I thought we were getting along fine, until two months ago when Wilma asked me to send her to California to visit her folks. They had never seen the baby. I worked on the car for two days getting it ready for the 200-mile trip to the airport.

A few weeks ago my father passed away and I had to acknowledge many bouquets and telegrams. I typed the thank you notes on my personal stationery and signed my name in ink. It came back to me that I was "a jerky dame who had no manners" because the notes should have been handwritten. I wish I could have done the notes by hand but no one would have been able to read them. Am I "a jerky dame?"—The Scrawler.

Dear S: Better to send a typewritten note than a handwritten note that is illegible. As a person who has seen a great deal of illegible handwriting, I'm with you.

Lucky in Long Haul

Last week I got a letter from her saying she and the baby were not coming back. She said she has a job out there but I have a hunch she has teamed up again with the guy who got her pregnant. What do you think?—ANONYMOUS.

Dear Anon: Your story is a heart-breaker, but I think you'll be lucky in the long run if Wilma stays in California.

□

Dear Ann Landers: My penmanship is absolutely terrible and I am ashamed of it. I have tried my darndest to improve but I am a hopeless case.

Stewardess' Last Flight Met by Honor Guard

TORONTO (CP) — After 25 years, 10 months, 14 days, 18 hours and 15 minutes of service, stewardess Florence Perkins stepped from an Air Canada plane and into retirement.

Chuck Gibson, manager of Air Canada's passenger service in Toronto, said he believed she has the longest stewardess career for any airline.

★ ★ ★

When Miss Perkins stepped from the red and silver Vanguard from the Barbados and Bermuda Saturday evening she was greeted by about 40 uniformed Air Canada service staff members in a guard-of-honor formation.

"I was staggered," she said at a party given in her honor later. "I went into orbit."

★ ★ ★

A native of Estevan, Sask., Miss Perkins graduated from Toronto General Hospital as a registered nurse in 1942. At that time only graduate nurses were employed as stewardesses, so she applied "with the idea it would be fun for a year and then I'd go back to nursing."

Now, she said she'll take a refresher course and return to nursing.

★ ★ ★

She recalls the early years of the 10-passenger Lockheed 14Rs with special nostalgia.

"During the war, passengers would mostly be men with priority because they were working on the war effort. We got to know them so well we could fix their coffee without asking about cream and sugar."

The Lockheeds flew over the Rockies at 11,000 feet compared with the jets' height of 35,000 feet.

★ ★ ★

"We'd all wear oxygen masks and stewardesses were plugged in on long lines so as to move among passengers," she said.

"When someone put a foot out in the aisle it would pull us back with a snap.

"You're stepping on my chain," was a frequent stewardess wail.

Mystery Affair

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Vancouverite Susan Collier Lundell went to a party Monday night, but aides to the prime minister refused to say where the party was or who else was there.

The 48-year-old prime minister and Miss Lundell, a vivacious 24-year-old blonde, earlier were at the plush Bayshore Inn for a dinner given by the Canadian Bar Association.

Aides to the prime minister declined to divulge details of the party and would only say it was a private affair at a city home.

However, it was learned Trudeau's date with Miss Lundell was arranged before his arrival in Vancouver Monday afternoon.

MPs Hope to Save Observatory

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government's decision to cancel construction of the Queen Elizabeth observatory near Osoyoos, B.C., was criticized during the weekend by four British Columbia Liberal MPs.

"I think this decision is a real tragedy," said Ray Perrault, member for Burnaby-Seymour.

"This facility has to be located in Canada to advance science in our own country."

Mr. Perrault said he will ask the cabinet to change its mind.

Doug Hogarth, MP for New Westminster, said he was very disappointed at the cancellation of the telescope project and the municipal winter works program.

"The federal government does have to look at our expenditures and some things that are beneficial to Canada will have to be cut," said the Liberal newcomer.

David Anderson, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, said he would investigate the matter when he arrived in Ottawa. He has not made up his mind on the issue, Mr. Anderson said.

"There's a tremendous dispute among scientists about this," he said. "I prefer to say nothing until I talk to more scientists."

Robert Borrie, Prince George-Peace River MP, said he would see if the telescope can be saved.

"There is a need for such a telescope in B.C.," he said.

Skookum Seekers Told Quit Chase

PENDER HARBOR (CP) — Amateur whale hunters have been asked to stop chasing Skookum Cecil — the four-ton killer whale which escaped from his pen here a week ago.

Vince Penfold, Vancouver public aquarium curator said: "Too many boats have been chasing Cecil around Porpoise Bay.

"We wish they would stop it so that we can get down to our work — we want to tame the animal in the wild.

"He is still our property and not open game," he said.

Will Rogers' Rips By Audio Artist

VANCOUVER (CP) — "Rrrrrip, cock-a-doodle-doo," and other peculiar noises were among the sounds heard by British Columbia CBC-TV viewers tuned in to Friday night's late night movie—The Story of Will Rogers. The CBC public relations officer, Dave Dixon, said Tuesday that the sounds of ripping trousers and others were added to the film by an audio operator.

Mr. Dixon said an investigation is under way.

The audio operator was summer relief help and his job ended the night he showed the movie, he added.

One viewer said the background sound effects started with a warbling sound which did not appear to have any connection with the movie.

This was followed by the crowing of a rooster when Rogers showed his flying buddies some old silent news film of air ace Billy Mitchell bombing a battleship.

The symbol of these movies when sound came to the films was a rooster giving a mighty crow.

And when Rogers got off a corral fence it sounded as though he had torn out the seat of his pants.

Fare Cut for Aged One of PWA Goals

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines announced Tuesday it is studying proposals for no-strings-attached reduced fares for persons 65 or over.

PWA vice-president Don Watson said the matter "has been under serious study for some time."

Mr. Watson said if the company does decide to apply to the federal air transport committee for reduced fares for elderly persons, it would not be on a standby basis.

"They would have the full rights and privileges of any other passengers. They would not be held up en-route which can occur on a standby system."

Canadian Pacific Airlines said Friday it is applying for a special fare for senior citizens.

If its application is approved by the air transport committee, senior citizens will fly for 50 per cent of the regular fare on a standby basis.

The company said that once accepted for travel, the passenger would be confirmed through to his destination but would fly only when space not occupied by full-fare passengers becomes available.

When Skin Sags on Face and Neck

Even skin that sags and is no longer smooth, could be made firm and much younger looking. That "older look" usually appears first around the throat, but is comparatively easy to treat by very simple means that require no skill at all.

Get 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength from your drug or dept. store and apply it gently to your throat and face each night before retiring. After just a few days, you will notice your skin becomes firmer again and smoother. That is because the 2nd Debut has revitalized your skin with a new supply of water from the surface clear into the inner skin.

Boycott Brief By UVic

GUELPH, Ont. — University of Victoria and University of Manitoba rejoined the Canadian Union of Students Sunday after leaving it last week. A spokesman for the Victoria unit spoke of the need for a national union.

Five other universities, including UBC which also withdrew, were considering rejoining the union.

Tuesday the union, meeting in conference, here, passed a resolution calling for the abolition of tuition fees. The resolution said the financial gap could be filled by imposing a higher tax on high-income groups or by eliminating economic waste in universities such as duplication of facilities.

Martin Loney, 24, president of the Simon Fraser students union, was named president-elect of 1969.

Montreal Student Dissenters

Hundreds May Join Barricade

MONTREAL (CP) — Hundreds of French-language students in suburban St. Leonard today may join a small group of their colleagues who have barricaded themselves in Aime Renaud High School since Friday.

About 800 French-speaking students who attended the school last year have been transferred to other schools this year as a result of a regional school board decision to make Aime Renaud an English-language institute.

The French students have protested that they are being transferred to inferior schools and that their education will suffer.

A group of 80 moved into the four-storey school Friday night and have occupied it since.

Aime Renaud was to have started classes today along with other schools in Quebec, but because of the student sit-in the board decided to delay the opening until Monday.

Today's mass invasion of the school is being encouraged by the Mouvement pour l'integration scolaire, which seeks to have main school instruction in French.

ROCHELEAU—Who passed away September 3, 1966.

His dear, kind face to see,
To hear his voice, to see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
His spirit has fled, his sufferings o'er
At the fireside he will join us no more.
—His loving wife Tina.

ABOUT TV

with Bruce Lowther

If there was any doubt as to the star of summer TV in these parts, the Labor Day holiday weekend ended it. His prices are low, his volume is high, his business is cars and his name is "Hi friends, Ralph Williams, owner of Northwest Chrysler-Plymouth, 137th and Aurora Avenue North in the city of Seattle."

Channel 7 stayed on the air with old movies for two nights as the Los Angeles-based baldy staged a sale. In fact, Williams wiped out most of the KIRO schedule from Saturday to 4:30 p.m. Monday with his white seals, no balloon payments and "Emerson, EM on your dial, 5-0720.

I mention this mainly because Channel 7 never informed me it would happen. But then, neither did CHAN report its salmon derby Monday and Trudeau speech Tuesday, nor did Channel 2 and the other stations report their many changes. I'll never understand why they keep doing it.

□

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's shortcircuited answer—Stan Freberg's CBS radio shows were filled with western hero Bang Gunleigh, hi-fi expert Herman Horne, hi-fi aide Strudelmeyer, commercial-reading flyer Jet Crash, flyer's product Puffed Grass, and Face the Funnies panelists Dr. Linus P. Quoit, G. L. Spoon and Edna St. Louis Missouri. Wow!

Today's question—Let's play Monopoly. Which streets are the cheapest and most expensive on which to build houses and hotels? What company makes Monopoly? Name the four railroads. And You Have Won Second Prize in a Beauty Contest: Collect how much? Answers Thursday.

"You can take the country out of Zalim . . . BUT . . . you can't take Zalim out of the country."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

A reader inquires whether the sequence: one spade, two hearts, three hearts, is forcing. This evergreen question was, it seems, prompted by the deal shown in the diagram.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 S	Pass
2 H	Pass	3 H	Pass
4 H	All pass

Opening lead: Spade two

North opened one spade and raised his partner's two-heart response to three. South now elected to treat the situation as forcing, and he went on to game. The defence started with a spade to East's jack and a low spade back, ruffed by declarer.

South cashed the ace, king of clubs, ruffed a club on the table, and led the queen of trump. East returned a spade, shortening declarer, who was now in a hopeless position. If he continued a trump, a return of either black suit would force his last trump. So declarer wisely played diamonds and settled for down one.

As South held only eight points in high cards, and North's raise was not forcing, the deal should have been passed out at three hearts. At that, due to the very favorable layout of the East-West cards, ten tricks could actually have been made.

After ruffing at trick two, South should cross to a diamond and ruff another spade. This manoeuvre is repeated and South then leads a trump. If a club is returned, South wins in his own hand and leads his last trump. East can win this, but declarer will then be able to draw the last adverse trump with dummy's queen and claim the contract.

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OCEAN"

Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on the hills. The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

Salt Spring Declares War on Pollution

FULFORD—Salt Spring Island residents said Tuesday that they would fight pollution of the waters around their island all the way to Canada's Supreme Court if necessary.

So disturbed are they over the issue of sea disposal of septic tank effluent into Trincomali Channel, between Salt Spring and Galiano Islands, that they are willing to pay for sewage treatment plants themselves.

* * *

A residents' spokesman said that one man had offered up to $5,000 of his own money to prevent sea pollution, and at least one other resident guaranteed another large sum.

A mass meeting will be held on the island, probably Saturday night, when it is expected there will be an appeal for funds. Another petition will be taken at that time.

The issue has been hot since the provincial pollution control board recently gave permission for the dumping of 21,250 gallons a day of septic tank effluent into the sea. The permission was granted Maliview Estates Ltd. to put the effluent into the sea where a major subdivision is planned, about seven miles north of Ganges.

* * *

Control Board director H. J. Keenan said there were other ways of disposing of sewage, but they would cost more money than sea dumping.

Countering this, Mrs. Ada Ryan, one of the leaders of the anti-pollution drive, said:

"We don't want to see Salt Spring Island surrounded by a cesspool. There are other business firms just waiting for the next mail to get their requests in to the Pollution Control Board for the same thing.

"We aim to fight," says Mrs. Ryan.

Robert Hollman described the plan as "an outrage," and bound to have the effect of spoiling waters which up to this point have been clean and contamination-free.

Louis Yellowlees, said residents felt that the provincial government had no jurisdiction over the ocean, and that the islanders "have just begun to fight."

Commenting recently on the question, provincial Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said that his department had some jurisdiction in the matter.

* * *

It would be a violation of the law for developers to dump septic tank effluent from a subdivision into the sea without a certificate from health authorities.

No such certificate has yet been applied for by the developers, Maliview Estates Ltd., the minister said, and he indicated that department officials would take a hard look at the possible health hazards involved, if and when one was received.

Mr. Loffmark has said flatly that future applications for permission to discharge untreated sewage into waters around Greater Victoria would be rejected on health grounds.

* * *

However, he added that in the Salt Spring case the hazard would be subjected to scientific determination, and if no problems were found the certificate would be issued.

One island woman, according to Mr. Yellowlees, suggested a sign with the following inscription:

* * *

"You are now near the location of the future Maliview Estates sewage outfall. It is designed to discharge 21,250 gallons a day at a point 700 feet from the shore. On a clear day you may be able to see evidence of the sewage by the subtle change in the color of the sea. You may, if fortunate, be able to sense the presence of this monument to human progress and ingenuity."

Ten-Minute Spring

Student Wins

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 20-year-old vocational student, whose mother said he had rocks in his head to enter, is the unofficial winner of the "world's biggest" fishing derby.

Angler Jim Towe of Port Alberni hooked a 31-pound 11-ounce spring which took him only 10 minutes to land. He is first in line to collect a $25,000-cash prize.

However, Mr. Towe and other winners in the three-day derby, which offered $52,000 in cash and other prizes, will have to wait until tonight before they collect. Meanwhile, the fish will be checked for artificial weight-boosters.

$10 FEE

The winner's mother, Isabel Towe, told him he had "rocks in his head to go down there — you can't afford it."

Anglers had to pay a $10 entry fee .

Mr. Towe, who by a previous arrangement will split his prize with fishing companions Harry Havard and Lawrence Herkel, also of Port Alberni, said he used to get sick every time he went fishing.

His only other catch before the labor day weekend derby was an eight-pounder.

Pete Semak of Vancouver captured second place with a 30-pound 12½-ounce spring to win a $5,200 camper truck. Rod Aune, also of Vancouver, was third with a salmon weighing half an ounce less to win a $3,515 boat, motor and trailer.

Lew Woolman of Vancouver won a $2,900 A-frame cabin with a 29-pound eight-ounce salmon and Bob Young, also of Vancouver, placed fifth with a 28-pounder that will bring him a $2,000 trailer.

Nine other anglers each won $1,000 cash with fish weighing as little as 18 pounds.

Derby organizers spent $12,000 to police the event and guard against cheating. The area was patrolled by commercial fishermen and experts will examine the fish to make sure they came from Howe Sound or English Bay.

All winners must sign an affidavit in the presence of an RCMP officer.

"If there's something wrong, that makes it perjury as well as fraud," said Finley Anthony, one of the derby organizers.

Mr. Anthony estimated that between 3,000 and 5,000 boats took part in the derby each day but was unable to estimate the total number of fishermen. He said it would be a week before organizers — a syndicate of Vancouver businessmen — knew if they showed a profit.

Angler Dies

Cpl. A. D. McPhail of Bowden, Man., drowned Sunday when he fell overboard while fishing in the Vancouver salmon derby. He was stationed at CFB, Comox.

Supermarket Plan May Fold

By HENRY BESIER

NANAIMO—A supermarket, which was to have been built near the St. George Street-Terminal Avenue intersection apparently won't be constructed after all.

A reliable source in Nanaimo said Monday that although there will not be a Shop Easy outlet on the site, a service station, scheduled to be built next to the store is still planned.

Several months ago, the advisory planning commission approved re-zoning of the property to facilitate construction of the supermarket, but no sign of activity has been reported on the site.

It is reported that the company had paid off options to buy homes in the area for demolition.

A commission member said on Tuesday that the deal was called off about a week after the property was re-zoned. He said he is unhappy about the situation, but declined further comment.

* * *

The land on which the project was to have been built, was the subject of considerable controversy in Nanaimo, following a brief by the Automotive Retailers Association. Members said the association was against the construction of more service stations in the city.

The commission re-zoned the land to include the service station on the understanding that the entire project would be undertaken.

Lawyer Raps SPCA

PORT ALBERNI — A lawyer Tuesday accused the SPCA of arrogant action in seizing and selling 11 horses owned by a man acquitted on a charge of wilfully neglecting the animals.

William Beckingham said the horses were seized from his client, Carrie Vis of Port Alberni, at the end of July. He said Mr. Vis was later charged with failing to provide adequate food, water and shelter for the horses, but the charge was dismissed Friday by a magistrate.

Mr. Beckingham said the society seized the horses under provisions of the SPCA act of 1968, a "consolidation of laws" which gives the society authority to take animals and sell them.

'ARROGANT MANNER'

"If the SPCA act gives them power to seize and sell the animals, it is an astonishing piece of legislation, and I think the SPCA officials handled the case in an arrogant manner," said the lawyer.

A total of $1,200 was realized from the sale which was held Monday.

Pilot Fined $250 After Crash

ALERT BAY—A Courtenay man charged with operating an aircraft while impaired, was fined $250 Tuesday in Courtenay Magistrate's Court.

Peter Reading was charged May 27 after a float-equipped aircraft crashed and burned on a beach near Alert Bay after several attempts to take off. Reading escaped injury.

Norm Goldie Runner-Up

VANCOUVER — Norm Goldie of Victoria finished second to Clem Meilleur of Port Moody in the Pacific National Exhibition five-pin bowling championship Monday. Meilleur's total for the 10 games was 2,955, while Goldie had 2,684.

Dot Annis of Vancouver, with 2,547, won the women's division.

Billy Hoult and Doris Stewart, both of Scarborough, Ontario, won the men's and women's Canadian masters five-pin championships.

UN Will Hear Israeli Charge

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — The United Nations Security Council will meet at noon PDT today to consider an Israeli charge that Egypt committed a deliberate act of aggression in the Suez Canal area eight days ago, it was officially announced Tuesday.

Earthquake Registered

WASHINGTON (AP) — An earthquake apparently centred in the Atlantic Ocean about 300 miles east northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, was recorded Tuesday.

The National Earthquake Information Centre said the quake, which caused no damage, registered 6.4 on the Richter scale.

Children Suffer

BURNS LAKE (CP) — Ten small children were being treated in hospital Tuesday night for suspected lye poisoning. One was in serious condition.

They were among 26 children taken to hospital Monday night after apparently eating household lye. Police were questioning an 11-year-old boy.

Sumner Top Rider

Roger Sumner won the 25-mile time trial on Pat Bay Highway Monday and Sunday's 60-mile open marathon on Sooke Road.

Summer's time for the 25-mile event was 1:01:37 and his Sunday winning time was 2:54:17.

Second on Monday was Helmut Meisel, while Ed McRae of Vancouver came third.

Meisel came third in the 60-mile race, behind second-place finisher Tom Morris.

The weekend events were held by the Victoria Cycling Club.

Barmen Approve Contract

NANAIMO — Bartenders and waiters in hotels from Nanaimo to Campbell River have won pay increases ranging from 45 cents to 62½ cents an hour over three years.

The 130 employees, members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union, voted nearly 90 per cent to accept the terms of a new three-year contract, retroactive to April 1.

The British Columbia Hotels Association has also ratified the agreement.

Island Golfer Runner-Up

JASPER—L. F. Davidson and W. A. Young, both of Port Alberni, qualified for the championship flight in the 38th annual Totem Pole golf tournament with 36-hole totals of 149 and 155 respectively.

Davidson's total was just one stroke off the pace set by defending champion Bud Gilbert of Mount Vernon, Wash., who captured medal honors.

Mrs. Young qualified for the ladies' championship flight with 190.

UN Unit Raps Three Areas

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — South Africa, Portugal and Rhodesia were condemned by a UN subcommittee Tuesday for alleged military aggression against liberation movements and the populations of territories under their control. This was among the points in a report of an eight-member subcommittee of the special committee on colonialism.

King Fisherman Contest

Coho Limit Catches End Year's Drought

The coho arrived . . . and they came and them came and they came in Juan de Fuca Strait waters over the holiday weekend which saw two derbies rack up the biggest number of entries ever.

The Victoria to Sooke waters had been starved for coho this year, but the hundreds and hundreds of anglers that heeded an early alert the coho were on the way and decided to take part in the derby fishing were all smiles Saturday and Monday.

WELL PLEASED

Just about every fisherman landed coho and officials of both the Sooke Rod and Gun Club and the Esquimalt Anglers' Association derbies were well pleased with the results.

Many boats weighed in limit catches.

Saturday fishing was hot from Sooke to Victoria. Sunday it fell off, but Monday it was red hot. On the fishing grounds the dipping of nets which came up with silver streaks were in evidence wherever one looked.

SOME YEARS

It was the best non-pink-salmon-year sport fishing experienced in those waters for some years.

Frank Barnes won the Esquimalt and District Anglers' Association derby with a 12.6-pound spring salmon. Pete Exstrom was second with a 12-pound spring (chinook); Bill Kirby third with an 11.10 coho; Reg Byron fourth with an 11.9-pound coho; and C. A. Verne fifth with a 10.12-pound coho.

Big consolation prizewinner of a boat, motor and trailer was H. A. Charleswood, 238 Beaconsborough.

HIDDEN WEIGHTS

Hidden weight winners were Charles Anslow, Allan Miller, Bonnie Smith, Charlie Fairall, Gordon Hryhoryshen, H. B. Sundkvist, Cecil Casey, Clayton Carner, Peter, R. Bannister, Bob Taylor, Vern Edwards, R. McIntosh, Valerie Allison, and A. Reid.

Litterbugs Face Stiffer Bylaw

The city is going to crack down on litterbugs, perhaps to the extent of imposing a $10 fine on anyone caught throwing even a cigarette packet on the street.

And in other moves to cleanup the downtown area, shopkeepers may be forbidden to sweep dirt into the gutters, and be forced to keep their yards and parking lots free of litter.

Also under consideration is a move to ban parking on alternate sides of downtown streets at night in order to give city crews a better chance to clean up.

The same suggestion was made earlier this year, but was dropped after objections from hotel owners. Mayor Hugh Stephen said Tuesday he anticipated similar objections now that the proposal had been renewed.

"I think the problem can be worked out," he told city council's public works committee Tuesday. "We can ban parking on one side of the street one night, from the other side the next night."

Mayor Stephen said enforcement of the anti-litter bylaw would also likely produce numerous complaints. It has been on the books for years but has never been enforced and the bylaw does not include any penalty for infractions.

He said enforcement of the bylaw, backed up with fines, "will cause friction, but it has to be done."

Chess Open Tough For B.C.

There were no B.C. chess players among the leaders when the seventh annual Canadian Open chess championship came to an end Monday in Toronto.

It was a one-sided affair, with Danish grandmaster Bent Larsen running away with the $1,000 first prize, compiling 10½ points in 11 rounds.

The 33-year-old Dane, who easily won the U.S. Open two weeks earlier, finished two points ahead of five players who tied for second place.

Winning $305 each for second-place ties were Ken Rogoff and Ron Eberlein, both of Rochester, N.Y.; Orest Popovych of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Walter Dobrich and Denis Allan, both of Toronto.

After that, with eight points apiece, came Bruce Amos and Geza Fuster of Toronto and Lawrence Day and Jan Krotki of Ottawa.

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

This Special Hemorrhoid Remedy Contains a Unique Healing Substance That Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "Itching Piles". It is most embarrassing for the sufferer during the day and especially aggravating at night.

If you want satisfactory relief—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance with the ability to promptly relieve the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported. This improvement was maintained over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions—even cases of long standing.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—developed by a world-renowned research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Bizarre Accident

Pig Discharges Fatal Bullet

ROLLA, Mo. (UPI) — One of two small pigs in the trunk of the car apparently discharged a .22 rifle, killing a 20-year-old rural Newburg, Mo., mother of two on a family outing 10 miles south of here Sunday.

"Oh, my god, it hurts," her husband quoted Mrs. Nancy Marie Cook of saying as the bullet struck her and she slumped forward in the front seat. Her husband, Ronald Cook, 24, sped to Rolla where the woman was pronounced dead.

The highway patrol said Cook and the two children arrived at the Phelps County hospital in shock.

The pigs were in separate burlap sacks in the trunk, the patrol said. Apparently one pig came in contact with the rifle and the bullet passed through the back and front seats, striking Mrs. Cook in the back.

A highway patrolman described the shooting as one of the most bizarre accidents he had ever handled.

Just Bull Willing

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Resplendent in scarlet loincloth, Indonesian gladiator Bandot Lahardo strode into a soccer stadium, intent on killing a ferocious African lion barehanded before 100,000 spectators.

But the lion turned chicken and refused to fight.

Perhaps the animal had heard of Lahardo's exploits in Surabaya, East Java, where he recently killed a tiger and two bulls with his bare hands. Or it may have seen a television program in which a large truck ran over the 30-year-old gladiator's body without hurting him.

But a bull, brought into the arena after the lion's exit, entered into the spirit of things and charged the gladiator, wounding him slightly in the chest before being driven into a cage.

Heart Grafted To Brazil Man

SAO PAULO (AP) — A Brazilian team of surgeons transplanted the heart, kidneys and pancreas of a suicide victim into four recipients Tuesday, the Hospital das Clinicas reported. One of the kidney recipients died after the operation.

Hospital spokesmen said recipients of the heart and other kidney were "doing well" but the pancreas patient was suffering complications.

The heart transplant team was headed by Dr. Euryclides de Jesus Zerbini, who performed Latin America's first heart transplant. The kidney transplants were handled by Dr. Geraldo de Campos Freire and the pancreas operation by Dr. Edmundo Vasconcellos.

Unofficial sources identified the heart recipient as Hugo Orlandi, 42.

Skywriter Airs His Love

SEATTLE (AP) — "I love you" appeared in letters behind a skywriter's plane high over Seattle Monday.

Several females phoned the Seattle Post-Intelligencer to find out who did it or had it done.

Someone's amorous swain?

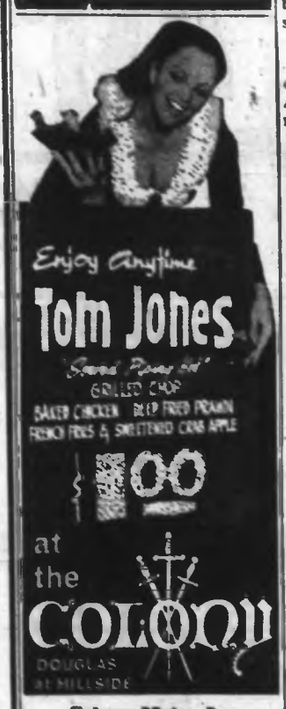

Commercial pilot Art Bell explained. He was returning from another skywriting job, and:

"I don't know why I did it. I just felt good."

Garden Notes

Of Cabbages and Things

By M. V. CHESNUT

Pests are on the wing with a vengeance these days, and one of the worst is our common white butterfly. Not that the butterfly itself attacks our plants, for it feeds only upon the nectar of flowers, but it has an unerring nose for all members of the cabbage family and lays its eggs on the leaves of cabbage, cauliflower, sprouts and the like.

These hatch out into an army of hairy caterpillars, each with a voracious appetite for brassica leaves, and soon our cabbage and cauliflower plants begin to look like lace curtains.

What to do about them is a bit of a problem. I have never been very keen on using poison sprays or dusts on vegetables or fruits which are nearing maturity and are soon to be eaten.

True, we wash our vegetables, but some of our insecticides — DDT, for instance — have the nasty habit of accumulating in the body fat, and even very tiny doses taken over a long period of time could build up to the point where illness results.

If you have only a few plants of the cabbage family in your garden, probably the simplest way to control the depredations of the cabbage butterfly is to examine the backs of the leaves every couple of days and crush any of the egg masses found thereon.

A light attack by the caterpillars can also be handled by hand-picking.

★ ★ ★

An old-time remedy which still works well is to water your brassica plants every few days with salt water. Use half a tablespoonful of common salt per gallon of water and wet the leaves thoroughly, using a watering can.

This doesn't kill the caterpillars, but it renders the leaves distasteful to the newly-hatched worms, and they will move elsewhere.

It has often occurred to me that it might be possible to avoid an infestation of leaf-eating caterpillars on our cabbages if we could only figure out some way to mask the characteristic odor of these plants.

The Cabbage White butterfly seeks out these plants on which to lay her eggs, and she must recognize the plants by their smell. Seems to me it should be possible to cross her up by making our cabbages smell like something else.

I think perhaps a weekly spraying with a phenol-type household disinfectant should do the trick—something like Creolin, Creocide, Lysol or Dettol, one teaspoonful per gallon of water.

★ ★ ★

When I was a youngster, a market gardener in our neighborhood made life perilous for the Cabbage White butterfly by offering a bounty of 10 cents per hundred butterflies killed and delivered to him.

All the kids in the district became bounty hunters, for you could make the price of an ice cream soda in a single afternoon.

One boy ran up a fantastic total and was rapidly becoming wealthy when we discovered his secret. All he did was allow the hose to trickle for an hour or so on a bare patch of soil in his backyard.

White butterflies came from miles around to alight on the cool mud, which seemed to possess a powerful attraction for them. All he had to do was pick 'em off, drop them in his cyanide killing jar, and collect his bounty.

ART BUCHWALD Patches Up Party

Doctor in the House

After every political convention, doctors are called in to bind the wounds and strengthen the heart of the party. The house doctor for the Democratic Party is Dr. Heinrich Applebaum, who arrived on Friday.

"Mein Gott," he said horrified. "What happened? I never saw such a mess."

★ ★ ★

"We tried to get you as soon as possible, Doctor."

"I didn't have the right credentials to get through the police lines."

"Hurry Doctor, do something."

"Well first we better get the tear gas out of here. The party can't breathe and the pulse is very bad."

"We've tried to bring in fresh air Doctor, but tear gas has now become a symbol of the party, and its making us all cry."

★ ★ ★

"What happened to the left arm of the Party? It's almost been severed."

"It occurred during the platform fight on Vietnam, Doctor. We gave first aid, but we don't know if we can save it or not."

"It's badly bruised."

"Dr. McCarthy said the arm must go. What do you think Dr. Applebaum?"

"It doesn't look so good, but I don't see how the Party can function without it. The right arm seems shaky. How did that happen?"

"Credentials fight. We lost a lot of blood. Dr. George Wallace took a look at it and said the right arm ought to come off, too."

"Has anyone thought to give the patient a transfusion?"

"Yes, Doctor, but at this stage its hard to find any donors. People think its a hopeless case."

★ ★ ★

"Nothing's hopeless." Dr. Applebaum said angrily. "But I'm going to have to operate immediately."

"What are you going to do?"

"First we have to stitch up all the wounds that the Party got here in Chicago. I'm going to have to do some plastic surgery on the face, and change the image. And I'm going to have to cut out as many bones of contention as I can.

"Look, this Humphrey rib has been leaning on this Johnson muscle and it can't grow that way. I don't want to remove the Johnson muscle altogether, but the less we see of it now, the better chance the patient will have of winning back its health."

★ ★ ★

"I know its a terrible thing to ask, but does it look like we've got a chance?"

"I think I can keep the Party alive, but I'm not sure if it will recover from the shock, by November."

Mia Was Aided to Resist

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — If by any chance Mia Farrow wins the Oscar for Rosemary's Baby, she must give a special thank you to producer William Castle. It was Bill who gave Mia the moral backing and courage to resist Frank Sinatra's non-stop attempts to get her to abandon the picture so she would be available for his own film. She was too much of a pro to do this, however. Also she knew that her marriage was rocky and would dissolve sooner or later. I believe that Mia and Ruth Gordon will both be nominated — the latter in the supporting category. Winning for Mia will be harder because of the competition from Katharine Hepburn and Barbra Streisand.

★ ★ ★

Rex Harrison's Flea in Her Ear film will be premiered at Maxim's in Paris. Taes Chic!

★ ★ ★

Sophia Loren is bedded down in an air-conditioned suite in Geneva, until the baby arrives in January. She is visited daily by the top gynecologist in Europe. Sophia is determined she will have this baby.

★ ★ ★

Vanessa Redgrave came a cropper in her 35-minute film segment, Red and Blue for her ex-husband Tony Richardson. I watched it being filmed in London about two years ago and it was to have been part of a trilogy. I don't know what happened to the other two-thirds, but Vanessa's was shown as a short in a London theatre and removed hastily when the audience howled and jeered. As I remember it, she was playing a singer of easy virtue as they say in the old fashioned hand-outs. Never mind, she can retrieve everything if Isadora is as good as they say.

Peter Sellers is one of the most striking sights on Kings Road, in Chelsea, London, with his masses of black-turning-gray hair, his tight hippie slacks and bright sweaters. He is sure, he says, that he will never marry again. I wouldn't bet on it. Peter is impulsive. But the third Mrs. Sellers will not apparently be Mia Farrow.

★ ★ ★

To make himself look like a Harvard graduate, Tony Curtis wears hornrimmed glasses in The Monte Carlo Rally, etc. I hate to sound witchy but it will take a bit more than eyeglasses.

★ ★ ★

When you tell Rod Steiger that he is a great actor, he replies, jokingly, "I leave greatness to posterity." He refers to the wide-screen as "the squat screen." I've forgotten what the small screen looked like, except that people did seem taller.

★ ★ ★

Remember that long passage by Barbara Jefford—Molly Bloom — in Ulysses? In her new film, The Bofors Gun Barbara who is one of the top actresses in Britain, is on the screen for one minute only and doesn't speak at all. She plays a waitress and looks at her boyfriend, and the look tells everything.

★ ★ ★

A Gabor who can act? Francesca Gabor Hilton has been accepted by London's famed RADA acting school — graduates include the late Charles Laughton, Vivien Leigh, Peter O'Toole and most of the top English stars. Francesca who was plump, but has been on a mad diet, expects to live in London for two years. Mama Zsa-Zsa is over there with her, getting an apartment for her chick.

SYDNEY HARRIS

Discusses Genius

A man I know, whose son has just entered high school, recently asked me if I could explain what happens to all those "geniuses" at three years old when they become 13 years old.

"Do children get dumber as they get older?" he wanted to know. "Or is it just that their chronological age begins to catch up with their mental age?"

It seems to me that usually what is seen as "brightness" in very young children is acute observation, strong memory, and a keen sense of imitation.

Young children observe everything with an original eye. Every cow is a new cow; nature has not been staled for them by repetition. They can tell you how many green trucks passed the window this morning, because each green truck is a unique phenomenon to them.

Likewise, because their grey matter is so relatively unwrinkled, they can remember trivial events of a year ago far more precisely than their parents can — who have a hundred more important memories to carry around in their craniums.

Imitation (seen in young monkeys as well) accounts for a bit of what we call precocity in small children. They will repeat phrases and gestures and expressions they have seen or heard, without really understanding what they mean — but the performance passes for cleverness.

Very few "geniuses" of three remain geniuses at 13 because the human mind quickly loses its sense of wonder, and begins to operate on formulas and abstractions instead. As we become older, we no longer look at the individual cow; we simply see the idea of a cow and dismiss the creature from mind.

This is why Aristotle said that "wonder is the beginning of wisdom," and why creators and inventors of all types often seem to be childlike in their approach to the world: they have retained a naive and direct, yet profound, way of looking at individual things.

★ ★ ★

Every grownup accepted the fact that apples fall down rather than up; only Newton sought to question this commonplace, as a child might, and thus revolutionized our scientific thinking.

★ ★ ★

Formal education teaches the young rules and formulas for handling reality on a mass basis; it also runs the risk of stultifying curiosity and flattening the imagination. This may explain why so many mature geniuses were self-educated men who never allowed their schooling to deaden their early sensitivity.

Hostage Freed Unharmed

NEW CASTLE, N.Y. (UPI) — Parolee Winston Mitchell, 27, surrendered to police early today after wounding two people and then holding a two-year-old girl hostage at gunpoint for more than eight hours.

The incident began when police came to his rooming house to arrest Mitchell for shooting James Crider, 34, and his sister, Mary, 22, after an argument. Mitchell grabbed the sister's child Sabrina, and fled to the basement, but eventually released her unharmed.

Abducted Girl Phones

PORTAL, N. D. (AP) — Florence Bley, 17, abducted at gunpoint from her home near here, phoned her parents Tuesday to say she is all right but wants to return home.

Police seek Clifford Peterson, 21, who had been dating Miss Bley, on a charge of abduction with intent to compel marriage. Indications were the phone call came from Wyoming.

Death, Torture In Orphanage

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) — Brazilian police investigated Tuesday night charges that children were murdered, tortured and sexually assaulted at a privately-run orphanage at Nova Iguacu, on the outskirts of Rio.

As police dug up the garden and searched the well of the orphanage for possible hidden bodies, a guard was mounted outside the police station to prevent angry mobs from lynching Edilsa Barbosa Marques who ran the Abode of Light asylum with her husband Abel.

The 47 children at the orphanage, all under 12 years, were sent to other asylums, private homes and hospitals. Police put out a dragnet across the two states for Abel and the couple's 12-year-old son Luis.

★ ★ ★

Police said physical examination of the children bore out their testimony of near starvation, beatings, torture and sexual assault.

Newspapers published pictures of some of the children, which were reminiscent of pictures taken in Nazi concentration camps.

Police raided the orphanage Friday following tips from neighbors. They found a 10-year-old lying on the floor of a tiny dark room and wearing chains. Bruises on his body bore out his story that he was beaten with a chain, police said.

Another child told of how she saw a 10-year-old girl beaten to death.

"Almost no one heard her screams, because Dona Edilsa turned the radio up to full volume and made the children beat a drum and sing carnival music," the child added.

Local newspapers quoted police as saying many of the children were tubercular and all but five were in dangerous stages of malnutrition and anemia. Most bore signs of physical maltreatment.

One boy said five of the children were given preferential treatment, good food and decent clothing.

Neighbors, wondering why radio music and children singing carnival songs should be heard from an orphanage late at night, called police.

Edilsa Barbosa, is reported to have told police 10 children died from typhoid fever since she and her husband started the orphanage four years ago. She said they were buried by a neighborhood funeral society.

About 3,000 residents of Nova Iguacu demonstrated in front of the police station Monday chanting: "Beast of Nova Iguacu. Some day we will get you. We will do justice with our own hands."

Dahlias Take Prizes At U.S. Exhibitions

A novice grower who says there is a lot more to dahlia culture than meets the eye was a big winner in flower shows in Seattle and Portland recently.

Douglas J. Hunter, 3991 Cherrilee Crescent, was one of a team of six exhibitors from the Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society, all of whom did well in the shows in Seattle and Portland on successive weekends.

Mrs. Ann Steers was a best triple-A winner at Seattle, which means that she exhibited a plant with three large winning blossoms and, at the same show, Mr. Hunter and Harry Pearson, both novice growers, were section winners.

In addition, Mr. Hunter won a triple-A prize in Portland and society president W. A. Kempster won several section championships in Portland.

The blooms were taken to the Seattle show by hydrofoil, and to Portland by road.

Future Uncertain For Battery Cars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The cross-country "great-Electric Car Race" is over—maybe.

Even the computers of those arch-rivals of the scientific and road racing worlds, MIT and Cal Tech, don't know. And the human judges want time to decide.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology electric car completed the 3,000-mile journey Monday, but it had to be towed across the finish line by a gasoline-powered car.

Race officials are debating the legality, since the race was a test of electric car's reliability.

California Institute of Technology's vehicle, meanwhile, sped at full battery power somewhere in Ohio toward its Cambridge, Mass., goal. Estimated arrival time: Sometime today.

The winner of the race was to be the crew which reached the other's campus first.

U.S. Firm Confirms Minicar Bid

DETROIT (AP) — A high American Motors source confirmed Monday reports that AMC is about to make its long-awaited move into the minicar market.

The official said American has started preliminary work on a project which will see a new, small car introduced a year from now.

"There are problems in tooling which cannot be speeded up," he said.

American's current smallest car, the compact Rambler, has a 106-inch wheelbase and a base price of $1,946 U.S. with a six-cylinder engine. The minicar is expected to have a 100-inch wheelbase.

Rambler has not been able to halt Volkswagen's success in the United States market.

Students Seated

TORONTO (CP) — Ryerson Polytechnical Institute Tuesday became the first educational institution in Canada to offer students seats on he board of governors.

W. M. Kelly, chairman of the board, said at freshman welcoming ceremonies: "There will be no restriction on the four new members. They will be regular, voting members."

Trudeau Warning in Vancouver:

Hesitation Can Hurt Unity

Provinces Unnamed, Powers Laid Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday all provinces must participate fully in the review of Canada's constitution if it is to be successful.

"Several provinces have already shown enthusiasm for the review," he told the Canadian Bar Association at its annual convention here. But, "others have appeared more hesitant, reluctant perhaps to embark whole-heartedly on a journey whose destination is uncertain."

Trudeau did not specify what provinces he regarded as hesitant.

In his first public speech since the June 25 general election, the prime minister repeated his view that Canada needs a strong federal government.

He also favored strong provincial governments, but "the fabric of Canadian unity can only be maintained if the essential powers of the government of Canada are maintained."

Among these essential powers, he listed:

- Regulation of economic policy.
- Redistribution of income between persons and between provinces.
- Equalization of opportunity for all Canadians.
- Protection of our national identity, both at home and abroad.

"I cannot envisage new constitutional arrangements which will destroy these powers," Trudeau said.

Trudeau said much hard work lies ahead in laying the groundwork for a bilingual state and in re-examining "some of the central institutions of federalism," such as the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

"For this reason, it is of the utmost importance that all governments engage fully in the discussions now under way. If they do not, the discussions will lack meaning, and their conclusions will lack authority.

Destruction Feared

"Worse still, if some provinces do not take an active part in the very difficult constitutional negotiations ahead, if they disclaim responsibility for the compromises reached, a climate of suspicion and mistrust may be created, which will make it impossible to achieve our common goal of national unity."

Trudeau repeated his hope of meeting the provincial premiers again this year, possibly in December. At the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in February, it was decided that the heads of the federal and provincial governments would meet again periodically to undertake a comprehensive review of the constitution.

Committee at Work

A permanent secretariat was established to serve this continuing conference and a special committee, preparing for the next meeting of the prime minister and the premiers, has also been at work.

Trudeau reiterated his intention to introduce an official languages bill at the next session of Parliament, which begins Sept. 12.

But he dismissed as nonsense "wild charges that the federal government is trying to make it compulsory for Canadians in all parts of the country to speak two languages."

The purpose of the languages bill would be "to ensure that the citizen will be able to use the official language of his choice" in dealing with the federal government. He said several provinces are planning similar steps.

If both major language groups are to have the fullest measure of freedom, "it is essential to work towards a properly functioning bilingual state," he said.

"In such a state, it will be necessary to speak two languages in order to qualify for some positions, just as it is necessary to be a member of the bar to practise law, or to have a driver's licence to drive a taxi.

"But the vast majority of Canadians will probably continue to speak only one language, and they will suffer no penalty.

Expansion Forecast

"On the contrary, whether they speak English or French, they will be able to deal with their governments, educate their children and exercise their full legal rights in their own language.

"This will be a major expansion of the freedom of the individual Canadian."

Trudeau said it may be difficult for an English-speaking Canadian to understand the fuss about language rights, because his right to express himself in his own language is not menaced or even questioned.

Yet, "there is no aspect of a person's life which so deeply and universally affects his feeling of personal freedom as his right to express himself in his own language," the prime minister asserted.

"Sometimes it is difficult for the members of an overwhelming and secure linguistic majority to realize the importance of this feeling.

"As English-speaking Canadians are in no danger of losing the right or the opportunity to use their language, they wonder why French-speaking Canadians are so concerned about such matters. Some of them come to believe that French-speaking Canadians, are trying to impose their language on English-speaking Canadians, that they are trying to restrict the freedom of the members of the majority."

Iranian Toll Passes 11,000

Quakes Spread to Turkey

ISTANBUL (AP) — A strong earthquake struck northwestern Turkey on the Black Sea coast Tuesday, three days after a disastrous quake hit neighboring Iran killing many thousands of persons.

The Turkish interior ministry said at least 25 persons were killed and 200 injured in or near Bartin, a town of 16,300 inhabitants 200 miles northeast of here.

But a spokesman said the death toll might rise substantially when Turkish army rescue crews reach another seven towns and 74 villages in the quake area.

IN WIDE AREA

He said the tremor was felt in a wide area from Sivas, 500 miles southeast of Istanbul, to Edirne, 150 miles west of the capital.

Reports reaching here said 23 homes and a mosque collapsed, three minarets toppled and 100 buildings were heavily damaged in downtown Bartin. The town also had a power failure.

In Iran, meanwhile, rescuers recovered Tuesday the bodies of more than 300 earthquake victims killed when the makeshift hospital in which they were being treated collapsed at Ferdous Sunday.

MORE INTENSE

Saturday's initial quake claimed 1,500 of Ferdous's townspeople, but officials said the one Sunday was more intense there.

Hit far worse than Ferdous was the prosperous village of Kalthk, where at least 6,000 of the 7,000 population died.

The death toll throughout eastern Iran was estimated officially at 11,000 to 11,600 but Reuters news agency said officials fear the toll will rise to 20,000. Reuters said 50,000 are injured and 100,000 are homeless as aid pours in from many nations.

EPIDEMICS FEARED

Premier Amir Abass Hoveida reported that rescuers were abandoning efforts to recover more bodies because of the danger of epidemics.

He ordered workers to level ruins with bulldozers, leaving the dead buried.

The shah was reported to have directed the government to begin planning for the gradual reconstruction of 50,000 to 60,000 villages, replacing traditional mud-brick houses with homes built of stronger materials.

Czech Deputy Resigns —Foreign Chief Next?

From AP, UPI

PRAGUE — Deputy Premier Otto Sik, father of Czechoslovakia's projected economic ties to the West, resigned Tuesday night and it appeared Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek might be the next to go.

Sik, who has been in Yugoslavia since before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 21, was a leader of the forces that ousted hardlining Communist Antonin Novotny as Communist party chief in January.

* * *

Hajek, also in Yugoslavia Aug. 21, was described by the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia as a man who worked for the Nazis during the Second World War and now is an ally of "the dark forces of reaction and counter-revolution."

Sik

But another article in Izvestia praised present party chief Alexander Dubcek as "a fighting soldier" and President Ludvik Svoboda as "a brave, self-controlled officer."

* * *

And Frantisek Hamouz, newly-installed as deputy premier, said on Radio Prague he hoped Soviet troops would begin leaving "within the next few days" if Czechs stopped harassing them.

Other developments:

- The party elected a new, expanded presidium of 21 members — 10 liberals, two conservatives and nine of unknown leanings.
- Dubcek made a speech to the new presidium, blaming

Invasion Prospects Diminish

Romanians Sleeping Better

BUCHAREST (AP)—Prospects of a Soviet invasion of Romania were reported diminishing Tuesday as both sides appeared to have called a truce in their feud over the five-power Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia.

Western diplomats said there was less apprehension in high government and Communist party circles now that the Soviet Union has formally denied rumors about plans for a military intervention.

* * *

"It seems that for the time being there are no prospects of an intervention," one diplomat said.

The regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu continued to observe silence in line with its policy of refraining from polemics.

Officials refused to indicate whether the government has received any Soviet assurances of non-intervention since the denials were made public in Washington and Paris.

The Communist-controlled press has toned down criticism of the invasion of Czechoslovakia while maintaining a low-keyed campaign by publishing declarations of support for the Ceausescu regime from party organizations, workers, collective peasants and intellectuals.

* * *

One rumor said Moscow, having shelved invasion plans, may decide to demand Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in Romania.

Western sources considered such a move unlikely, at least for the time being. Ceausescu has repeatedly made it clear he is unwilling to let the Russian in by the back door, and the Russians probably would not want to incur a rebuff.

Human Rights Wanted In BNA Amendment

VANCOUVER (CP) — A section of the Canadian Bar Association Tuesday passed narrowly a resolution urging Ottawa and the provinces to amend the British North America Act to include a charter of human rights.

The vote was 23 to 20 and the resolution now goes before the association's resolution committee which decides if it will be submitted to a full session of the 2,300-delegate convention Friday.

It was the second important decision at the convention, Monday, after four years of considering the question, the association passed a resolution urging Ottawa to outlaw electronic eavesdropping except where specified by legislation.

Justice Minister Turner told the convention he hopes to tackle the question of legislation about "bugging" early next year.

The resolution dropped recommendations for direct judicial control of electronic eavesdropping. But it urged

Christmas Greeting

Postal Rates Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—Major changes in postal rates have been scheduled for Nov. 1 and others will be sought as soon as possible in Parliament, Postmaster-General Eric Kierans announced Tuesday.

The November changes bring the cost of a Christmas card to five cents from three cents. Postcards will be five cents instead of four. Biggest increases apply to direct-mail advertising.

The changes by legislation will increase letter rates and mailing costs of newspapers and magazines by unspecified amounts.

Along with the rate increases, new regulations will help speed up mail-room work. Effective Nov. 1, third-class and fourth-class mail will be established on a new basis.

COFFER BOOST

Kierans' statement said the changes will add $17,000,000 to federal revenue in the last five months of the current fiscal year, ending March 31, 1969.

In a full year they will mean an additional $35,000,000 in revenue and make third-class and fourth-class mail pay their way.

Hit hardest are the business firms which advertise heavily by circular.

NEW STANDARD

These circulars, along with Christmas cards and other greeting cards, fall under a new standard rate of five cents for the first two ounces instead of three cents.

The charge for each additional two ounces is increased to three cents from two cents and a weight limit of one pound is imposed.

The third-class bulk rate, for a minimum of 10,000 pieces, increases to four cents for the first two ounces from 2½ cents and for each additional two ounces the rate is doubled to three cents. A one-pound limit is also imposed on bulk mailings.

BOOKS, SAMPLES

Rate changes also apply to third-class samples and books mailed by publishers, book clubs and wholesale and retail distributors.

Postcards, a first-class item now four cents each, go to letter rate.

At present the letter rate is five cents, but there is every indication that letters will go to six cents in the intended government legislation.

HAZY AREA

The changes in classification clear up a hazy area between third-class mail and parcel post mail.

Instead of establishing the difference by the intent of the mailer, third-class mail will be defined as items of third and fourth classes weighing one pound or less. Parcel post items will be those weighing more than one pound.

Most important international rate change is an increase to 10 cents from eight cents in the cost of an air mail letter to the United States. The current rate on U.S. air mail letters addressed to Canada is 10 cents.

Kierans described the changes as "a giant step in long-range planning to move postal rates and mailing regulations from the traditional pattern to a modern commercial concept."

STRIKE ECHO

The increases applying to letter mails, newspapers and magazines would be sought "early" in the new session, he said.

The new structuring of postal rates followed the philosophy of cost recovery. Each class of mail and post office service was expected to pay its own way or accept its fair share of operating costs.

Until the rate changes, the 1968-69 post office deficit had been anticipated at about $60,000,000, taking into account the wage increases established with settlement of the recent postal strike.

Kierans aims to lop $17,000,000

Traffic Law

Outsiders Still Ticketed

By IAN STREET

Tourists and other motorists from outside B.C. will still face court appearances and fines when most tickets for minor moving traffic offences are abolished throughout the province in 1969.

Superintendent of motor vehicles Ray Hadfield said Tuesday the new law, passed by the legislature last spring and due to come into effect initially in the County of Victoria Oct. 1, would apply only to drivers licensed in B.C.

TRIAL PERIOD

During the trial period, however, when the law will be proclaimed only on southern Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, any B.C. motorist can be issued with a violation notice instead of the regular traffic ticket, and have the minor offence listed on his driving record by the Motor Vehicle Branch.

It is expected that early next year, by which time officials hope the "bugs" in the new system will have been eliminated through the

First Bikinians Return

Only Memories Survive 23 Blasts

By BYRON BAKER
Honolulu Star-Bulletin

BIKINI ATOLL (AP) — Nine men, representing 300 Bikini Islanders, came home Tuesday to this tiny island in the Marshall group that has been kept clear of human inhabitants for 22 years because of nuclear tests.

"It's all changed, it's not the same," one man murmured.

The others nodded silently in agreement.

Reminders of the violence of nuclear explosions were plentiful. A great concrete block house seemed to crouch among crumbling rubble and the blasted tree trunks near the shore. Farther back, in dense jungle growth, a giant communications tower reached skyward.

The last test blast here was in 1958.

What the nine saw was by no measure what they remembered.

They had been living on Rongerik or remote Kili while the United States 23 times unleashed nuclear explosions on this Pacific atoll 2,500 miles from Honolulu.

At a cemetery that survived the explosions the Bikinians and the party of U.S. Trust Territory officials commemorated the new life for this bomb-blitzed atoll.

"The island is changed and most of the trees are gone," said William R. Norwood, high commissioner of the Trust Territory of the Pacific. "But when we look at the quiet sea with its great abundance; when we see the beautiful beach and as we see more of the island we will more and more understand why people want to return to Bikini."

"The United States is planning to redevelop the atoll. Scientists say radiation levels have dropped to a point where it is again safe for habitation.

The Bikinians first moved to Rongerik Atoll in 1946. The migration was a failure. The fish in the lagoon proved to be poisonous.

They then were moved to Ujelang but had to look for another new home when the Marshallese living on Enewetok were shifted to Ujelang when Enewetok was to become a bomb testing site.

The next stop was a few months on Kwajalein until they were moved to Kili 20 years ago. The Bikinians still haven't been able to make a go of it on Kili.

Some weeks from now the engineers, agriculturists and technicians of the official party will tell budget officers what they found and what it will cost to send all the Bikinians home.

Executor Executed

PORT HARCOURT (AP) — A Nigerian federal firing squad executed a lieutenant in the federal army who was convicted of shooting an unarmed young Biafran.

The lieutenant was arrested Monday after being identified by British television cameramen who filmed his shooting of a Biafran whose hands were tied behind his back. That shooting was shown Monday night to viewers in Britain.

British television cameras recorded the execution of the lieutenant by a four-man firing squad.

Nigeria Clears Way For Mercy Flights

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The federal Nigerian government agreed Tuesday to lift its blockade of secessionist Biafra temporarily to permit the International Red Cross to airlift food and medicine to thousands of civil war refugees starting Thursday.

The agreement, announced in the federal capital of Lagos, came as Nigerian forces continued an all-out offensive in the former Eastern Region of the country.

A federal army spokesman said Nigerian and Biafran troops were battling inside Aba, largest of the three major towns left to the secessionists.

FIRST WORD

The statement by Col. Benjamin A. Adekunle of the Nigerian 3rd Division was the first official word that federal troops had entered Aba.

The Red Cross agreement provides for an unlimited number of flights and planes in daylight hours during a 10-day period into the Biafran controlled airstrip of Uli-Ibiala.

The Red Cross and private groups have been flying food and medicine into Biafra at night. But these flights have been unable to provide more than a fraction of the supplies needed for the mass of civil war refugees threatened by disease and starvation.

FIRST FLIGHT

Immediately after announcement of the agreement, August Lindt, co-ordinator for the International Red Cross in West Africa, was reported to have left Lagos for the off-shore Spanish islands of Fernando Po from where he will lead the first mercy flight to Biafra.

The Biafran airstrip is in jungle, 35 miles northwest of Owerri, one of the last towns still in Biafran hands.

The Red Cross now has five planes ready to move supplies from Fernando Po.

Its total capacity in a combined flight is about 50 tons and it was expected the planes would move 2,400 tons in the 10 days.

On the war front, casualties were reported heaviest on both sides in the fighting around Owerri, 50 miles northwest of Port Harcourt.

The third Biafran town, Umuahia, is 30 miles north of Aba. It is the headquarters of the Biafran leader, Lt.-Col. C. Odumegu Ojukwu.

The federal army was poised to take the lakeside town of Oguta in the northwest of the 3rd Division sector which virtually covers all of the southern area once claimed by Biafra.

Oguta controls the road to the airstrips which will be the destination of the Red Cross mercy flights from Fernando Po.

Aba, Owerri and Oguta will be in federal hands in a week, an army spokesman said.

This would be a major defeat for Biafra, whittling its original 30,000 square miles of territory to about 5,000 square miles.

Grenades Hurled

Cong on Motorcycles Hurt Viet Civilians

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrilla grenades wounded 15 South Vietnamese here Tuesday. Police patrolled the streets in heavy numbers in an effort to thwart a further resurgence of communist attacks inside the capital.

The grenades went off in front of the headquarters of the U.S. Agency for International Development on one of the capital's busiest streets and four hours later in front of a bar in the city's dock area. No Americans were hurt.

South Vietnamese government and American forces in and around the capital had been warned to expect attacks on the 23rd anniversary celebration of North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh's declaration of a republic.

The anniversary is being observed by North Vietnam through midnight Thursday night.

Hundreds of Americans were at work inside the eight-storey AID headquarters when the first grenade—thrown from a passing motorcycle—went off.

BUSY STREEET

Seven persons, including two women, were wounded by fragments that ripped into a crowd along the busy street.

Witnesses said the motorcycle, carrying two riders, sped away.

Four hours later, a second grenade exploded in the dock area across the Saigon River from the downtown heart of the city. Four men, two women and two children were injured. No arrests were reported.

Bombing Stop Sure Way Says Premier

HANOI (AFP) — Premier Pham Van Dong said in a statement released Monday that an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam "will have a positive effect on the seeking of a political settlement for the Vietnam problem."

The statement, describing a speech given Friday in the presence of President Ho Chi Minh and North Vietnamese leaders, also quotes Pham as saying:

POSITIVE EFFECT

"Moreover, we are raising a very just and well-founded demand which will have a positive effect on the seeking, step by step, of a political settlement for the Vietnam problem.

"That is, the U.S. must unconditionally stop its bombing and all other acts of war on the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's two top envoys at the Paris peace talks ruled out Monday night any chances of an early breakthrough towards a ceasefire.

Le Duc Tho, a member of the presidium of North Vietnam's Communist party, and Ambassador Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief negotiator, also told reporters separately they see no essential differences in the Vietnam policies adopted by the American Democratic and Republican presidential contenders.

Each talked informally with journalists at a hotel reception to mark the 23rd anniversary of North Vietnam's proclaimed independence.

Corruption Story Costly

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government Tuesday suspended a newspaper owned by its ambassador to the U.S. for printing an Associated Press story about Premier Tran Van Huong's anti-corruption campaign.

The government censored parts of the story from vernacular newspapers, the first time such censorship has been used since Huong was appointed premier four months ago.

A government spokesman said the AP story was "completely groundless and imaginary." But although Ambassador Bui Diem's English-language Saigon Post was suspended indefinitely, no action was taken against the Associated Press.

Brazzaville Chief Still in Control?

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) —President Alphonse Massamba-Debat of the neighboring Congo Republic (Brazzaville) is still in office, but the question is: With what powers and for how long?

Capt. Marien Ngouabi, now the top political figure, said in a televised interview that Massamba-Debat remains as president after the fighting last Friday and Saturday.

But the political crisis in the former French colony continues and solutions are being sought, he added.

Massamba-Debat was reported Tuesday to be in his official residence but his name was dropped from newscasts, communiques and announcements over Radio Brazzaville.

The president has been blamed officially for a battle that is reported to have killed hundreds as members of the youth militia fought an order to disarm.

After a coup in early August, Ngouabi reinstated Massamba-Debat but shared power with him. During last weekend's fighting, Massamba-Debat was manacled and taken for a time to a military camp, military sources here said.

Panda Bear's Snores Hazard to Romance

LONDON (AP) — An-An snores, and 200 officials fear it may hinder efforts to mate the giant panda from Moscow with London's Chi-Chi.

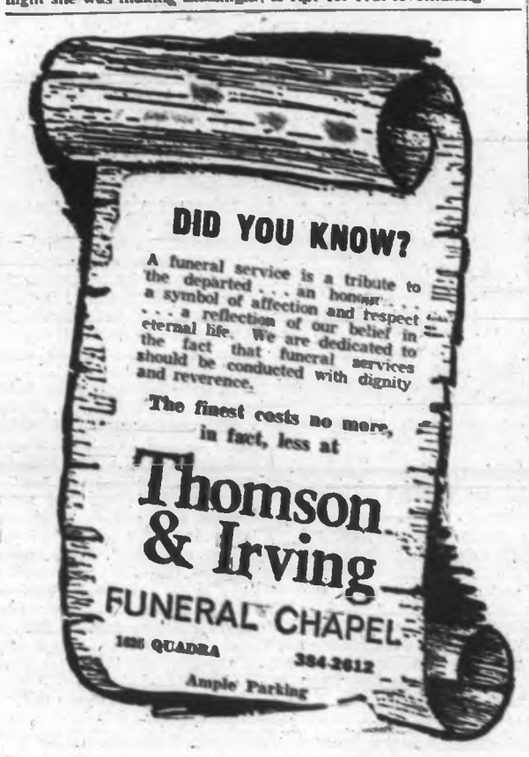

The latest effort is actually a reconciliation attempt. Zoologists tried to mate the pair in 1966, but they failed and Chi-Chi was blamed for being frigid.

Chi-Chi the female, was coy in the panda's first meeting Monday after An-An arrived from the Soviet Union. But by midnight she was making moonlight love calls to her Russian boyfriend.

A London Zoo official said today: "Chi-Chi was calling to An-An for 10 minutes in the early hours. She was giving little bleats. They were most encouraging noises. But An-An slept soundly and snored."

Chi-Chi and An-An are the only giant pandas in captivity outside China.

British and Soviet matchmakers are keeping them apart with an eight-foot high chainlink fence until they decide the time is ripe for real lovemaking.

Paris Excuse 'Hijinks'

Humphrey, Nixon Recall Shelved Vietnam Plank

By UPI

The Vietnam war, key issue in the pre-convention political contests, appeared destined today to play a similar role in the forthcoming presidential campaign.

Democratic candidate Hubert Humphrey's move to limit campaigning on the war issue failed Monday when Republican candidate Richard Nixon spurned a proposal to join hands in a bipartisan declaration to do nothing to jeopardize the Paris talks on the war.

OLD-STYLE HIJINKS

Robert Ellsworth, national political director the Nixon-Agnew campaign, called the Humphrey proposal "a bit of old-style partisan hijinks" and said Nixon had already made clear he "would do and say nothing in this compaign" that would jeopardize the talks.

One of Humphrey's first moves after receiving the Democratic nomination was to wire Nixon "I believe both candidates should make it absolutely clear that they share a basic commitment to the success of the peace negotiations now taking place in Paris."

He invited Humphrey to "associate himself" with Nixon's position.

Humphrey Monday marched in a Labor Day parade in New York streets and taped a program for an educational television station.

In the course of the interview he said he had "reason to believe" Hanoi's negotiators in Paris were "stalling." He said "Hanoi must understand that they are not going to get a better deal because we're having an election campaign. I want a ceasefire now, a total ceasefire."

RACING FANS LISTEN

Other developments:

George Wallace — the third party presidential candidate — told a crowd of 70,000 stock car racing enthusiasts in Darlington, S.C., that his campaign would "send some of these national politicans to the pits." racing argot meaning for retirement from a race.

The former Alabama governor said he reconsidered earlier plans for a national convention of his American Independent party because now "you have to have the army" to cope with possible trouble.

TV Time Sought By Daley

CHICAGO (CP) — Mayor Richard Daley named a committee Wednesday to investigate the riots during last week's Democratic national convention and asked one hour of prime television time from the three major U.S. networks to explain "what actually happened."

The 66-year-old mayor, target of widespread criticism for his handling of the convention and police action against anti-war demonstrations on the streets, called for a television broadcast for Thursday, Sept. 12 or Friday, Sept. 13.

The program would be designed to counteract the "one-sided portrayal" of the street battles.

Independent Nation Black Power's Goal

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Creation of a "separate, free, independent nation for black people" in five southern states — "by arms if necessary" — was adopted as an official recommendation Sunday by one workshop of the third national conference on black power.

The idea, submitted to a workshop on black independence, was announced to newsmen by Milton Henry, Pontiac, Mich., first vice-president of the Republic of New Africa, founded this year at a meeting in Detroit.

INDEPENDENT NATION

Art Peters, city editor of the semi-weekly Philadelphia Tribune who, with other Negro newsmen, was allowed to attend one workshop and briefings, said the more than 3,000 delegates formulated plans "aimed at achieving an independent black nation within the United States."

Peters said Dr. Nathan Hare, conference chairman, told the assembled delegates that black people were opposed to violence but would no longer allow themselves to be "mongrelized, brualized, patricized and ostracized."

Hare, who was dismissed from the Howard University sociology department because of his militant views, declared that "when black people arm, it is to stop violence against black people."

Hippies Flee Berkeley, Vancouver New Goal

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — With the city of Berkeley officially in a state of civil disaster, scores of hippies and New Left activists fled their Telegraph Avenue playground Tuesday in favor of new stomping grounds.

Teams of riot-ready police, armed with a new proclamation prohibiting loitering and mass meetings, patrolled the hippie enclave adjacent to the University of California campus. They encountered little trouble.

MAJOR ROUTES

The major routes leading out of Berkeley, however, were jammed with hippies carrying signs indicating their new destinations — Vancouver, Seattle, Denver and Boston.

"This is getting rough — I don't want any part of it," said Kenneth Hobson, a 19-year-old hippie who was heading for Vancouver, B.C. Hobson's companion, a long-haired youth who did not wish to be identified, said he was "getting out of town because I can't afford to get busted (arrested). The draft board is looking for me."

While some of the hippies and New Left activists left, others vowed to remain "until we defeat this fascist city government."

Meanwhile, the Berkeley city council voted overwhelmingly to back City Manager William Hanley who proclaimed the state of civil disaster after three nights of sporadic violence on the hippie homefront. The council also voted to refuse the activists permission for street meetings.

Negroes, Whites Face Charges in Slayings

BEREA, Ky. (UPI) — Connie Lynch, leader of the National States Rights Party, was held on murder charges today along with 13 other men as a result of a bloody shootout between white supremists and Negroes that left two men dead on the streets of this tiny eastern Kentucky town.

The battle erupted Sunday when three carloads of Negroes opened fire on a rally Lynch was holding on an abandoned used car lot.

BLAZING GUNS

Police said the Negroes shot into the white crowd, killing Elza Rucker, 28, of Lexington, Ky. Lynch and his followers then jumped into their cars and chased the Negroes, guns blazing.

George Boggs, 32, a Negro of Berea, was killed in the chase.

Lynch and seven other members of his party were arrested for Boggs' death. Six Negroes were charged with the shooting of Rucker. All were held without bond by Madison County Judge Robert Turley, pending a hearing.

The home of a Negro, Hoover Herron, burned to the ground early Tuesday in the wake of the gun battle. Fire Chief H. G. Robinson blamed unknown arsonists for the blaze.

High-Speed Bridge Chase Costs Licence

A man who drove over Point Ellice Bridge at speeds of 70 to 75 miles an hour was fined $150 Tuesday and had his licence suspended in Central Magistrate's Court.

Gregory Sam, 21, of 1276 Stellys Cross Road, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving in the early hours of Tuesday.

He was said to have been chased by police at speeds up to 75 miles an hour along Bay Street and over the bridge before he was found abandoning his car on William Street.

"When idiots like you remove warning signs off the roads, as a prank or for any other reason, there is serious danger of accident," Magistrate William Ostler told Sam and two others who pleaded guilty to taking two traffic warning signs off Point Ellis bridge, Tuesday.

Charged with Sam were Francis Sam, 27, 1151 Colville, and Barry Underwood, 20, Mount Newton Cross Road. They were fined $150 each.

The signs were found in the car after it had been chased to William Street.

Campbell Confirms

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell confirmed Tuesday the withdrawal of the federal government means there will be no winter works program in B.C.

He made it clear that B.C.'s contribution would not continue in the absence of the federal-provincial program but held out faint hopes that a proposed conference between Ottawa and the provinces this fall might produce an alternative.

If this ever comes to pass, Mr. Campbell said, the "pickings will be very slim" because the federal government has no money.

Western Riding Faulted

Western riding was the only event in the Saanichton fair horse show last weekend which drew criticism from a judge.

"There's room for lots of improvements in these events," said Fred MacMillan of Healdsburg, Calif., who has judged horse shows throughout the Mid-West and Pacific Northwest.

However, he had plenty of praise for the English riding events and the junior riders in the show which was sponsored by the Western Horseman's Club.

The cutting horse competition was a big attraction, with most of the contestants coming from British Columbia and Alberta.

C. M. Woodward of Douglas Lake Cattle Co. was first in the cutting horse open class. The winner of the events last year, he defeated Royal Burrows of Midnapore, Alta., who placed second, and David Batty, also of Douglas Lake Cattle Co., who was third.

Bill Collins of Edmonton was first in the novice class and Bob Grimshaw of Ladner was second.

Salt Spring Declares War on Pollution

FULFORD—Salt Spring Island residents said Tuesday that they would fight pollution of the waters around their island all the way to Canada's Supreme Court if necessary.

So disturbed are they over the issue of sea disposal of septic tank effluent into Trincomali Channel, between Salt Spring and Galiano Islands, that they are willing to pay for sewage treatment plants themselves.

A residents' spokesman said that one man had offered up to $5,000 of his own money to prevent sea pollution, and at least one other resident guaranteed another large sum.

A mass meeting will be held on the island, probably Saturday night, when it is expected there will be an appeal for funds. Another petition will be taken at that time.

★ ★ ★

The issue has been hot since the provincial pollution control board recently gave permission for the dumping of 21,250 gallons a day of septic tank effluent into the sea. The permission was granted Maliview Estates Ltd. to put the effluent into the sea where a major subdivision is planned, about seven miles north of Ganges.

★ ★ ★

Control Board director H. J. Keenan said there were other ways of disposing of sewage, but they would cost more money than sea dumping.

Countering this, Mrs. Ada Ryan, one of the leaders of the anti-pollution drive, said:

★ ★ ★

"We don't want to see Salt Spring Island surrounded by a cesspool. There are other business firms just waiting for the next mail to get their requests in to the Pollution Control Board for the same thing.

"We aim to fight," says Mrs. Ryan.

Robert Hoffman described the plan as "an outrage," and bound to have the effect of spoiling waters which up to this point have been clean and contamination-free.

★ ★ ★

Louis Yellowlees, said residents felt that the provincial government had no jurisdiction over the ocean, and that the islanders "have just begun to fight."

Commenting recently on the question, provincial Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said that his department had some jurisdiction in the matter.

It would be a violation of the law for developers to dump septic tank effluent from a subdivision into the sea without a certificate from health authorities.

No such certificate has yet been applied for by the developers, Maliview Estates Ltd., the minister said, and he indicated that department officials would take a hard look at the possible health hazards involved, if and when one was received.

Mr. Loffmark has said flatly that future applications for permission to discharge untreated sewage into waters around Greater Victoria would be rejected on health grounds.

★ ★ ★

However, he added that in the Salt Spring case the hazard would be subjected to scientific determination, and if no problems were found the certificate would be issued.

One island woman, according to Mr. Yellowlees, suggested a sign with the following inscription:

★ ★ ★

"You are now near the location of the future Maliview Estates sewage outfall. It is designed to discharge 21,250 gallons a day at a point 700 feet from the shore. On a clear day you may be able to see evidence of the sewage by the subtle change in the color of the sea. You may, if fortunate, be able to sense the presence of this monument to human progress and ingenuity."

PROUD BOY is six-year-old Charles Stone who won junior prize in Fulford salmon derby with 12-ounce grilse. He received sleeping bag as prize and that night his mother found there were no problems in getting him to bed early—(Bea Hamilton photos)

Fulford

Charles Lands Winner

FULFORD — Fishermen rose early recently to venture out in steady rain to take part in Fulford salmon derby.

Top angler was Nels Degnen who was awarded the Langley Cup for his spring salmon which weighed 20 pounds, 13 ounces.

Mrs. Penny Isbister won the women's top prize with a four-pound, 11 ounce spring.

SLEEPING BAG

Six-year-old Charles Stone led the juniors with a 12-ounce grilse. He won a sleeping bag.

Charles was probably the happiest fisherman of the day. He went off home afterwards, went to bed early—and slept in his prize.

"There is no happier boy anywhere than my little son tonight," said Mrs. Stone.

FATHER AWAY

Charles is staying with his mother at the home of grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shove.

His father, Lt. Cmdr. R. E. Stone is senior engineer aboard the HMCS Bonaventure. He will be away for a year and Mrs. Stone and Charles will stay on Salt Spring Island until he returns.

The best catch in the any fish class was made by Vic Jackson and Demetri Stevens who each pulled in springs weighing five pounds 13 ounces. They had to toss for first and second places and Mr. Jackson took the top prize.

OTHER WINNERS

Floyd Christney won a prize with a 10 pound, 10 ounce salmon. He was last year's Langley Cup winner and receives a small replica this year.

Salmon, weighing eight pounds and less won prizes for Fred Saunders, John Waterfall, J. Osterberg, Cliff Wakelin, Carl Finch, Mrs. Mark Crofton of Victoria, Mark Crofton, Victoria, Dr. E. L. Cox, C. Mellish, George Lampier and Mrs. Ron Lee.

FIRST PRIZE in Fulford salmon derby went to Nels Degnen who received Langley cup for his salmon which weighed 20 pounds 13 ounces. Event drew number of anglers despite steady rain.

Ten-Minute Spring

Student Wins Fishing Prize

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 20-year-old vocational student, whose mother said he had rocks in his head to enter, is the unofficial winner of the "world's biggest" fishing derby.

Angler Jim Towe of Port Alberni hooked a 31-pound 11-ounce spring which took him only 10 minutes to land. He is first in line to collect a $25,000-cash prize.

However, Mr. Towe and other winners in the three-day derby, which offered $52,000 in cash and other prizes, will have to wait until tonight before they collect. Meanwhile, the fish will be checked for artificial weight-boosters.

$10 FEE

The winner's mother, Isabel Towe, told him he had "rocks in his head to go down there — you can't afford it."

Anglers had to pay a $10 entry fee.

Mr. Towe, who by a previous arrangement will split his prize with fishing companions Harry Havard and Lawrence Herkel, also of Port Alberni, said he used to get sick every time he went fishing.

His only other catch before the labor day weekend derby was an eight-pounder.

SECOND PLACE

Pete Semak of Vancouver captured second place with a 30-pound 12¼-ounce spring to win a $5,200 camper truck. Rod Aune, also of Vancouver, was third with a salmon weighing half an ounce less to win a $3,515 boat, motor and trailer.

Lew Woolman of Vancouver won a $2,900 A-frame cabin with a 29-pound eight-ounce salmon and Bob Young, also of Vancouver, placed fifth with a 28-pounder that will bring him a $2,000 trailer.

Nine other anglers each won $1,000 cash with fish weighing as little as 18 pounds.

SPECIAL PATROLS

Derby organizers spent $12,000 to police the event and guard against cheating. The area was patrolled by commercial fishermen and experts will examine the fish to make sure they came from Howe Sound or English Bay.

All winners must sign an affidavit in the presence of an RCMP officer.

"If there's something wrong, that makes it perjury as well as fraud," said Finley Anthony, one of the derby organizers.

Mr. Anthony estimated that between 3,000 and 5,000 boats took part in the derby each day but was unable to estimate the total number of fishermen. He said it would be a week before organizers — a syndicate of Vancouver businessmen — knew if they showed a profit.

Angler Dies

Cpl. A. D. McPhail of Bowden, Man., drowned Sunday when he fell overboard while fishing in the Vancouver salmon derby. He was stationed at CFB, Comox.

Pilot Escapes

CAMPBELL RIVER — Pilot Michael Gutman escaped with shock and bruises Sunday when his float-equipped aircraft flipped over after landing at Campbell River.

Supermarket Plan May Fold

By HENRY BESIER

NANAIMO—A supermarket, which was to have been built near the St. George Street-Terminal Avenue intersection apparently won't be constructed after all.

A reliable source in Nanaimo said Monday that although there will not be a Shop Easy outlet on the site, a service station, scheduled to be built next to the store is still planned.

Several months ago, the advisory planning commission approved re-zoning of the property to facilitate construction of the supermarket, but no sign of activity has been reported on the site.

It is reported that the company had paid off options to buy homes in the area for demolition.

A commission member said on Tuesday that the deal was called off about a week after the property was re-zoned. He said he is unhappy about the situation, but declined further comment.

★ ★ ★

The land on which the project was to have been built, was the subject of considerable controversy in Nanaimo, following a brief by the Automotive Retailers Association. Members said the association was against the construction of more service stations in the city.

The commission re-zoned the land to include the service station on the understanding that the entire project would be undertaken.

Barmen Approve Contract

NANAIMO — Bartenders and waiters in hotels from Nanaimo to Campbell River have won pay increases ranging from 45 cents to 62½ cents an hour over three years.

The 150 employees, members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union, voted nearly 90 per cent to accept the terms of a new three-year contract, retroactive to April 1.

The British Columbia Hotels Association has also ratified the agreement.

Cocktail bartenders and combination tapmen, earning $2.35 and $2.22½ an hour, will receive 27½ cents in the first year, 15 cents the second year and 20 cents in the third year. Waiters ($2.15) receive raises of 30, 10 and 15 cents.

The new contract also contains improved vacation benefits.

Man Sent For Trial

LADYSMITH — Arthur James Williams, 43, of Ladysmith was committed for trial by Magistrate Eric Winch on a charge of possession of stolen property. The committal followed a two-day preliminary hearing.

The alleged offence took place June 24 at Ladysmith. Williams elected to be tried by a judge without a jury.

Pilot Fined $250 After Crash

ALERT BAY—A Courtenay man charged with operating an aircraft while impaired, was fined $250 Tuesday in Courtenay Magistrate's Court.

Peter Reading was charged May 27 after a float-equipped aircraft crashed and burned on a beach near Alert Bay after several attempts to take off. Reading escaped injury.

Port McNeill

Loot May Rise

PORT McNEILL — Police at Port McNeill said Monday that the loot in Friday's robbery of a bank courier could run higher than the original estimate of $15,200.

Police said the bandits also took a large number of money orders and travellers' cheques which can be cashed for any amount. Bank courier Gerry Underdown, 19, was taking the money to meet a logging camp payroll.

Cobble Hill Praised

Village Has Success In Small Fall Fair

Story and Picture
By KLAUS MUENTER

COBBLE HILL — Farmers, housewives, horse fanciers, artists, and gardeners joined forces Tuesday to make the 59th annual Cobble Hill fall fair another success.

At least once a year the small village comes to life and draws exhibitors and spectators not only from neighboring bigger communities, but from areas from the B.C. Mainland and the U.S.

TYPICAL FAIR

Many of the visitors agreed Cobble Hill is still able to produce a typical small country fair unspoiled by overwhelming commercial exhibits.

Responsible for the event was Shawnigan Lake-Cobble Hill Farmers' Institute led by president Colin Henderson.

As soon as the gates opened at 10 a.m., judges began their difficult task of tagging prizes onto a large variety of exhibits in garden and field produce, domestic science, honey, an outstanding flower section, needlecraft and art.

Keen competition was also evident on the spacious fair grounds where exhibitors of all ages awaited the final word from the judges.

MOTHER PLEASED

Near the goat barn a group of anxious children congregated with their pet. One mother, Mrs. J. S. C. Fraser expressed her delight in the number of youngsters taking an active part.

"It is most important that children take part or we would have no future exhibitors," she said. "It is a wonderful little fair.

"I just wish more people in the community would take an interest in it. Howevever, it is getting better. More and more people are becoming interested."

FIRST TIME

For the first time in its long history, the fair featured an international Highland cattle event which drew exhibitors from the Lower Mainland and from as far south as Washington as well as from local areas.

David Harband of Langley, who showed his nine-month-old Highland bull Orion Bard of Zetland, said "I have come here for the first time and I am pleased with this fair. It impresses me how much interest people show in the cattle here. It is a genuine country fair."

HORSE SHOW

Mr. Harbard owns 18 head of Highland cattle.

Two other Highland breeders, Ted Teitzel and Betty Jo Nolan, both of Shehalis, Wash., were unanimous in their opinion — "It is a very nice small fair and, from the standpoint of Highland cattle, there is a good number of entries and next year there will probably be more."

Another big drawing card during the one-day event was the horse show which began in the morning and lasted until late afternoon.

The fair ended with a talent show and dance in the evening.

Lawyer Raps SPCA

PORT ALBERNI — A lawyer Tuesday accused the SPCA of arrogant action in seizing and selling 11 horses owned by a man acquitted on a charge of wilfully neglecting the animals.

William Beckingham said the horses were seized from his client, Carrie Vis of Port Alberni, at the end of July. He said Mr. Vis was later charged with failing to provide adequate food, water and shelter for the horses, but the charge was dismissed Friday by a magistrate.

Mr. Beckingham said the society seized the horses under provisions of the SPCA act of 1968, a "consolidation of laws" which gives the society authority to take animals and sell them.

'ARROGANT MANNER'

"If the SPCA act gives them power to seize and sell the animals, it is an astonishing piece of legislation, and I think the SPCA officials handled the case in an arrogant manner," said the lawyer.

Mr. Vis bought the horses last year and hired them out to trail riders.

A total of $1,300 was realized from the sale which was held Monday.

Traffic Victim

Elderly City Widow Dies of Injuries

Victoria's second traffic fatality this year happened Saturday afternoon when an 80-year-old widow died in hospital with multiple injuries after being hit by a car at Oak Bay Avenue and Morrison about 4:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lily Newell, 1505 Morrison, died at 5:25 p.m. Police identified the driver involved as Daniel Flynn, 21, of 1802 Oak Bay Avenue.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Saturday night that he would decide Tuesday if an inquest would be held. He has ordered a post mortem.

Mrs. Newell was predeceased by her husband two years ago. She is survived by her daughters, Mrs. L. D. Jickling, 2214 Lydia, and Mrs. Clifford Edwards of Winnipeg, and her two sons, Wesley of Victoria and Cyril of Saskatoon.

Victoria's first traffic fatality occurred Jan. 13 when Michael Cairney, 83, died after being hit by a car at Pandora and Government.

Blaze Sparked By Cigarette

An Esquimalt man who lit a cigarette almost had his house in ashes when gasoline from a lawnmower he was fixing exploded, at about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Ronald R. Perry, 1285 Rockcrest, returned to his repair work after a cup of coffee and lit a cigarette.

The next thing he knew, gasoline from the mower was aflame and spreading.

Flames raced along the floor to a rug, drapes, a tent and boxes filled with clothes.

An Esquimalt fire department spokesman said the new home's large sliding basement doors, and Mr. Perry's quick action in throwing the burning objects through them, saved the house.

"I don't know how much the stuff was worth yet, but I'm glad it all burned outside," Mr. Perry said.

He said the only object he could not throw out was a television set.

The main living quarters suffered smoke damage, but the family slept at home Saturday night.

Driver Fined

NANAIMO — A Duncan man Larry Wesley Walt, 27, was fined $300 in Nanaimo Magistrate's Court recently when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to stop at the scene of an accident.

Walt was charged August 17 after a parked car was struck on Wallace Street. He told the court he panicked after the incident and drove to Duncan because he didn't have a driver's licence.

'Brutalizing, Cold-Blooded'

Scrap Strap Now

The "cold-blooded and ritualistic" use of the strap in schools should be abolished immediately, says Roberta Emery, Victoria kindergarten teacher and president of the Association for Childhood Education's Vancouver Island branch.

"Perhaps principals will call for a moratorium on strapping until the school board can reach a decision," she said Saturday.

Social worker Mrs. Bernice Packford, speaking as a private citizen, said Grade 1 children have been strapped on their first day in school.

SIX-YEAR-OLD

"Whatever can a six-year-old child do that's so drastic he should be strapped? Perhaps he doesn't keep quiet, or sit still?

"It seems to depend upon whether you have a child who will conform and regard the teacher as a god.

"Whether he will stop moving or stop breathing when he is told," she said.

Another social worker, W. T. Lawson, said corporal punishment is brutalizing for both the child and the teacher.

"A teacher who used the strap is indicating that he is not a very effective teacher."

Greater Victoria school board will be discussing the abolition of strapping at a meeting Sept. 16.

School trustee John Porteous introduced the subject in July, asking for total abolition. The motion was tabled for information.

The following month, Mr. Porteous gave notice of motion for a change in policy, and also asked for the strap to be abolished through the primary grades.

ALSO TABLED

"I thought the motion to relieve children up to Grade 3 from the threat of the strap would go through readily," Mr. Porteous said Saturday, "but unfortunately it was tabled too.

"I had hoped to have the strap removed for the small, small ones before school opened, pending discussion of the wider policy.

"Do parents realize that it is still possible for a child to get the strap on his first day in school? There is no justification at all for strapping at the primary level, but I have heard from parents whose children have been strapped."

Mr Porteous said that, since the school does not inform the parent if there is a discipline problem with a child, children are being strapped more often than parents realize.

Mrs. Emery said the Childhood Education Association will meet Wednesday to discuss possible action.

"I feel we should get some information out to parents as well as taking a stand with the school board," she said.

"There has been far too little reaction from parents up to now — does this mean they like the present policy? Are they saying 'O.K. go ahead and strap our Grade 1 children?'

"Teachers and school board are paying lip service to new ideas in education. They agree with the new philosophy, but they don't follow it up," said Mrs. Emery.

"Most behavior problems have a cause; and the teachers and the system have failed our children."

TEACHER POINT

"Teachers tend to equate learning with discipline and discipline with punishment," she said.

"I object ot this cold-blooded, ritualistic use of an instrument," said Mrs. Emery. "I'd just as soon have a wild lion in my child's school as a strap."

Mrs. Packford felt it is time discipline in the school was put in its proper perspective.

"Why does it loom so large in every discussion?

"If the teachers were doing their proper job; if the children were involved and if they didn't feel they were being sat on, then I think discipline would take care of itself.

Inquiry Ordered

DUNCAN — An inquiry has been ordered in the drowning death of William George Elliott, 64, of Duncan, whose body was found by children Friday morning in the Cowichan River about three-quarters of a mile from the Klem Klem Alutz bridge.

Police said Mr. Elliott had been missing from his home, in the bridge area, after leaving for a fishing trip.

Navy divers searched the river Thursday but had to give up because of muddy waters.

Foul play is not suspected, say police.

Student Fined

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo student has been find $150 for assault causing bodily harm.

William Bottoms, 24, pleaded guilty to the charge earlier this week and was sentenced in Nanaimo Magistrate's Court recently.

He was accused of beating Marshall McIvor of Duncan in a Nanaimo parking lot Aug. 3.

David Hugh Cameron of Nanaimo pleaded not guilty to a similar charge and was remanded for trial to Sept. 26.

Rush at Weekend Delays Ferry Runs

NANAIMO — There were long delays at Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay during the weekend when a flood of visitors invaded Vancouver Island from the Mainland.

The rush started Friday evening and Saturday evening as long lines of vehicles waited at Horseshoe Bay.

★ ★ ★

The scene was repeated Monday afternoon on the Nanaimo side. The ferries were running as much as 45 minutes late and some motorists had to wait for as long as three hours to get aboard.

It was the last long weekend of summer and, according to some officials, it brought out the largest number of cars for the season.

Semester Kicks Off

NANAIMO — A year's work is to be concentrated into a five-month period at Nanaimo senior secondary school in what is believed to be the first semester system of its kind in British Columbia.

Principal James Swan said students will enrol in four subjects in the first semester and three in the second, or vice versa.

The first semester began Tuesday and goes through to Jan. 16. The second starts Jan. 20 and ends June 26.

Examinations will be given during regular classes, with students passed or failed on their work during a semester. The semester system also means longer school days for students participating.

Mr. Swan said the system did not apply to grade 13 students or those on the academic-technical Grade 12 program.

He said all Grade 13 students as well as academic-technical students who are not in the 55 to 65 per cent must write education department examinations.

Bamfield Driver Given $300 Fine

NANAIMO — Oscar Wilfred Shaw, 19, of Bamfield was fined $300 in Nanaimo Magistrate's court on Tuesday on a fifth charge of driving without a licence.

Shaw was charged Monday when he was stopped by police on a routine traffic check.

Court was told that Shaw has four previous charges in Port Alberni and had been involved in two car accidents on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

John Duncan Walker, 53, of no fixed address, was sentenced to a total of nine months in jail after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance while being drunk and to theft. It was stated that Walker was drunk at the Harbor Park shopping centre on Saturday when the disturbance was caused.

He also stole a radio from Capital Trading and Loan Co. in Nanaimo, court was told.

Visitors Brave Weather

NANAIMO — Nanaimo tourist bureau, operated by the chamber of commerce, has experienced a big increase in business this summer in spite of the wet August weather.

Business was up at least 90 per cent, said an official. Figures for July and August show that 8,371 people visited the bureau, compared with 4,573 during the two-month period last year.

During August this year, 1,700 more visitors made enquiries at the bureau than in the same month in 1967.

Most of the enquiries came from Californian and Ontario residents.

More tourists are camping every year, according to bureau information.

There were 2,214 telephone calls were answered by the bureau during July and August.

Trudeau Warning in Vancouver:

Hesitation Can Hurt Unity

Provinces Unnamed, Powers Laid Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday all provinces must participate fully in the review of Canada's constitution if it is to be successful.

"Several provinces have already shown enthusiasm for the review," he told the Canadian Bar Association at its annual convention here. But, "others have appeared more hesitant, reluctant perhaps to embark whole-heartedly on a journey whose destination is uncertain."

Trudeau did not specify what provinces he regarded as hesitant.

In his first public speech since the June 25 general election, the prime minister repeated his view that Canada needs a strong federal government.

He also favored strong provincial governments, but "the fabric of Canadian unity can only be maintained if the essential powers of the government of Canada are maintained."

Among these essential powers, he listed:

- Regulation of economic policy.
- Redistribution of income between persons and between provinces.
- Equalization of opportunity for all Canadians.

Destruction Feared

- Protection of our national identity, both at home and abroad.

"I cannot envisage new constitutional arrangements which will destroy these powers," Trudeau said.

Trudeau said much hard work lies ahead in laying the groundwork for a bilingual state and in re-examining "some of the central institutions of federalism," such as the Senate and the Supreme Court of Canada.

"For this reason, it is of the utmost importance that all governments engage fully in the discussions now under way. If they do not, the discussions will lack meaning, and their conclusions will lack authority.

"Worse still, if some provinces do not take an active part in the very difficult constitutional negotiations ahead, if they disclaim responsibility for the compromises reached, a climate of suspicion and mistrust may be created, which will make it impossible to achieve our common goal of national unity."

Trudeau repeated his hope of meeting the provincial premiers again this year, possibly in December. At the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in February, it was decided that the heads of the federal and provincial governments would meet again periodically to undertake a comprehensive review of the constitution.

Committee at Work

A permanent secretariat was established to serve this continuing conference and a special committee, preparing for the next meeting of the prime minister and the premiers, has also been at work.

Trudeau reiterated his intention to introduce an official languages bill at the next session of Parliament, which begins Sept. 12.

But he dismissed as nonsense "wild charges that the federal government is trying to make it compulsory for Canadians in all parts of the country to speak two languages."

The purpose of the languages bill would be "to ensure that the citizen will be able to use the official language of his choice" in dealing with the federal government. He said several provinces are planning similar steps.

If both major language groups are to have the fullest measure of freedom, "it is essential to work towards a properly functioning bilingual state," he said.

"In such a state, it will be necessary to speak two languages in order to qualify for some positions, just as it is necessary to be a member of the bar to practise law, or to have a driver's licence to drive a taxi.

"But the vast majority of Canadians will probably continue to speak only one language, and they will suffer no penalty.

Expansion Forecast

"On the contrary, whether they speak English or French, they will be able to deal with their governments, educate their children and exercise their full legal rights in their own language.

"This will be a major expansion of the freedom of the individual Canadian."

Trudeau said it may be difficult for an English-speaking Canadian to understand the fuss about language rights, because his right to express himself in his own language is not menaced or even questioned.

Yet, "there is no aspect of a person's life which so deeply and universally affects his feeling of personal freedom as his right to express himself in his own language," the prime minister asserted.

"Sometimes it is difficult for the members of an overwhelming and secure linguistic majority to realize the importance of this feeling.

"As English-speaking Canadians are in no danger of losing the right or the opportunity to use their language, they wonder why French-speaking Canadians are so concerned about such matters. Some of them come to believe that French-speaking Canadians are trying to impose their language on English-speaking Canadians, that they are trying to restrict the freedom of the members of the majority."

Human Rights Wanted In BNA Amendment

VANCOUVER (CP) — A section of the Canadian Bar Association Tuesday passed narrowly a resolution urging Ottawa and the provinces to amend the British North America Act to include a charter of human rights.

The vote was 23 to 20 and the resolution now goes before the association's resolution committee which decides if it will be submitted to a full session of the 2,300-delegate convention Friday.

It was the second important decision at the convention, Monday, after four years of considering the question, the association passed a resolution urging Ottawa to outlaw electronic eavesdropping except where specified by legislation.

Justice Minister Turner told the convention he hopes to tackle the question of legislation about "bugging" early next year.

The resolution dropped recommendations for direct judicial control of electronic eavesdropping. But it urged

All that's left of quake-torn Iranian village of Rejestan

Iranian Toll Passes 11,000

Quakes Spread to Turkey

ISTANBUL (AP) — A strong earthquake struck northwestern Turkey on the Black Sea coast Tuesday, three days after a disastrous quake hit neighboring Iran killing many thousands of persons.

The Turkish interior ministry said at least 15 persons were killed and 300 injured in or near Bartin, a town of 14,300 inhabitants 200 miles northeast of here.

But a spokesman said the death toll might rise substantially when Turkish army rescue crews reach another seven towns and 74 villages in the quake area.

IN WIDE AREA

He said the tremor was felt in a wide area from Sivas, 560 miles southeast of Istanbul, to Edirne, 150 miles west of the capital.

Reports reaching here said 23 homes and a mosque collapsed, three minarets toppled and 106 buildings were heavily damaged in downtown Bartin. The town also had a power failure.

In Iran, meanwhile, rescuers recovered Tuesday the bodies of more than 300 earthquake victims killed when the makeshift hospital in which they were being treated collapsed at Ferdous Sunday.

MORE ESTENSE

Saturday's initial quake claimed 1,500 of Ferdous's townspeople, but officials said the one Sunday was more intense there.

Hit far worse than Ferdous was the prosperous village of Kakhk, where at least 6,000 of the 7,000 population died.

The death toll throughout eastern Iran was estimated officially at 11,000 to 11,600 but Reuters news agency said officials fear the toll will rise to 20,000. Reuters said 50,000 are injured and 100,000 are homeless as aid pours in from many nations.

EPIDEMICS FEARED

Premier Amir Abass Hoveida reported that rescuers were abandoning efforts to recover more bodies because of the danger of epidemics.

He ordered workers to level ruins with bulldozers, leaving the dead buried.

The shah was reported to have directed the government to begin planning for the gradual reconstruction of 50,000 to 60,000 villages, replacing traditional mud-brick houses with homes built of stronger materials.

Strict Censorship in Works

Czech Deputy Resigns —Foreign Chief Next?

From AP, UPI

PRAGUE — Deputy Premier Otto Sik, father of Czechoslovakia's projected economic ties to the West, resigned Tuesday night and it appeared Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek might be the next to go.

Sik, who has been in Yugoslavia since before the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia Aug. 21, was a leader of the forces that ousted hardlining Communist Antonin Novotny as Communist party chief in January.

★ ★ ★

Hajek, also in Yugoslavia Aug. 21, was described by the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia as a man who worked for the Nazis during the Second World War and how is an ally of "the dark forces of reaction and counter-revolution."

Sik

But another article in Izvestia praised present party chief Alexander Dubcek as "a fighting soldier" and President Ludvik Svoboda as "a brave self-controlled officer."

★ ★ ★

And Frantisek Hamouz, newly-installed as deputy premier, said on Radio Prague he hoped Soviet troops would begin leaving "within the next few days" if Czechs stopped harassing them.

Other developments:

- The party elected a new, expanded presidium of 21 members — 10 liberals, two conservatives and nine of unknown leanings.
- Dubcek made a speech to the new presidium, blaming

Invasion Prospects Diminish

Romanians Sleep Better

BUCHAREST (AP)—Prospects of a Soviet invasion of Romania were reported diminishing Tuesday as both sides appeared to have called a truce in their feud over the five-power Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia.

Western diplomats said there was less apprehension in high government and Communist party circles now that the Soviet Union has formally denied rumors about plans for a military intervention.

"It seems that for the time being there are no prospects of an intervention," one diplomat said.

The regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu continued to observe silence in line with its policy of refraining from polemics.

Officials refused to indicate whether the government has received any Soviet assurances of non-intervention since the denials were made public in Washington and Paris.

The Communist-controlled press has toned down criticism of the invasion of Czechoslovakia while maintaining a low-keyed campaign by publishing declarations of support for the Ceausescu regime from party organizations, workers, collective peasants and intellectuals.

One rumor said Moscow, having shelved invasion plans, may decide to demand Warsaw Pact manoeuvres in Romania.

Western sources considered such a move unlikely, at least for the time being. Ceausescu has repeatedly made it clear he is unwilling to let the Russians in by the back door, and the Russians probably would not want to incur a rebuff.

Christmas Greeting

POSTAL BOOSTS LISTED

OTTAWA (CP)—Major changes in postal rates have been scheduled for Nov. 1 and others will be sought as soon as possible in Parliament, Postmaster-General Eric Kierans announced Tuesday.

The November changes bring the cost of a Christmas card to five cents from three cents. Postcards will be five cents instead of four. Biggest increases apply to direct-mail advertising.

The changes by legislation will increase letter rates and mailing costs of newspapers and magazines by unspecified amounts.

Along with the rate increases, new regulations will help speed up mail-room work. Effective Nov. 1, third-class and fourth-class mail will be established on a new basis.

COFFER BOOST

Kierans' statement said the changes will add $17,000,000 to federal revenue in the last five months of the current fiscal year, ending March 31, 1969.

In a full year they will mean an additional $35,000,000 in revenue and make third-class and fourth-class mail pay their way.

Hit hardest are the business firms which advertise heavily by circular.

NEW STANDARD

These circulars, along with Christmas cards and other greeting cards, fall under a new standard rate of five cents for the first two ounces instead of three cents.

The charge for each additional two ounces is increased to three cents from two cents and a weight limit of one pound is imposed.

The third-class bulk rate, for a minimum of 10,000 pieces, increases to four cents for the first two ounces from 2½ cents and for each additional two ounces the rate is doubled to three cents. A one-pound limit is also imposed on bulk mailings.

BOOKS, SAMPLES

Rate changes also apply to third-class samples and books mailed by publishers, book clubs and wholesale and retail distributors.

Postcards, a first-class item now four cents each, go to letter rate.

At present the letter rate is five cents, but there is every indication that letters will go to six cents in the intended government legislation.

HAZY AREA

The changes in classification clear up a hazy area between third-class mail and parcel post mail.

Instead of establishing the difference by the intent of the mailer, third-class mail will be defined as items of third and fourth classes weighing one pound or less. Parcel post items will be those weighing more than one pound.

Most important international rate change is an increase to 10 cents from eight cents in the cost of an air mail letter to the United States. The current rate on U.S. air mail letters addressed to Canada is 10 cents.

Kierans described the changes as "a giant step in long-range planning to move postal rates and mailing regulations from the traditional pattern to a modern commercial concept."

STRIKE ECHO

The increases applying to letter mails, newspapers and magazines would be sought "early" in the new session, he said.

The new structuring of postal rates followed the philosophy of cost recovery. Each class of mail and post office service was expected to pay its own way or accept its fair share of operating costs.

Until the rate changes, the 1968-69 post office deficit had been anticipated at about $60,000,000, taking into account the wage increases established with settlement of the recent postal strike.

Kierans aims to lop $17,000,000

B.C. Getting Another Pulp Mill

Japanese interests are planning a large pulp mill near Ashcroft, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said Tuesday.

He made the announcement after returning from a four-day trip to Japan where he said he had "very favorable meetings" in Tokyo with Daishowa Paper Manufacturing and Marubeni Ida, a major trading company.

The two companies are partners in the venture, he said, but a group of smaller operators in the B.C. Interior would join them.

Traffic Law

Outsiders Still Ticketed

By IAN STREET

Tourists and other motorists from outside B.C. will still face court appearances and fines when most tickets for minor moving traffic offences are abolished throughout the province in 1969.

Superintendent of motor vehicles Ray Hadfield said Tuesday the new law, passed by the legislature last spring and due to come into effect initially in the County of Victoria Oct. 1, would apply only to drivers licensed in B.C.

TRIAL PERIOD

During the trial period, however, when the law will be proclaimed only on southern Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, any B.C. motorist can be issued with a violation notice instead of the regular traffic ticket, and have the minor offence listed on his driving record by the Motor Vehicle Branch.

It is expected that early next year, by which time officials hope the "bugs" in the new system will have been eliminated through the
